[NE]WS BY THE MAIL.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

LONDON, MAY 11.

[illegible] that Mr. Chamberlain is going to spend [Whitsun]tide holidays with Sir William Harcourt [at his] New Forest home, despite the incredulity with [which] it was received at the time of its first appearance, [seems] to be well founded. Sir William and Mr. Chamberlain sit next to one another on the front Opposition bench, and notwithstanding the smart thrusts which have been passing between them in public, it appears that their private relations remain as cordial as ever. Perhaps Mr. Chamberlain does not want to quarrel with Sir William Harcourt, because the versatility of the latter gentleman's political opinions are such that the Radical Unionist leader may cherish hopes of ultimately including him amongst his followers. Those who know Sir William Harcourt privately do not scruple to say that he bitterly repents having miscalculated the way in which the electoral cat would jump at the general election of 1886, and that, though he still champions the cause of the Parnellites to all outward appearance as fervidly as ever, he would be heartily glad of a good chance of going over to the other side. During a private conversation between the two in the House Sir William Harcourt made some allusion to the party he was getting together for the Whitsuntide holidays; and Mr. Chamberlain jocularly reminded him that an invitation was owing to himself. This was at once given and accepted. What adds to the interest of the occurrence is that Lord Randolph Churchill is to be one of the gathering. The noble member for Paddington is on equally friendly terms with both statesmen. Between himself and Sir William Harcourt there is such a strong resemblance in point of character that the Pall Pall Gazette was once moved to declare them the two most unscrupulous politicians of the day. Of the friendship between Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Randolph it is unnecessary to speak; but a remark dropped recently in private conversation by the noble lord seems to show that there is, or has been a union, for political purposes, between them of a stronger nature than has been supposed. Lord Randolph, talking the other day about the severance of his connection with the Ministry 18 months ago, made the candid confession that his plans had miscarried because he "Chamberlain and myself had reckoned without Goschen." This lets us into the secret of an interesting bit of ancient history. Just before Lord Randolph's resignation there were many signs of a community of thought between himself and Mr. Chamberlain, but it was not suspected that the latter was privy to Lord Randolph's unpatriotic attempt to embarrass the Conservative Government at such a critical moment in the fortunes not only of the party but of the country and the Empire. However, neither Lord Randolph Churchill nor Mr. Chamberlain are likely to reckon without Mr. Goschen again.

The great idea of the Gladstonians is that the Liberal Unionist leaders ought either to sit on the back benches or go over to the other side of the House; and there have been repeated attempts by the Gladstonians, men of the stamp of Sir Charles Russell, to come early to the House and take up all the room on the front Opposition bench so as to drive the Liberal Unionists to sit elsewhere. Sir Henry James has more than once been the victim of this manœuvre. The same trick has been tried upon Lord Hartington, but he, being cooler and more composed in his movements, generally surveys the Opposition bench from behind the Speaker's chair before entering the House. If he sees it is full, he goes away and waits until a vacancy occurs, when he quietly lounges in and takes possession of it as if he had only just that moment come down to the House. But Sir Henry James has often gone up to the bench, thinking the Gladstonian occupants would make room for him, and on their refusal to do so has, in sight of the whole House, been forced to take up a back seat. Another Unionist of greater eminence than Sir Henry James who suffers from these unfriendly relations is Mr. John Bright. The right hon. gentleman has scarcely ever been seen in the House during the lifetime of the present Parliament, and his reason for absenting himself is that he fears his presence on the front Opposition bench would give rise to an unfriendly demonstration which would be painful to the feelings of one who grieves so deeply over the division which has arisen between himself and his former colleagues. Mr. Bright now spends most of his afternoons at the club, and has not been seen inside the House of Commons during the present session. It of course follows that the right hon. gentleman's Parliamentary influence is not increased by this isolation.

The Standard of to-day has a few appreciative remarks upon the resolutions of which Mr. W. H. Smith gave notice in the House of Commons last night, authorising the necessary provision for the share of Great Britain in the charges of the Australian fleet. The Ministerial journal regards the partnership now happily to be established between the mother country and the Australasian colonies in naval armaments for the protection of common interests in the Pacific as marking the beginning of a new epoch in the history of the Empire. We may be a long way off, it goes on to say, from the realisation of Imperial federation, but, at the very least, the germ of world-wide co-operation may be held to exist in the present compact. Beyond the substantial addition which the new squadron will make to the collective strength of the Queen's forces, the agreement itself, says the Standard, symbolises a spirit of brotherhood and solidarity which will grow all the stronger for the recognition accorded to it in practice.

The House of Lords is attracting some little attention from members of the House of Commons. A committee of the Upper Chamber is sitting upon some Scotch business, of which the notorious Marquis of Clanricarde is a member. Curious persons from the House of Commons are constantly going in "to have a look at Clanricarde," so that the committee-room is crowded all day long. The most notorious landlord in Ireland is not a man of prepossessing personal appearance. He is thin, pale, and unhealthy looking, and conveys the idea that he cherishes an aversion to clean linen. He takes no active part in the proceedings of the committee, but sits perfectly silent and motionless, though constantly glancing around him with restless eyes.

The severe labours he had to undergo last session have so far told upon the strength of the Speaker that he has early succumbed this year to the toils of his onerous post. He has been absent from the sittings of the House for some time, and his place has been taken by Mr. Courtney, deputy-Speaker and Chairman of Committees, a sturdy Cornishman whom nothing seems to tire. Mr. Courtney has thus had a double dose of duty, for he has presided over the ordinary sittings of the House and taken the chair when it has gone into committee. But the compulsory rising of the House at midnight has prevented him being overworked in the sense in which Mr. Peel was overworked last year.

The Italian Exhibition, the first of its kind held outside the Peninsula, is to be opened to-morrow; and the list of its attractions is such that it cannot fail to hold its own against the three rivals with which it is threatened. It is not unlikely that the ground at Earls Court will be taken up next year with a Spanish Exhibition. The president in London of the Spanish Chamber of Commerce is making inquiries on the subject, and there is a strong disposition on the part of the Spanish Government, to patronise the idea, especially as this year's exhibition at Barcelona will provide abundant material for the purpose. A Spanish exhibition would be as great a novelty as an Italian one, and would be sure to prove a success. It is anticipated that, if held, it would increase the sale of Spanish wines in this country.

The Edinburgh Evening Despatch has returned to the subject of Mrs. Gordon Baillie. The whereabouts of that interesting lady have not been known for some time, but a special representative from the Despatch has discovered her, and is interviewing her for the purpose of ascertaining what she has to say in refutation of the charges brought against her some time ago. The lady's answers, though not deficient in sprightliness and humour, are somewhat lacking in logic and consecutiveness; but the upshot of her defence, so far as it has gone, is that she and Miss Bruce Sutherland are two entirely different persons, instead of being one and the same, as the Despatch has represented. The remainder of the allegations against her she stigmatises as "pure fiction, evolved from the morbid self-consciousness of a journalist in search of a dinner." It cannot be said that Mrs. Gordon Baillie's denials carry with them an air of conviction. It is, however, singular that she and Mr. Frost, who appears to be her husband, vice Mr. Knight Aston, or Aird White, seem to be possessed of ample funds. The representative of the Despatch found them living in good style in comfortably-furnished lodgings.

The autobiography of Mr. G. A. Sala is announced to appear early in the autumn. As Mr. Sala has spent nearly all the working portion of his life amongst the literary circles of the metropolis, he ought to have some interesting tales to tell us.

The multiplication of clubs in London is exercising an injurious effect upon many of the older institutions, which are complaining of diminishing subscriptions and a dwindling membership roll. Amongst those who are understood to be suffering in this way is White's, in St. James's-street, once one of the most famous clubs of the metropolis. For nearly a century it stood at the head of London clubs as the resort of men of fashion; and, in bygone days, when gambling was the rage, many a fortune was won and lost within its walls. The present Duke of Portland owes not a little of his wealth to the success which attended the card and dice playing skill of one of his maternal ancestors in the last century.

There are rumours of serious differences of opinion amongst the heads of both the Admiralty and the War Offices and the permanent officials of those departments. Neither Mr. Stanhope nor Lord George Hamilton gets along very well with his subordinates. It is especially unfortunate that such a state of things should exist at the present moment, for public opinion is being roused to a very uneasy state of feeling respecting the adequacy and efficiency of our national defences. Both the Admiralty and the War Offices are, to a great extent, on their trial. The service members of the House are promoting a big meeting to be held in the city next Tuesday to bring home clearly to the public mind the unsatisfactory state of the defences of the country; and they also contemplate a campaign in the provinces for the same end. Mr. Stanhope told a deputation which waited on him a day or two ago that a complete scheme had been drawn up for the defence of London, which would be put in hand at once; and that active measures were being taken to place the important ports and vital portions of the Empire in a condition of safety. But the general tenor of his speech is not considered to be as satisfactory as it might be, and hence the service members are determined to press their views unceasingly upon both Parliament and the public. Lord Alcester and Lord Charles Beresford will take a prominent part in the agitation so far as it relates to naval affairs, and it is understood that Lord Wolseley and General Hamley will deal with the state of the army.

The advocates of disestablishment are dissatisfied with the way in which their project is being eclipsed by the all-shadowing importance of the Irish question. They have sent round a circular to those members of Parliament who support, or are believed to support, their views, recommending that steps be taken to bring the Disestablishment question more prominently forward. The replies vouchsafed to this circular have not been couched in a favourable vein. None of the Liberal Unionists will countenance a movement in this direction; and it is the general opinion in Parliament that it would be useless to try and push the subject at the present time.

Rubinstein is to pay a visit to the United States during the present year. He is to be paid £20,000 and all expenses for a series of 50 performances.

In spite of the doleful predictions which were heard at the beginning of the year, the London season is proving a very successful one. Although the Court party are not doing much, independent members of the aristocracy are exerting themselves with great energy, and this week there have been an unusual number of fashionable entertainments. Lady Hayter, Lady Trevelyan, Lady Wimborne (a sister of Lord Randolph Churchill), and Sir Samuel Wilson, have all thrown open their splendid houses to the gay world. Perhaps the dull, uneventful tenor of political life has something to do with the brilliancy of the social season; for if people are gathered together in London, they must have something to occupy their minds and take up their time. Even Lord Randolph Churchill, who is not a social man in the fashionable acceptation of the term, has been at several festive functions lately.

NEGLECT IN HYDE PARK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The frequent visitor to Hyde Park has observed with regret that the flower-beds do not appear to be as well cared for this year as in previous seasons. Large numbers of the roses have been allowed to waste their strength in lengthy stems, while the annuals have not been kept within bounds, but have grown in huge straggling patches over the bed borders. The camelias also appear to lack vigour enough to bring their many blossoms to maturity, and begin to wither before the buds have fully opened. The roses evidently require considerable pruning, and the camelias some manure, while care should be taken to sow only dwarf annuals, and these in small patches. Many others of the varied plants in this charming park would be the better of a cutting down, and would grow all the stronger afterwards. If the apparent neglect of the flower-beds is owing to a reduced outlay on the park, it is surely very odd to see fresh beds being planned and prepared. A few flowers well kept are preferable to a multitude growing in neglected luxuriance. Trusting the overseers of this beautiful reserve may take a friendly hint.

I am, &c., AEDILE.

AS YOU LIKE IT.

"Ay, marry! now unmuzzle your wisdom."—ROSALIND.

I have been informed on good authority, and verily believe, that the amendments made by the Legislative Council in the Chinese Restriction Bill were the result of a conference of the members of that Chamber. In that case, those amendments might have been telegraphed to the Secretary of State before his speech in the House of Lords on the 8th instant. But it is far more reasonable to infer that the bill to which Lord Knutsford has given his Excellency carte blanche to attach her Majesty's "sic volo" is the bill of which the contents must have been telegraphed to England after it had emerged from the enthusiasts of the Assembly—the bill which the Chinese anti-leaguers were so passionately enamoured of, doubtless because it promised a big row between the two Chambers, and a bigger row at the other end of the world. If this be so, the position of the Legislative Assembly majority is correspondingly strengthened in its probable resistance to the Council's amendments. I take it, therefore, to be on the cards that Sir Henry Parkes will be expected to take his stand on the bill, the whole bill, and nothing but the bill; and that the Council, after decently demurring, will be expected not to persist. But the bill, when assented to by the Governor, may be disallowed any time within two years after its receipt by the Secretary of State for the Colonies—who may or may not be Lord Knutsford. The disallowance (suppose it to be disallowed) takes effect on the day when it is announced in Parliament or in the Government Gazette. So that, after all, even supposing the worst, "Parkes's Purge" may operate on China and Chinamen for 18 months or thereabouts. But, with serious troubles ahead, arising out of treaty difficulties, or war complications, or heavy demands for compensation out of the Imperial money chest, the "Purge" may be superseded in a few weeks by that old Chinese prescription which all sensible men say was quite drastic enough if only it had been taken by the patient.

To me it seems very much like Imperial "Opportunism" in extremis for Lord Knutsford to tell his viceregal agent to pass this Chinese Bill out of deference to the masses who make rows and intimidate their representatives, and not to bother about reserving it. "Sufficient to the day is the evil thereof." Pass the wine, and pass on the trouble. Who knows whether Mr. Gladstone won't be in power six months hence, so why not leave him this Chinese nut to crack? Occupet extremus scabies." We have had this kind of paltering with nasty questions ourselves not infrequently; but we certainly expected different things from Lord Salisbury. To my mind this declaration of Lord Salisbury's colleague at the Colonial Office is a shameful dereliction of duty. It is as if a debtor were to fob off an importunate dun by giving a post-dated cheque which he could stop at the bank if so minded. For what else is this instruction to Lord Carrington to assent to the Chinese Bill and have done with it—for the time—leaving it to the acceptor of the bill at the other end to dishonour it at his leisure? And consider for a moment what shameful complications and repudiations may result from "legislation" of this kind. And who is to pay the compensation which the Parkes Bill repudiates, and the Council's Bill acknowledges, in case the bill as assented to is disallowed when it is found convenient to the British Government to take that step? A problem dodged is not solved. And the Colonial Office, now so dangerously complaisant to our hysterical Government and its ruling masses, may be just as complaisant in a few months to the Court of Pekin.

On behalf of the Social Puritans and their method of discovering social impurity, Messrs. Turnbull and Ardill, officers of the society, in a letter published in Monday's Herald, justify their action in the Castlereagh-street case on the ground that in the suppression of social impurity it is often necessary to resort to espionage, just as espionage is used by the police and detectives in discovering crime which otherwise would be unchecked and unpunished. "Few convictions (add these gentlemen) have been obtained because of the difficulty of legal proof, and apart from such espionage it would almost be impossible to convict the offenders." It is hardly necessary to waste much time over this absurd plea of the Social Puritans. The fact that the jury in the last case, in the teeth of Peeping Toms and auger holes, acquitted the defendant ought to bring conviction on this point; and if the society initiate any more prosecutions on the same kind of evidence it is certain that juries will refuse to convict just as they did in Stewart's case. There is no doubt that for many years certain tobacconists' shops have fulfilled the same purposes in Sydney as they have elsewhere, and though the "red number" is not attached to them, the business they do is well known, and is not without influential patronage. It is a sad thing, one must admit, but no espionage will eradicate it. I am afraid it is one of those blemishes on big cities which must be left to educative agencies.

But besides the impotency of prosecutions founded on the evidence of Puritan Peeping Toms, or amateur detectives engaged by them to obtain evidence through perforations in party walls or partitions, there are two sturdy objections to the procedure defended by Messrs. Turnbull and Ardill. It is a common law maxim that every man's house is his castle; but what defence is a man's "castle" to him if any number of moral special constables be encouraged and allowed to bore holes through his party walls, and spend days and nights examining his domestic ménage like so many unattached astronomers observing the transit of Venus? On this point I should like to take the opinion of the Full Court whether it is not a trespass to pry through a party wall into the doings of a family (of course not a Chinese family) on the other side. And pending an answer to my inquiry I would point out a collateral objection to the practice which ought to give some of these volunteer inspectors pause. People who live in "partitioned" houses will now take some pains not only to shut their shutters, but to examine their walls for auger-holes. They will not be particular how they carry out the operation. A penknife or a bradawl makes a very good probe for this purpose. And some day we shall find, to our astonishment, that one of the marks of a social puritan is the loss of an eye.

Have our brewers begun to use "Saccharine" yet? Saccharine is a very interesting and important substance, which, though extracted from coal tar, is really some hundred times sweeter than sugar. Though a recent discovery the European brewers have already pounced upon it, for it preserves very thin beers during warm weather, and has the extraordinary property of making light beer taste like strong ale. It has so many good properties in one aspect, and one or two such very detrimental qualities in another, that the English Legislature has thought it desirable to prohibit its use in the manufacture of excisable liquors. Its worst quality seems to be that it is capable of substituting itself for sugar, and so causing a loss in brewing alone of about a million sterling to the British revenue. A few weeks ago, in the House of Commons, there ensued a sort of triangular dispute as to the virtues and vices of "Saccharine" between Mr. Goschen, Mr. Gladstone, and Sir L. Playfair, in which the Government won, and "Saccharine" for the present stands discredited. Mr. Goschen was particularly rough on the new substance. He was as austere on saccharine as a local optionist prohibitioner here would be on alcohol. "It had no life-preserving qualities," said Mr. Goschen, "while sugar had. Therefore it seemed to him that while the beer-drinker believed he was drinking something which would do him good, practically he was taking something which was not in the slightest degree sustaining. Therefore, it was not too strong a word to employ to say that the use of saccharine in the brewing of beer was a fraud on the beer-drinker." After this appeal to the sacred "Beer-drinker," in spite of protests by Sir H. Roscoe and Dr. Farquharson, it should not be matter for astonishment that "saccharine" was kept out of British beer for the present by a large majority.

MEETINGS.

NEW SOUTH WALES DEFENCES ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the New South Wales Defences Association was help at the offices of Messrs. Johnson and Addy, Hunter-street, last evening, Mr. W. T. Poole, president, being in the chair. There was a moderate attendance. The chief business before the meeting was the reading by Mr. C. J. Penprase of a paper on "A Limited and Modified System of Compulsory Military Service applicable to the Defence of this Colony."

Mr. PENPRASE said the important question of the defence of this colony against an attack and invasion by a hostile force was, and indeed had always been, a matter of no small concern to many thoughtful minds. But this consideration and real anxiety on the part of individuals had never yet exerted that influence, that unity of common purpose, to move the heart of the country to take what he was convinced were the necessary steps, not only to cope with invasion, but in fact to absolutely deter aggression from a common foe or foes. Pending the adoption, or indeed the promulgation, of any scheme for the defence of the Australasian colonies as a whole, might they not confine themselves on this particular to the probable needs of the parent colony of the group? An uneasy feeling told pretty strongly that New South Wales had in many matters not acted up to a very high standard of maternal duty. Up to a certain stage in our history, even up to the withdrawal of the British troops in 1870, the colony acted such an unimportant part in the world's concerns that our advisers and governors might well be pardoned for any lack of inclination in providing for an efficient defence of this country. He was aware that a volunteer force had an ephemeral existence from its inception in 1854 up to the year 1867. An unprepared and incomplete system of self-defence might subject us to spoliation, and to a foreign domination of the most terrible character. The Imperial naval force was, of course, our first line of defence, backed up by our harbour defences. But the entrance to Port Jackson was not the only means of access to the city of Sydney. The capital might be attacked from other points. What were our military, our shore, preparations to meet the enemy? The first step would be the mobilisation of our forces. But when? After the hostile force had commenced its march on Sydney? It was understood, of course, that the authorities had a scheme for the mobilisation, but what guarantee was there that it was a perfect one? After having described the apathy which appeared to exist with regard to danger from invasion, he went on to explain that this was in consequence of the immunity from invasion experienced by our race during the last century. What we wanted to do in this colony was to follow the example of England and establish a voluntary service. He ventured to think that real security could only be obtained by a limited and modified form of compulsory military service. The military authorities assumed that at the age of 18 youths were in a general way deemed suitable to join the service, and it was at this age he submitted the youth of this colony should be compelled to give a portion of their time to the military service of the commonwealth. Annually rather more than 7500 of the youths of this colony attained the age referred to; that number then being available was the principle of the system of a limited compulsory military service. The service should extend over a period of three years. In the first year the training should be of a month's duration, in the second year it should be for a similar period, and in the third year 14 days. He was quite sure the youth of this colony, under proper instructors, could be taught squad and company drill within the time specified for the first year's training. By a wise ordinance in force in the Public schools of the colony, the lads were taught the elements of military drill. In a way the colony was mapped out in military districts, and there were suitable centres for the assembling and training of a national force, and each district could assemble consecutively for training. He considered that in the third year there might be a force of 3750 men, or 15,000 men in all, always at the call of the Government in case of necessity, and supplemented by 7500 recruits coming forward in each successive year. At the end of five years New South Wales would have a force of 30,000 men in the prime of life available for the defence of the colony. In conclusion, the objection to such a system—viz., the withdrawal of so many youths from their usual occupations—was dealt with, and some information respecting the army of the Great Republic was given. The military expenditure of the colony was also dealt with.

A short discussion followed, but owing to the lateness of the hour it was decided to postpone the further consideration of the paper until the next meeting of the association.

MICROSCOPICAL SECTION OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

On Monday evening last the microscopical section of the Royal Society held its second regular monthly meeting of the session. Mr. F. B. Kyngdon was in the chair, and among the visitors were Dr. Bancroft, of Queensland, and Mr. Pearson, one of the Victorian representatives on the Rabbit Commission. Mr. Mac Donnell exhibited two species of Caprellae, or small shrimp, with numerous diatoms firmly attached. Dr. Wright exhibited some more very excellent micro-photographs, showing views of podura scale and other test objects, taken with an admirable twenty-fifth inch oil immersion lens by Tolles. Dr. Sinclair showed a new form of microscope by Leiss, fitted with an Abbé condenser, and which possessed many excellent features. Mr. Edmunds exhibited several forms of micrometer eyepieces, and also the original immersion paraboloid illuminator devised by Dr. James Edmunds, of London. The object of this illuminator is to present a black background with the highest powers, and to render the object apparently incandescent by illuminating it from all sides. As it acts by reflection from one surface only, it obviates loss of light and chromatism.

THE ECONOMIC ASSOCIATION.

The ninth and final meeting of the current session of the Economic Association was held last evening at the rooms, Jameson-street -Mr. Richard Teece in the chair. A lengthy paper on "Unproductive Consumption," by Mr. M. Sinnmatt, was read by that gentleman, and the discussion upon the paper was fixed for the next meeting of the association. The discussion on Mr. F. Bevill's paper, "Volapük," read at last meeting, was then opened by Mr. Liggins, who said that it raised a presumption in favour of Volapük that it should have been the occasion of so lucid and interesting an exposition by Mr. Bevill at their last meeting. It was a very fair exposition of the principles of the new language, but the question arose whether it was likely to become universal, or at any rate whether it was destined to become the written means of mercantile communication? The classes of commercial houses that traded with foreign countries might be broadly divided into three, but they knew that in commercial houses of that kind the language of the foreign country with which they traded was mastered by the employees, so that there would be no difficulty in regard to business transactions. If an universal language was wanted at all it was required for speech as well as for writing, and he questioned whether it would be worth while to learn a language which would be merely the language of the shop, and not one of general utility. Mr. Simmat thought that any such claim as that Volapük would become universal might be put on one side at once, and even Mr. Bevill did not go so far as to say that he agreed with the author in that respect. But he thought it was destined to become the medium of exchange between foreign countries, and he contended that it had certain advantages which could not be got rid of by any specious reasoning whatever. For his own part he put Volapük on one side in the same way as they did decimal coinage and phonetic spelling, which while very good in their way, did not receive general acceptation. After some brief remarks from Messrs. Carment and Gelling, the chairman said it appeared to him that Mr. Bevill was not likely to obtain much sympathy with regard to Volapük. In the first place, he was a student, and therefore imperfectly acquainted with the arcana of the language; and secondly, the language was likely to suffer very much from the extravagant predictions as to its future. It might be highly probable that considerable use would be made of it as a means of commercial communication, but he did not think it would be useful for any other purpose whatever. He was quite sure, however, that the paper would not be without its use, and no doubt the members were all gratified that it had been brought before them.

HOSPITAL FOR SICK CHILDREN.

The monthly meeting of the board of the Hospital for Sick Children was held on Monday afternoon. The president (Mr. Justice Stephen) occupied the chair, and there were also present—Lady Allen, Mesdames Littlejohn, See, Mort, Addison, Fraser, Hunter Baillie, Thomson, Gilles, Marks, Griffiths, Miss Mackie, Mr. Hammond, Drs. Anderson Stuart, Skirving, and Clubbe, and the honorary secretary. The house committee's report showed that during the month of May there had been admitted 21, discharged 21, deaths 5, and that there were remaining in hospital 36. This report further stated that the ward visitors of the committee and the visitors from the board for the month had found things satisfactory on their visits, and that the staff was working harmoniously. The hon. treasurer's report showed a credit balance of £715 5s. A gift of a handsome board for the names of benefactors from Mr. Alexander Dean, and a promise of the gilt lettering to same from Mr. A. Robbie, were reported, and votes of thanks were passed to both donors. A donation of £5 was reported, being the result of the settlement of a dispute in reference to a theatre seat. A letter was received from Mrs. G. C. Westgarth, conveying the resignation of her seat upon the board, in consequence of continued ill-health, which was regretfully accepted. A letter was received from the house-surgeon, resigning his position, in consequence of his leaving for the country: the hon. medical staff were empowered to fill the vacancy thus caused. Dr. Clubbe moved a resolution affirming the desirability of endeavouring to obtain a new site in a more healthy locality for the erection of a hospital suited to the requirements of the institution, which motion he subsequently postponed until next meeting to afford the opportunity for a sub-committee to report upon possible sites. Dr. Anderson Stuart, to afford fuller consideration to the question, then gave notice of a motion for next meeting, having in view the appointment of a committee to confer with the board of the Prince Alfred Hospital as to the possibility of working somewhat in connection with that institution.

BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

The monthly meeting of the above society was held at the Asylum yesterday, there being present the Hon. Dr. Renwick (president), Messrs. J. Roseby (vice-president), I. J. Josephson (hon. secretary), H. Hargreaves, G. E. Crane, H. W. Hammond, George Renwick, the manager (Mr. E. Maxted), medical officer (Dr. Warren), and outdoor inspector (Mr. J. Grant). After the reading of the minutes the house statistics were submitted, from which it appeared that 33 women and 27 children had been admitted during the month, 21 births had taken place, and 27 women and 74 children had been discharged, leaving a total in the institution at the end of May of 94 women and 139 children. According to the outdoor relief returns 9649 loaves of bread, 6714lb. flour, 3041lb. meat, 700lb. tea, 508lb. sago, 1011lb. rice, 799lb. oatmeal, were issued to the poor, exclusive of the allowances for rent; the total expenditure of this particular department amounting to £486 7s. 4d. The library return showed that 51 books had been read by the inmates. Salaries and accounts amounting to £772 2s. were passed for payment, and it was reported that the subscriptions received by the collector amounted to £105 9s. 6d. The medical report detailed the various diseases and affections treated, and stated that 21 children were born and that 11 deaths had taken place. After the transaction of some formal matters the meeting closed, and the house committee sat.

An anniversary meeting in connection with the Sunday school associated with the Congregational Church, Point Piper-road, Woollahra, was held in the school hall last evening, when there was a fairly large muster of the pupils, their parents, and friends. Shortly before 8 o'clock the chair was taken by Mr. James R. Fairfax, who, after a hymn had been sung, took the opportunity to congratulate the teachers, on behalf of the deacons, upon the success of the past year's work. He remarked that he was pleased to see that the school kept up its numerical strength, and urged the teachers to seek the guidance and aid of the Almighty in carrying out the important work which they had in hand. As the church was at the present time without a pastor there was the greater need for this. It was also necessary that the elder scholars should support the teachers in their efforts, and it was through their agency that the younger ones would be beneficially influenced. The chairman then called for the secretary's report, which, in the absence of Mr. Holmes through illness, was read by Mr. Betts. It was mentioned in the report that although some scholars had removed to a different neighbourhood, their places in the school had been filled by fresh arrivals, and that though the average attendance for last year was not so large as that of the preceding year, it was still very encouraging. The library had been reorganised, and had been kindly augmented by 50 new volumes by a friend. A handsome text, the work of an invalid, had also been received as a gift. The treasurer, Mr. F. Hall, read a satisfactory financial statement, which, in conjunction with the report, was adopted with acclamation. The Rev. W. C. Robinson afterwards addressed the gathering, and was followed by Mr. R. T. Orr, Mr. Mould, Mr. T. Pratt, Mr. J. Sands, and Mr. H. Richardson, superintendent of the school. During an interval refreshments were served, and a collection was taken up. Mr. Stewart presided at the harmonium.

A tea and public meeting was held at the Bourke-street Congregational Church last night, in continuation of the services which were held last Sunday to commemorate the opening of the new organ. After the tea meeting a public meeting was held. The Rev. Mr. Hill presided, and there was a large attendance. Several selections on the new organ were given by Messrs. T. Sharp, M.C.O., and A. G. A. Flower, and a hymn was sung by Miss M'Manamey. Mrs. Sharp, after a few introductory words, presented, on behalf of the Misses Baxter, the deed of gift and the key of the organ to the senior deacon, who returned thanks on behalf of the church generally to the kind donors. The Rev. Dr. Jefferis, LL.D., chairman of the Congregational Union of New South Wales, said that he was very glad to be able, in his official capacity, to offer thanks for the united Congregational Churches of the colony to the kind ladies who had so generously come forward with this grand gift. The Revs. Mr. Dyason and Mr. Campbell also spoke. A vote of thanks to the ladies who provided the tea, and to others, was passed by acclamation, and the benediction brought the proceedings to a close.

A meeting of the congregation of St. James's Church, Sydney, was held in the Parish-hall, Phillip-street, last evening. The chair was taken by Mr. William E. Kemp, and there was rather a limited attendance. The object of the meeting, as set forth in a circular, was to discuss the position of the finances and affairs of the church. The chairman fully explained the financial condition of the church, and a discussion ensued on the best means to employ in the liquidation of the debt of £642 due by the church. Ultimately it was resolved, on the motion of Mr. Peters, seconded by Mr. Hall, "That printed lists be signed by the warden, soliciting subscriptions towards relinquishing the present debt due upon the church." On the motion of Mr. Southwick, seconded by Mr. Wills, it was decided "That printed forms be left in the pews, inviting special subscriptions." A subscription list was opened in the room, and a considerable sum was raised. The meeting then adjourned for a fortnight.

On Wednesday afternoon, the 6th instant, the Women's Christian Temperance Union held their monthly meeting, the president in the chair, who spoke of the prosperity of the branch unions in different parts; also that a gentleman at Macdonaldtown had offered the use of a room and to call a public meeting if a branch could be opened there, which it was thought expedient to do, and Friday, the 15th, was accordingly fixed for the meeting. The matter of the soup-room was discussed, but the difficulty of finding a suitable room seemed to be the great drawback. The president spoke of the one at Stanmore having been the means of saving one woman from drink. The barmaids' petition was again in agitation, and means devised to bring it more effectually into notice.

The Local Option League Committee met at their rooms yesterday afternoon, the chairman being Mr. G. H. Wigley. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Correspondence was received from various quarters. Touching the agitation in England, a resolution was unanimously passed, expressing much satisfaction at the determined and general opposition by persons of all political parties in the United Kingdom to the compensation clauses in the Local Government Bill introduced by the British Government. Some routine business was transacted. Mr. N. B. Downing was then requested to give a report of his mission at Bathurst and Orange, from which districts he had just returned. At Bathurst an influential branch of the league was formed, amongst its members being the Dean of Bathurst, Rev. E. Price, and other clergymen. At the first place the meetings were well attended by many leading townsmen. An energetic branch was inaugurated, among its members there being the Dean of Bathurst, Rev. E. Price, and several clergy, Mr. Halliday, president of the Protection League, Mr. J. S. Adam, Mr. W. W. H. Paul, &c., and many of the influential ladies. The meetings at Orange resulted in the establishment of a branch there. The Hon. A. Kerr, Mr. Flanagan, Mayor of the town' Mr. Pearce, Mr. J. M. Paul, and others joining. Not only this but handsome donations were given, and continuous support promised. Altogether the mission was a great success, and Mr. Downing was complimented by the commitee for the energy he displayed on behalf of the league. In response to an urgent appeal from the Richmond River Local Optionists, it was decided to start Mr. Downing off to-morrow to that district, where preparations have for some time past been made for his mission amongst the inhabitants

The monthly meeting of the board of the New South Wales Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind was held at the institution on Monday afternoon. Present—The Hon. Dr. Renwick, M.L.C., president, in the chair; Mr. Robt. Hills, hon. treasurer; Mr. Ellis Robinson, hon. secretary; and Mr. J. S. Harrison. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, and accounts and salaries amounting to £702 13s. 1d. were ordered to be paid. The following receipts since previous meeting were reported:—Subscriptions, £133 14s. 6d.; school fees, £12 5s.; and a legacy of £9 13s. 1d. from the estate of the late Jas. M'Donald. The hon. secretary notified that a very successful musical entertainment was given in the large hall of the institution on the 4th instant, and that the sum of £13 was collected in aid of the musical instrument fund. It was resolved that a hearty vote of thanks be accorded to the ladies and gentlemen who had so kindly volunteered their services for the occasion. In connection with this the hon. sec. stated that Mr. Rivers Allpress had very generously offered to give lessons on the violin to two of the blind pupils free of charge. The offer was gratefully accepted, and the hon. secretary was instructed to convey the warmest thanks of the board to Mr. Allpress for his kindness. The question of the higher education of the blind was discussed, and it was resolved to have a meeting of the sub-committee appointed to deal with this matter on an early date. A letter was submitted from Mrs. Admiral Fairfax, asking for an exhibit of type-writing for the Women's Industrial Exhibition. Agreed to. Applications for the admission of two deaf and dumb children were received and sanctioned. The hon. secretary reported the admission of one deaf and dumb child since the previous meeting, and the discharge of another who had gone to Melbourne with his parents. It was decided that the mid-winter holidays should commence on the 6th and terminate on the 16th July.

There was a good attendance at the School of Arts last evening at the monthly meeting of the Horticultural Society of New South Wales. Mr. F. Turner presided. Messrs. Searl and Sons, the well-known florists, staged a fine collection of 24 superb plants, among which were the following:—Stevensonia grandiflora—Croton Morti: Caladiums, several new varieties recently imported; Dieffen bachial, several sorts; and some fine cinerarias in full flower, which were remarked as being very early. Mr. Ford (gardener to Mrs. Marks, of Glenrock), exhibited a collection cut camellias, including Alba plena, Fimbriata alba, Iovan, Eleanor, and Silena, and a fine spike of Urceolua aurea. These plants and flowers were described by Mr. Turner; and Mr. Goodhew exhibited a few cut flowers grown in the University Gardens. Mr. C. Bennett read a short paper on "Gardeners' Friends," being the sequel to a paper on "Gardeners' Pests," already read. He included earthworms and certain insects, particularly the lady bird, among the friends gardeners possessed. He alluded to their habits and peculiarities, which, although by some considered harmful, were productive of good. He thought ants did more good than harm to flowers. At the conclusion of the reading, the chairman invited discussion thereon. Mr. A. Howlison and others offered a few remarks. The chairman announced that, with a view to encourage amateurs to read papers at the monthly meetings, Captain Broomfield, one of the vice-presidents of the society, had offered a prize of £2 2s for the best paper read during the ensuing year. Full information regarding the conditions under which the prize was to be given, he said, could be obtained from the secretary. A vote of thanks having been passed to Mr. Bennett, the meeting adjourned.

THE MAYOR'S HALF-YEARLY STATEMENT.

We have been favoured with a copy of the half-yearly statement of the Mayor (Alderman John Harris), which was submitted to the quarterly meeting of the City Council, held on Saturday last. The Mayor reported that, in accordance with his pledge to the council upon assuming office, he appointed two auditors to make special audit of all accounts since 1879 up to date. He also inspected the various works being carried out under resolution of council, visited all corporation depots where materials, &c., were stored, and examined and inquired into the working of the several departments. He observed that some of the departments were managed in an unbusiness-like way, notably the city architect's and city engineer's departments. The former—supervised by Mr. George M'Rae, who had only been in office for a short time—was a perfect medley of bad management. The city architect, in fact, complained that the affairs of the department were in such a state that he was overwhelmed in his attempt at reorganisation. He (the Mayor) submitted a system which he considered would remove the so-called insuperable difficulties, to which Mr. M'Rae added necessary details, and by its adoption had been enabled to place his department on a proper basis. The Mayor regretted that the city engineer entirely ignored his instructions, consequently he (the Mayor) could not hope for the necessary and desirable improvement in that department. The Mayor appointed Mr. T. A. Playfair comptroller and general supervisor of water and sewerage works in the City Engineer's Department, and subsequently recommended the immediate dismissal of the whole staff of the department and the appointment of a thoroughly capable staff, so that the business would be conducted with credit to the institution. On March 9, 1888, the Mayor received from the special auditors a progress report stating that defalcations had been discovered in the accounts of the City Engineer's Department up to date amounting to £19,000. They further represented that had the responsible officers performed their simplest duty by glancing at the vouchers they each signed on account of articles supplied, the frauds would have been detected; but neglecting so to do, their carelessness favoured the defrauders in their "nefarious scheme." It had since been reported that in that department alone the frauds exceeded £29,000. During the year 1880 a firm then trading as Bradford Brothers became contractors for the supply of castings to the Municipal Council of Sydney. From that time until 1886 the firm uninterruptedly continued in contract, and systematically defrauded the council by undue charges, falsifications, &c., and so obtained the aforesaid sum. One Bradford, and Forbes, the bookkeeper of the firm, were, upon trial, convicted of having conspired to defraud. There was at that time, and now is, a regulation that all contractors and other claimants must forward their accounts not later than 11 a.m. on Tuesday, so that they may be duly examined and certified before the meeting of finance committee, held on the Thursday following. This rule was, during the currency of the frauds, strictly enforced with all contractors save Bradford Brothers, who were accustomed to present their accounts for certificate on Thursday, the day of meeting, and generally while the committee was sitting; also all signatures of officer were obtained by the contractors personally, which irregularity is inexcusable and unaccountable, especially as other contractors did not enjoy the privileges. Again, the Council, by resolution, on the motion of Mr. Alderman J. D. Young, excluded Bradford Bros. from tendering for municipal supplies for a term of two years, in view of certain events with which they were identified. This deprivation was overcome by employment of persons called Toner and Taylor, trading as such, but virtually Bradford Brothers. This fact was within Jones's knowledge and with his consent, and upon his orders articles were supplied by the said Toner and Taylor to the Municipal Council of Sydney. In 1886, when Pope and Maher were the contractors for the supply of castings, Jones had all large and best-paying castings supplied by Bradford Brothers, while the small work was performed by the contractors, Pope and Maher. In one instance an account for £294 was paid for goods said to have been supplied in February, whereas the requisition was not issued until March following, and even so, the articles were not supplied; it is also reported that castings were supplied at certain rates, but not in accordance with those named in schedule of contract, the same being increased as the defaulters thought convenient; the weights and number of articles were also fraudulently multiplied for simplification of their purposes. Embodied in this part of the Mayor's statement were copies of certain documents which illustrated the way in which the frauds upon the Council had been perpetrated. Notwithstanding all the methods of fraud employed, the accounts were duly signed and certified as goods having been supplied at contract rates and at the lowest possible price for which at that time they could have been obtained, and that the amounts charged, additions, weights, &c., &c., were correct. If an officer had examined any of the accounts claiming various sums fraudulently, in this simple performance of duty, as before stated, the perpetration of fraud would have been averted. Upon inspecting the stores at the depots, the Mayor found large quantities of materials for wood-paving stored at Kent-street, and as there was still about £75,000 available from the streets loan fund he instructed the City Surveyor to prepare plans, specifications, &c., so that tenders might be at once invited for the wood-paving of about 60,000 square yards of roadway, which area would use up all blocks now in stock, together with those to be supplied under present contract. The council was about to consider the borrowing of one million sterling, but he would like to point out that in the proposed loan provision had not been made for the payment of the sinking funds, and that the interest accumulating upon these loans, estimated at current rates, together with the payment of sinking fund, would involve an expenditure of over £70,000. The council would not in the future receive water and sewerage rates, and in view of this change the Mayor had instructed the city treasurer to report as to what extent the city finances would be affected in the payment of the new loan should it be floated. At present £42,000 per annum was paid to the sinking funds and interest on the loans negotiated for various purposes. Although the Mayor had, in conjunction with the city solicitor, prepared all the necessary amendments and additional provisions for a new Corporation Act, he regretted that the draft bill was not sufficiently advanced to present at this meeting, but he hoped to submit the same for discussion at an early date. Provision had been made in the bill to empower the council to borrow money, to purchase land or other property, or to effect any work they might deem necessary for city improvement. Notwithstanding that the Mayor had reduced the expenditure nearly £20,000 per annum, the overdraft was increasing. This statement called for immediate attention and consideration. He could effect further reductions in the labour staff if the council deemed it imperative, but he had refrained from so doing as there was so much distress already among the unemployed; and further it must be borne in mind that about one-third of the rates are charged with paying interest and sinking funds of loans.

HUNTER RIVER AGRICULTURAL AND HORTICULTURAL ASSOCIATION.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

WEST MAITLAND, TUESDAY.

A meeting of the committee of the Hunter River Agricultural and Horticultural Association was held at Main's Excelsior Hotel yesterday afternoon. Mr. Robert Scobie, vice-president, was in the chair. It was decided to hold the annual ploughing matches on Thursday, 5th July, and a sub-committee was appointed to choose a place for holding the matches and make the necessary arrangements in connection therewith. It was determined to dispense with the mowing matches this year on account of the difficulty of getting lucerne suitable for the purpose. The chairman submitted a report from the sub-committee appointed to consider the advisability of having a show of poultry and pigeons in connection with the annual flower show, which recommended that prizes not exceeding £50 be offered for poultry and pigeons, and that the show be opened two days, Thursday and Friday. The report was adopted. Mr. Hamilton Blair stated that 10 special prizes would be offered in this department of the show as soon as the committee moved in the matter. He thought it was a step in the right direction, as a good deal of interest was being manifested in poultry-raising in the district. A sub-committee, consisting of Dr. Wright, Messrs. H. Blair, B. Long, Theo. Marsh, and J. W. Pender, was appointed to arrange a schedule of prizes, to be submitted to the next general meeting. The meeting adjourned for a fortnight.

COMET SAWERTHAL, 1888.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—This is the comet which appeared as a rather conspicuous object to the unassisted eye in the morning skies of February and March last. It was detected by Sawerthal, one of the assistants at the Royal Observatory of the Cape of Good Hope, in the morning of February 19, and its discovery was forthwith telegraphed to all the stations where it would be likely to be observed. An excellent series of positions was obtained here with the 8-inch equatorial, extending from February 27 to April 2, and forwarded to the Royal Observatory, Kiel, in three instalments. The first instalment was published in the Astronomische Nachrichten for April 16, and the second in that for April 30. The latter number of the periodical has just come to hand. It contains a preliminary investigation of the elliptic elements of the comet's orbit, by Herr A. Berberich, of the Rechuninstitut, Berlin, based upon the observations at Windsor on February 27, Palermo on March 13, Rome on March 24th, Kiel on April 5th, and Kiel and Hamburg on April 12th. The computer has satisfied the first and last of these normal positions exactly, and the errors for the intermediate dates are very small. The position telegraphed from the Cape of Good Hope on the date of discovery is affected with some error, and has, therefore, been rejected. The following are the orbit elements as given by Herr Berberich:—Perihelion passage, 1888, March 17, ·03844, Berlin, M.T.; distance of perihelion from ascending node, 359deg. 56min. 20sec.; longitude of the ascending node, 245deg. 23min. 26sec.; inclination of the orbit, 42deg. 15min. 20sec.; perihelion distance, 0·69879. The time of revolution is estimated at about 2370 years. The orbit, therefore, differs very slightly from a parabola.

I am, &c., JOHN TEBBUTT.

PARLIAMENT OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

TUESDAY, JUNE 12.

The SPEAKER took the chair at half-past 3 o'clock.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

Mr. SUTHERLAND, in reply to Mr. Kelly, said he was not aware that the colony was losing heavily by maintaining engine sheds at Dubbo and Wellington. He had received a report from the local engineer on the subject, who could not now state which station was the most advantageous. Steps would be taken to decide the matter as soon as it was possible for him to investigate it thoroughly.

Mr. INGLIS, in reply to Mr. Frank Farnell, said that no doubt the work of the Board of Technical Education, as of all unpaid boards, necessitated some amount of personal sacrifice, but he was not aware that one or two members had specially sacrificed themselves. It was to be presumed that every member did all he could to carry out the purpose for which the board was instituted. Beyond an application for incorporation, the board had expressed no desire to have its constitution remodelled.

Mr. GARRETT, in reply to Mr. Barbour (for Mr. M'Elhone), said that the reserve 50, county of Northumberland (Teralba coal reserve), was found to have been illegally made, and before the defect could be remedied the land was conditionally purchased, and consequently there was no reservation to cancel. The whole of the reserve was selected by M. P. Lane, M. Lane, G. Lane, and H. Lane. The land was included in a reserve, notified 7th November, 1878, which, at the time of the voidance of the conditional purchases, was considered to be perfectly legal. The Mary Lane referred to was identical with the Mary Lane whose conditional purchase was included in the Validating Bill now under consideration of the House; and she was also the Mary Lane who selected conditional purchase 84-9, Newcastle, under the 13th section. The conditional purchases, 84-9 and 82-3a, under 13th section, had been converted into mineral conditional purchases. He promised that he would lay upon the table of this House all plans and papers in connection with all conditional purchases made by Henry J. Whithers, Mary Priscilla Lane, Mary Lane, George Lane, Henry Lane, and William Thorne, in the parishes of Stockrington and Teralba, county of Northumberland, from the beginning of the year 1882 to the present date.

Mr. SUTHERLAND, in reply to Mr. M'Court (for Mr. Crouch), said that no lengths within municipal limits were included in the schedules for this year; but separate provision was made on the Estimates for main roads through municipalities.

Mr. SUTHERLAND, in reply to Mr. Barbour (for Mr. Ryrie), said that it was the case that Victorian wheat coming across by rail did not pay any increased charges, whilst grain going by rail to the interior did pay an increased price. The conditions, however, were not similar. An increased rate from shipping ports was imposed because the trucks carrying merchandise on the down journey were more than sufficient to bring back the grain produced in the interior, and therefore additional trucks carrying grain from shipping ports into the country had to be brought back empty.

PETITIONS.

Mr. J. P. ABBOTT presented a petition from residents of Boggabri in favour of the establishment of an independent land court of appeal under the proposed Amended Land Act.

Mr. NEILD presented a petition from residents of Woollahra and its neighbourhood, asking that a gateway be placed at the top of Manners-street, giving access to the Centennial Park.

Mr. COPELAND presented a petition from farmers, agriculturists, and labourers in Central New England in favour of moderate duties upon imported agricultural produce.

Mr. STREET presented a petition from ministers of religion of various religious denominations against the remarriage of persons divorced.

Mr. IVES presented a petition from the municipal council of Manly, praying for the elimination from the Land Bill of clauses 86 and 87, or such amendments as would prevent the power being vested in any Minister or board to rescind any reservation of water frontage, or selling or giving the right to any person to reclaim land below high water mark.

The petitions were received.

METROPOLITAN COAL COMPANY.

Mr. ABIGAIL, in reply to Mr. Melville, said he would have inquiries made as to the rights of the Metropolitan Coal Company to the surface of the land under their control.

PUBLIC SCHOOL AT WOLLONGONG.

Mr. MELVILLE asked whether the attention of the Minister for Public Instruction had been directed to the circumstance that tenders had been called for the erection of a Public School at Wollongong and a teacher actually sent to the school, and yet no school had been erected, the consequence being that the children who would attend the school were running wild about the bush.

Mr. INGLIS was understood to say that what the hon. member for Northumberland drew attention to was owing to a stupid blunder.

LEASES TO CROWN TENANTS.

Mr. GARRETT, in reply to Mr. Barbour, said the notices necessary in view of the expiration of leases in the Eastern division, would be issued to the Crown tenants in plenty of time.

PAPERS.

Mr. GARRETT laid on the table copies of the accounts of the following road trusts:—South Head Road Trust, Parramatta Road Trust, Windsor Road Trust, Richmond Road Trust, and Maitland District Council. Also, a return of all papers, correspondence, &c., with reference to the supply of coal to the Railway Department, Great Northern Railway.

It was ordered that the documents be printed.

PERPETUAL TRUSTEE COMPANY BILL.

On the motion of Mr. J. P. ABBOTT, the Perpetual Trustee Company Bill was read the third time, passed, and returned to the Legislative Council.

WEST MAITLAND CATTLE SALEYARDS BILL.

On the motion of Mr. LYNE, for Mr. Brunker, the West Maitland Cattle Saleyards Bill was referred to a select committee for consideration and report.

CONVICTIONS FOR DRUNKENNESS.

Mr. HUTCHISON, for Mr. Henson, moved—"That this House is of opinion that, in the annual return ordered by this House from the Department of Justice of the convictions for drunkenness, &c., in the various districts of the colony, columns be added to stand as six and seven respectively, showing the number of 'all other convictions in which drunkenness formed part of the charge,' and 'the number of penalties included in foregoing offences;' and further, that the totals of convictions given in the return be shown for the whole colony."

The motion was agreed to.

BOWRAL RAILWAY STATION.

Mr. M'COURT moved,—"That there be laid upon the table of this House copies of all papers, correspondence, minutes, and reports of officers, having reference to the improvement of the Bowral railway station during the past six years."

The motion was agreed to.

ESTATE OF CAPTAIN J. F. COCHRAN.

Mr. NEILD moved,—"That there be laid upon the table of this House copies of all letters and other documents, including extracts from police court records and books in the office of Inspector-General of Police, relating to the estate of the late Captain John Foster Cochran, who died in the Sydney Infirmary on 2nd October, 1867."

The motion was agreed to.

CHAIRMAN OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. SPEAKER called upon Mr. Melville to act as Chairman of Committees for this day only.

REFRESHMENT COMMITTEE.

Mr. BURDEKIN brought up a report of the refreshment committee, and moved that it be printed.

The motion was agreed to.

A. M. P. SOCIETY'S ACT AMENDMENT BILL.

Mr. DAY moved the second reading of the Australian Mutual Provident Society's Act Amendment Bill.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill was read the second time, and passed through committee without amendment.

DAMS AND WEIRS BILL.

On the motion of Mr. J. P. ABBOTT, the Dams and Weirs Regulation and Registration Bill was discharged from the notice paper.

Mr. ABIGAIL said that a bill had already been prepared upon the lines of the report of the Water Conservation Commission. That bill would be introduced at the commencement of the next session.

COMPANIES' BILL.

Mr. J. P. ABBOTT moved the second reading of the Companies' Bill. The bill was an exact transcript of an English Act, which provided that before there could be a reduction of the capital of a company arrangements would have to be made with any objecting creditor.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill was read the second time and passed through committee without amendment.

PARTNERSHIP BILL.

On the motion of Mr. ABBOTT, the Partnership Bill was discharged from the notice paper.

DIVORCE EXTENSION BILL.

The Divorce Extension Bill was further considered in committee.

Clauses 1 to 3 were agreed to.

Mr. NEILD moved that the following stand as clause 4:—"A domiciled person shall, for the purposes of this Act, be taken to be one who, for the period specified, has resided in this colony as his or her actual home, although such person's domicile of origin or other legal domicile may be elsewhere, provided that no person shall be entitled to petition under this Act who shall have resorted to the colony for that purpose only." He explained that the object of the clause was to define the word domicile, a thing which had been extremely difficult.

The motion was agreed to, and the remaining portions of the bill having been passed, the bill was reported to the House with an amendment.

On the motion of Mr. J. P. ABBOTT, the bill was recommitted for the reconsideration of clause 1.

Mr. NEILD moved.—"That the words 'whilst in the colony' be omitted." This, he said, referred to the grounds necessary for divorce. The words had not been inserted in any other part of the bill. They would, if they remained, inflict a hardship, as persons who may have resided in the colony for a long number of years would be precluded from seeking redress for misconduct committed out of it.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill was reported to the House with a further amendment.

On the motion for the adoption of the report,

Mr. BUCHANAN moved,—"That the bill be recommitted for the purpose of amending clause 2."

The House divided, and Mr. Buchanan being the only member on the side of the Noes, the question was resolved in the affirmative.

The report was adopted.

BILLS OF SALE ACT AMENDING BILL.

Mr. DAY moved the second reading of the Bills of Sale Act Amending Bill. This bill, he said, would be of considerable advantage to every one in the colony. It would stop secret bills of sale, as notice would have to be given, and once a week an opportunity would be afforded to all who desired to ascertain who proposed to give bills of sale.

Mr. LYNE suggested that the bill should be so amended that promissory notes might be accepted for stock mortgage.

Mr. M'MILLAN said he was sorry this bill was not taken up by the Government, as it was a corollary to the Bankruptcy Act, and dealt with a class of instruments that were the most dangerous that could be cast abroad amongst the commercial community. Lawyers were accustomed to say that a bill of sale could not possibly be drawn up which could not be upset in a court of justice. This bill was, to a certain extent, a transcript of a similar measure in Victoria. Under the present law 30 days had to elapse before a bill of sale became valid, and in the meantime no action whatever could be taken. By this bill 14 days' notice had to be given before the bill could be registered, and during that time anyone could lodge a caveat against its validity. A bill of sale was really a fraudulent preference, and if the law recognised that it was a dangerous instrument, registration ought to be a real thing and not a farcical thing as at present. He suggested to the hon. member who had introduced the bill that he should get the assurance of the Government that it would be taken as a corollary to the Bankruptcy Act.

Mr. W. CLARKE said that the bill was a very simple one in its object. It provided for the registration of bills of sale, and so far as the Government was concerned there could be no objection to its passing into law. He would take into consideration the suggestion of the hon. member for East Sydney.

The motion was agreed to.

The House then resolved itself into Committee of the Whole to consider the bill in detail.

Clause 1 was agreed to.

On Clause 2, "No bill of sale to be filed until after notice of intention to file," and "form of notice,"

Mr. CARRUTHERS said he thought it would be well to postpone further consideration of the bill until hon. members had an opportunity of studying it. This bill, it seemed to him, would have the effect of absolutely preventing bills of sale being given at all.

After some further discussion the clause was agreed to.

Clause 3. "Notices to be indexed and open to inspection."

Mr. M'MILLAN moved an amendment so as to make the fee to be charged by the Prothonotary for inspection of notices 1s. for each inspection instead of 1s. for inspecting each notice.

The amendment was negatived, and the clause was passed.

The remaining clauses were agreed to, and the bill was reported to the House without amendment.

BROKEN HILL GAS COMPANY'S BILL.

Mr. DAY moved the second reading of the Broken Hill and Suburban Gas Company's Bill, as agreed to in Select Committee. He explained that it was brought forward by the inhabitants of Broken Hill with the view of supplying themselves with gas, and was precisely similar to all other bills passed through the House for supplying municipalities with gas.

Mr. LYNE said that the bill should be limited to supply gas at 12s. per 1000ft.

Mr. TONKIN agreed with Mr. Lyne. The House should be careful of giving monopolies to companies.

The motion was agreed to, and the House resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole to consider the bill in detail.

Clauses 1 to 8 were agreed to.

Clause 9. "Price and power of gas."

Mr. LYNE said that this clause stated that the price for gas should at no time exceed 20s. per 1000 cubic feet. This was too high. Once give a monopoly of this kind, and the price would never be low. Even at North Shore they were now charging [illegible] per 1000 for gas, where they had coal at their door. This was simply because they had a monopoly in the matter. He moved that the words "twenty shillings" be expunged, with the view of inserting the words "fifteen shillings."

The amendment was agreed to.

The remaining clauses were passed, and the bill was reported to the House with amendments, and the report adopted.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH, ENFIELD, LANDS SALE BILL.

Mr. CARRUTHERS moved the second reading of the St. Thomas' Church, Enfield, Lands Sale Bill, which, he explained, was a measure to enable the minister and churchwardens of St. Thomas' Church, Enfield, to sell certain land in Kent-street, Sydney, devised by the will of Thomas Hyndes, deceased. The bill had already been passed by the Legislative Council.

The motion was agreed to, and the House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole to consider the bill in detail.

Clause 1. "Power to sell land."

Mr. GARRARD said it was a serious thing to alter the will of deceased persons. Property might be put to a use different to that which a person intended. A man might be a teetotaller in his life, and leave land, as he thought, to the use of a church, which might be sold, and a public-house built upon it.

The clause was agreed to.

The remaining clause was passed, and the bill was reported to the House without amendment, and the report adopted.

GRAFTON SCHOOL OF ARTS TRUSTEES ENABLING BILL.

Mr. SEE moved the second reading of the Grafton School of Arts Trustees Enabling Bill, as agreed to in Select Committee. He said the bill was merely to enable the trustees of the school to sell the site which had been granted to them, as it was found unsuitable for the requirements of the town.

Mr. GARRARD thought that more information should have been given to the House on the matter, as it was a responsible thing to sell land granted for such a purpose as this.

The motion was agreed to, and the House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole to consider the bill in detail. The bill was reported to the House without amendment, and the report adopted.

CONTRACTORS' DEBTS ACT EXTENSION BILL.

Mr. CARRUTHERS moved the second reading of the Contractors' Debts Act Extension Bill, and explained that the bill was introduced for the purpose of extending the provisions of the Contractors' Debts Act to material supplied.

The motion was agreed to.

The bill was passed through committee without amendment, and reported to the House, and the report was adopted.

JUDGMENT CREDITORS' REMEDIES EXTENSION BILL.

Mr. CARRUTHERS moved that the Judgment Creditors' Remedies Extension Bill be read the second time. He said the bill was introduced by Mr. Trickett, who was now in the Upper House, and who had requested him to take charge of it. Its object was to give judgment creditors power to sell the right and interest of the judgment debtor in goods the subject of a conditional bill of sale.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill was passed through committee without amendment, reported to the House, and the report was adopted.

PERMANENT TRUSTEE COMPANY OF NEW SOUTH WALES BILL.

Mr. GARRARD moved the second reading of the Permanent Trustee Company of New South Wales Bill.

The motion was agreed to, and the bill was passed through committee without amendment, reported to the House, and the report was adopted.

SPECIAL GRANTS TO MUNICIPALITIES.

The next order of the day called on was that for the consideration in Committee of the Whole for an address to the Governor, praying for provision to be made, on an Additional Estimate for 1888, for payment to country and suburban municipalities of special grants equal to 20s. in the £ on the total amount of rates collected by such bodies for the municipal year ending 4th of February, 1888.

Mr. CREER rose to move the necessary motion.

Sir HENRY PARKES said the Government would bring down a special estimate, increasing the endowment to municipalities. (Hear, hear.) He could not say that it would be the full amount named, but the amount would certainly be increased, and as largely as possible. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. CREER said that many of the municipalities had been borrowing, in the hope that the Local Government Bill would become law this session. In consideration of the Colonial Secretary's promise he would not go on with the motion he intended to move.

The order of the day was discharged from the paper.

REGISTERED MEDICAL PRACTITIONERS BILL.

The motion standing in the name of Mr. CORTIS,—"That the House should resolve itself into Committee of the Whole to consider the expediency of bringing in a bill entitled the Registered Medical Practitioners Bill"—was negatived.

PARLIAMENTARY STANDING COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC WORKS.

Mr. SUTHERLAND moved,—"That the undermentioned members be appointed to constitute, in conjunction with five members of the Legislative Council, the 'Parliamentary Standing Committee on Public Works,' as provided for by the Public Works Act of 1888, namely—Joseph Palmer Abbott, Esq., James Nixon Brunker, Esq., Henry Copeland, Esq., Jacob Garrard, Esq., Sydney Smith, Esq., Alexander Kethel, Esq., Thomas Michael Slattery, Esq., and John Randall Street, Esq." He said that he need say nothing in support of the motion. He had been as fair as he possibly could in the selection of the gentlemen whose names he had submitted.

Mr. M'COURT took exception to the composition of the committee. With the exception of Mr. Brunker every member of that committee was a Sydney man. He suggested the names of Mr. Stokes and Mr. Geo. Day as members of the committee. It would be far better if they had purely representative country men on the committee. They should be men of weight. They should be men who understood the wants of the country. They should put down this inclination to totally ignore the country. He insisted that the members of the committee be balloted for.

Mr. GARRETT said that each of the members named on the committee must not be considered as representing the district for which he sat. It was most unfair for the hon. member to refer to the committee as he had done. Would he deny that Mr. Sydney Smith was not a country member, and did not Mr. Abbott represent one of the largest country districts in the colony? They might as well say that because of Mr. Brunker's business connections he was a representative of Sydney, or that because Mr. Copeland lived in the vicinity of Sydney he was not a country representative. [Mr. COPELAND: I am prepared to make room for anyone.] He referred to the other members named on the committee, and said that the hon. gentleman had altogether misconceived the true position when he charged these gentlemen with representing Sydney—he had put forward an incorrect view of the case. The individual members of the committee could not be taken exception to. There was not one of those gentlemen who could be said to be interested in any particular line of railway that was likely to come before them. [Mr. WADDELL: What about the member for Burrowa and the member for Wentworth.] If they were interested their interest was very remote. To the constitution of this committee the Minister for Works had given a great deal of consideration.

Mr. SEE said the committee was one of the most important ever appointed. They were competent men for the work they were called upon to perform. For those gentlemen to be able to give an opinion upon the lines to be submitted to them for consideration, they should visit the districts through which the lines were to pass. Unless they did that, the committee could not be expected to do justice to the matters they had to consider. To take evidence in Sydney alone would not be worth the paper it would be written on. Take the case of the North Coast railway, how could the committee form an opinion upon that line unless they visited the district? Nor could they have any idea as to the merits of the routes unless they inspected the routes. This committee was called upon to perform work as responsible as that performed by the Government, and it was absurd to ask them to perform that work unless they were paid. It would take three or four months if they were to make a proper report. In justice to the committee they should be paid their expenses, and remunerate them for their time.

Mr. SPEAKER said the hon. gentleman was entering upon a subject that could not be entertained in connection with the appointment of the committee.

Mr. ABBOTT said he was prepared to allow the House to substitute any name for that of his. He knew what the work would be, and he also knew that there were but few members of that House who could give the time required unless to the great sacrifice of their own interests. He had recently served on two committees. On one of these—the Validation of Conditional Purchases Committee—he had given time, for which no remuneration would compensate him. With regard to the other committee relating to the Standing Orders, he and Mr. Slattery had attended day after day, and given their time to that matter. If he were appointed on this committee he would not approve of any line of railway he did not see what was actually proposed. He would not be an automaton. He hoped that the committee would visit the districts through which any line was to be taken, no matter how long the work took and they should fully inquire into the necessity for the line, and the probability of each line paying the working expenses and the cost of the outlay. It was absurd for the hon. member for Camden to say that there were no country members on the committee but Mr. Brunker. He claimed that he had represented more country districts than ever Mr. Brunker did. He had always fought for the country districts. Whatever position he might be placed in, he hoped he would always do his duty to the country. He was not one of those who, in doing his duty, was afraid of offending his constituents. He was prepared to veto any railway, even though the railway should run right through his constituency, if he saw that the line would not be likely to pay working expenses.

Mr. WALL believed that the gentlemen who had been selected would fully discharge their duty.

Mr. STREET said he was quite ready to waive his nomination. He thought it a deplorable thing that hon. members should think that because a gentleman was elected by a metropolitan constituency, he alone represented the interests of that constituency. He considered that he represented the interests of the whole country. If it could not be clearly demonstrated that the proposed lines would pay interest upon their outlay and their working expenses, he would be prepared to do as Mr. Abbott intended to do, and veto any of the lines.

Mr. TONKIN was perfectly satisfied with the constitution of the committee.

Mr. LAKEMAN said he did not think justice had been done to the country districts.

Mr. WADDELL called attention to the formation of the committee, and the necessity for having men of experience on the committee. He had no objection to any of the names on the committee, but at the same time he maintained that they ought to select a representative committee—he meant one which would represent the country generally. It was all very well to say that the members would have to visit a district, but it was absurd to say a man who had lived all his time in Sydney could go up to the country and judge as well of the place as one who had always lived there. There ought at least to be one hon. member on the committee who would know of a country line if it were brought forward. Then we should be much more likely to have proper decisions come to than otherwise. If they looked at the committee now they would see that very few of the men had been out of Sydney for very long—not longer than to run up to their constituency and back again.

Mr. FITZGERALD said it was a matter of regret that a large number of the suggested lines had not been proposed to the committee with alternative routes, so that they could consider which they thought best. The lines now proposed all had a centralising tendency towards the city. Certain lines which had been surveyed long ago had been left out of the list proposed by the Government. No doubt many of the gentlemen on the committee would be likely to work well, but it was strange that there should be so many Sydney gentlemen on it who knew nothing of the work and settlement in the central parts of the country.

Mr. R. B. SMITH said that the committee would have arduous work to perform; and many members felt relief when they found that their names were not upon it. He agreed with the committee as proposed, and believed it would do the business entrusted to it in a fair and broad manner. He had every confidence in the ability of those whose names were mentioned, and hoped that the House would not alter the names that had been submitted.

Mr. BURDEKIN said there was always difficulty to get members to attend upon committees. The gentlemen named had always been most indefatigable in their attendance on committees. If they had a ballot, they did not know who they would get; and no men could be got who would be likely to do their duty better.

Mr. O'SULLIVAN thought this was another attempt to get the city to rule over the country. They should insist upon the country being well represented. There were really no direct representatives of the Southern, Western, or Northern districts. The outlying districts required fuller representation. Almost all the lines presented by the Government were those that led to Sydney, and were proposed in the interests of the city. That was another reason why too many city men should not be on the committee. There were gentlemen named who would not have the confidence of the settlers in the back country.

Mr. KELLY said there were men on the committee who could not possibly be expected to know the resources of the interior. Then how could they tell whether a railway through a suggested route would pay? He would prefer to see the committee appointed by ballot, as it would then stand on a firmer basis before the House and before the country.

Mr. LYNE said that the committee was one formed by the Government for party purposes. There were on it six gentlemen who usually supported the Government against two who did not. Several gentlemen named on it would not have time to go from one end of the colony to the other to investigate railway proposals. He had heard the gentlemen he was thinking of say that they had not got time to attend to their duties in the House. For this reason he had urged that the committee should be paid. He thought the best way would be to allow the whole of the responsibility of appointing the committee to rest upon the Government.

Mr. SUTHERLAND denied that the Government had appointed the committee from party purposes. He thought he had named the best committee possible, but of course he could not please everyone. He had tried to do away with political feeling, and had chosen three ex-Ministers from the Opposition side of the House. He had also taken especial care that the working men of the colony were represented. He had done the best he could for the country, but the House could make the committee better if it could. No doubt provision would be made to pay their reasonable expenses. Still he hoped the House would appoint the committee by ballot, and take the responsibility off his shoulders.

Mr. SPEAKER said that a ballot having been demanded it would now be taken. Hon. members would be supplied with lists containing the names of the members of the Assembly, and would tick off eight names comprising the gentlemen whom they desired should serve on the committee.

The lists were then marked and handed in to the Clerk of the House.

The ballot resulted in the hon. members whose names are given in the motion being elected.

MODEL OF PORT JACKSON AT THE MELBOURNE EXHIBITION.

Mr. NEILD said he had to bring an important matter under the notice of the Government by way of a question, without notice. Some few years ago, when Sir William Jervois and Major-General Scratchley were introduced to the colonies in connexion with the public defences, a reconnaissance survey was made of the metropolitan area from Botany Bay to Broken Bay, including the whole of the land with water frontages. This survey was made in an admirable manner by Major Parrot. The information contained in this report was considered of so much importance that the reconnaissance maps had been from that time to the present kept under lock and key. The Herald of this morning contained a remarkable statement, to which he directed the attention of the Government. Referring to the representation of this colony at the Melbourne Exhibition, it was stated that one of the exhibits in the New South Wales Court would be a raised model of Port Jackson. It was added that the New South Wales Court was having a model of Sydney Harbour made, containing not only every indentation of the harbour and coastline most accurately delineated, but all the surrounding country was to be shown with that capricious irregularity of hills and dales which was characteristic of Sydney and its surroundings. In view of the valuable information which the model would give to any enemy of the Empire—(Cries of "Hear, hear," and "No, no")—he wished to know if the Government would take immediate steps to prevent this all-important information connected with the defence of the country from being made public. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. R. BURDETT SMITH rose to speak, but was ruled out of order.

Mr. BURNS said the question was quite new to him, and had not, he was quite sure, been considered by the Government. [An Hon. Member: That's no answer.]

Mr. R. BURDETT SMITH said he would take an opportunity of replying to this matter next day.

IMPORT DUTIES ON AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE.

The debate was resumed on Mr. Copeland's motion,—"That, in the opinion of this House, moderate import duties on such agricultural productions as can be grown in the colony, and on all articles which can be locally manufactured, would tend to bring financial prosperity to the colony, and give profitable employment to many of our present unemployed mechanics and the working classes generally. That the above resolution be communicated by address to his Excellency the Governor."

Mr. HAYNES said that Victoria and New Zealand and other parts of Australia would compete with us vigorously in the future in certain lines of produce as science had worked a complete revolution in agriculture. A good deal had been said about the distressed state of New South Wales; but several new manufactories had been established here lately, especially two large flour mills, which had been erected by Victorians, and if these enterprises were duplicated, we would, without the aid of protection at all, be able to supply our own markets with flour. These millers were very anxious to obtain New South Wales wheat, but owing to the monstrous railway rates could not get it so cheap as they could Victorian wheat. With regard to the sugar duties they had pressed very hardly on the fruit-preserving industry, and had compelled some of the manufacturers to divide their capital and start establishments in other colonies. Owing to the abolition of the sugar duties in England, that country had been enabled to obtain sugar at the lowest rate, and had established a large fruit-preserving industry. Sugar was a raw material and ought not to be taxed, as so many industries were hampered by the tax. The hon. member then referred to the disastrous result which had been produced in Germany by the sugar bounty system, which had only benefited free-trade England. All the Continental countries had had enough of this sugar bounty system, and had agreed on a common basis for its abolition. The farming community of this colony had made immense progress during the last 10 or 12 years, and was not in such a bad state as was represented. In the country districts there had been a large increase in the amount and number of deposits in the savings banks, far out of proportion with the increase of the population. This duty on produce would not relieve the farmers at all, who were heavily handicapped by the railway rates; and in support of this assertion, he mentioned some of the high and unequal rates which were charged on produce and other goods. He said the only reason upon which he would oppose the appointment of Mr. Goodchap to the Railway Commissionership was the monstrous inequality of the charges made for the carriage of farming produce. He believed that Grafton could be made a port equal to that of Newcastle. [A Voice: Not in your time.] When the railway rates had been reduced to enable agricultural produce to be brought from the country, then would they realise that facility, and not protection, was what is needed.

Mr. R. B. WILKINSON spoke against the motion, and denied that protection benefited the working classes.

Mr. BUCHANAN said he had not heard a single argument from any of the freetrade advocates that required the slightest answer; and he supposed that no more unmitigated falsehoods had fallen from the lips of man than had fallen from the Premier when speaking upon this subject. Let them have all these importations protected, and then the surplus labour, which had been a deadweight on the hands of the colony, would be utilised. Two years ago he had not two votes in the House on the question. Now he was surrounded by quite an army. There were 45 protectionists on the Opposition benches. Was protection coming? If there were an appeal to the country, it would be found that a mighty change had come over it with respect to this matter. He had recently come back from England. English manufacturers were complaining, and lending great weight to the protectionist cause there. Protection was taking Victoria far ahead of us in every manner. She had no State unemployed as we had. The Treasurer had said that these were not paupers; but they were the worst form of paupers that a country could possess. Yet we had for years past been selling our public lands. Where would we have been but for that? These sales had blinded the Government to the evils of free trade; but now that they had been stopped we had 5000 unemployed. And whilst we were dragged down by a terrible deficit, Victoria had a surplus of a million. In every protective land in this world there was prosperity, and there was a dread of free trade, and a clinging to protection amongst people of those lands. They would make this country a country where the people would have something to do and get proper remuneration for it. They had now reached that goal that they had aroused the people to a sense of the evils of free trade.

Mr. A. ALLEN said that 20 years ago the cry was that New South Wales was fast becoming protective. They still heard that cry, although they were as far from the policy as ever. He considered the arguments of the hon. member for Mudgee were unanswerable. The farmers of New South Wales did not want protection; they simply wanted facilities to send their products to market. They had heard a lot about manufactures. Protection had not put the woollen manufactories of Victoria on a footing. He had been in that colony, and found that three of the most important of them were now closed up. Not long ago he went to a well-known factory in Parramatta to inquire into the state of affairs there. The master of this factory said he was doing very good business. [An Hon. MEMBER: He has collapsed.] He (Mr. Allen) said he supposed this gentleman was a protectionist, but the master of the factory said no, and that protection would do him more harm than good. Last season this gentleman accumulated a profit of £10,000. (Opposition laughter.)

An Hon. MEMBER: What's his name?

Mr. ALLEN: His name was Mr. Murray. There were no tweeds equal to those turned out of this factory. [An Hon. MEMBER: How many hands does he employ?] He employed hands enough to make a nice profit. He felt convinced that a duty on wheat would increase the price of wheat, and also the price of bread. He did not think members were there to increase the price of the poor man's loaf, or to legislate in the interests of one class. A duty on grain would be most iniquitous, unrighteous, and most impolitic and dishonest. He did not believe that the policy of protection would be for the good of the struggling masses. He intended to vote against the resolution.

Mr. J. P. ABBOTT took exception to the remarks of Mr. Allen in charging Mr. Buchanan with being a stump orator. Nothing could have been more characteristic of Domain oratory than the wearying speech of the hon. member for Paddington. He referred to the past utterances of the Premier to prove that Sir Henry Parkes had advocated protection. He contended that it would be much more preferable to keep the money in the colony, and by means of protection find employment for the people instead of sending the money out of the colony. He believed in taxing all round.

Mr. REID considered the Government guilty of a gross mistake in allowing this wretched repetition of what had already been discussed to be again brought before the House. Never in the history of politics had there been such an instance of political somersaults as were to be found on the Opposition benches. All the symptoms of the time showed that the world was on the verge of a change from protection. No wonder Bismarck was a protectionist, he drew the money out of the poor German subjects upon this patriotic fallacy. Referring to the surplus of America, he said the system that took money out of the pockets of the people beyond the requirements of the State was a policy of robbery. He pointed out that there was no proof of the widespread distress which was said to exist in this colony, and maintained that a free-trade policy was the best for the working men of the colony. If protection was to be adopted, it should be carried out thoroughly, and the small manufacturers of the inland towns should be protected against the large manufacturers of Sydney, as well as the latter against outside competition. This colony, he pointed out, had as many men employed in factories as protectionist Victoria, and, in addition, our manufactories had been established on the sound and healthy basis of free competition, without the assistance of protective duties.

Mr. COPELAND then replied.

The motion was negatived on the following division:—

ADJOURNMENT.

Sir HENRY PARKES moved that the House do now adjourn.

Mr. GARVAN claimed that the closeness of the division upon Mr. Copeland's motion showed that the Government did not represent the voice of the country, and that an appeal to the constituencies on the question whether there should not be an alteration in the present financial policy should be made.

Mr. REID and Sir HENRY PARKES replied, contending that the majority of 13 which the Government obtained in the division showed no decrease in the strength of the free-trade party and that the Government had a majority equal, according to the proportion of members, to those obtained in the party division in the English Parliament.

Mr. REID pointed out, also, that many members who would have voted in the division against Mr. Copeland's motion were absent.

Before the adjournment the Premier said that he would introduce a bill to deal with the question of the sale of ranceous meat, an evil which he said existed to a very great extent.

The House adjourned at 26 minutes to 8.

A considerable amount of business was transacted in the mining market yesterday, although prices in Broken Hill stock were not quite so firm as was the case on Monday.

Mr. C. H. Williams, of 311, George-street, reports that he has floated the North-east Mount Morgan Syndicate in 140 shares of £50 each, the shares having been over-subscribed for, to work a 20-acre lease contiguous to the celebrated Mount Morgan mine. The whole of the subscribed capital goes to the development of the mine.

MANAGERS' REPORTS.

The Broken Hill Blocks Silver Mine, June 6.—Good progress has been made in erecting the large pumping and winding plant. The contractor for the erection of the poppet heads has had some delay in consequence of the difficulty experienced in getting suitable gearing, but they are now erected, and fixing the braces and landing platform is being pushed forward. A steam pumping engine to draw and force water from the dam to a supply tank being constructed between the diamond drill and the new plant, is in hand. Castings for laying the pipes are progressing, and as soon as the engine and connections arrive from Adelaide fixing will be proceeded with without delay. Tenders are called for sinking the main shaft 100ft. from present depth.

Gold Hill Gold-mining Company, Burnt Yards, June 9.—The hard bar of stone or horse, referred to in my last report as intercepting the vein at 150ft. level, has extended further than anticipated, but there seems now to be a decided change in the face of the drive. The quartz seems to be going away to the back of the horse, and the wall to be continuing on its proper course. The face of the horse is now fuller of veins, and in larger patches, showing fine gold, so that next week I hope to be able to say that the bar has been entirely removed, and that the vein, which will undoubtedly form again behind the horse, has been exposed. I have from 35 to 40 tons of crushing quartz raised. I have driven a further distance of 6ft. in Jones' shaft without any material change.

One-tree Cordillera Silver-mining Company, June 9.—South tunnel has been extended a further distance of 16ft., making a total of 125ft. The stratification here is more conformable with the underlie at chloride shaft, and better progress may be expected. Chloride shaft has been sunk a further depth of 13ft., making a total of 46ft. The fluxes is still widening out, and gossan are also. The north tunnel has been extended 16ft., making a total of 101ft., and sulphide of lead is more frequently found. I purpose in two or three days to sink on the 54ft. lode passed in driving.

Happy Valley Syndicate, Gulgong, 11th June.—We have driven and timbered from the 175ft. level west 100ft. Have also driven and timbered 96ft. east. In the last drive cut a quartz reef carrying gold; 80ft. from the shaft turned a Black Jack reef 18in. wide going under foot. Have not sufficiently developed it to know if it is payable or not. Am now letting contract to sink a monkey shaft 20ft. to cut it in more defined country, when it may be expected to prove payable, as all through the indications are good.

Cordillera Extended Company, Tuena, June 12.—During the week No. 1 shaft has been sunk 14ft. 6in., total [illegible]. The indications are more favourable, and the bottom of the shaft consists of gossan veins and mineralised quartz. The ground is getting damp. No. 2 shaft is down [illegible], timbered to bottom. Have just come on to the cap of the lode.

Costigan Consols Company, Tuena, June 12.—During the week the No. 1 shaft has been sunk 9ft.—total [illegible]. The lode is west of the shaft. No. 2 shaft, on the [illegible] junction lode, has been sunk 14ft.—total, 64ft. The lode has made vertical for the last 12ft. and the underlay is changing to westward. We have good mineralised [illegible] on the west side of shaft.

MELBOURNE, TUESDAY.

Share Report.—Sales: Broken Hill, £208, £210; Block 14, 69s. 6d., 73s.; Junction, 32s. 9d., 30s., 31s.; South, paid, 80s., 73s., 76s.; British Brokens, 54s., 50s., 49s.; Centrals, paid, 23s., 22s.; Cordillera, 24s., 25s.; Maritoto, 35s. 6d.; New North Brokens, 18s., 17s.; Rising Sun, 8s. 3d., 8s.; Round Hill, 58s., 59s.; Victoria Cross, 7s. 9d., 7s.; Band and Albion Consols, 79s.; Mount Morgan, £13 7s. 6d.

In the business in silver shares to-day the principal feature was the good demand for Broken Hill Proprietary which sold readily at a further advance. British and Block 14 also improved. Souths receded a little at the close, also Cordillera Hill. Others were without much change. In gold companies, Johnson's, North Johnson's, [illegible] Albions, and Mount Morgan had a fair extent of business. Tin companies were neglected.

ADELAIDE, TUESDAY.

Share Report.—Sales: Brokens, cum div., £208 10s., £208 10s.; Robe, £55, £59, £51; South, paid, £3 15s., £3 17s.; Block 14, £3 5s. 9d., £3 14s., £3 16s.; British, £2 14s., £2 11s., £2 14s. 6d.; Junctions, £1 15s., £1 14s.; Block 10, £18, £17; Centrals, £1 4s. 9d.; New Lewis, 18s. 3d., 14s. 6d.; Undercliffs, contributing, 18s.; Norths, 17s. 6d., 16s. 6d., 17s.; Sun, 8s.; Eveleen, 7s. 6d.; King, 7s., 7s. 3d.; Extendeds, 7s. 3d.; Cross, 8s. 9d.; Allandale, 3s. 6d., 3s. 10½d.; War Dance, 3s.; Pioneer, 3s. 9d.; Grove, contributing, 2s. 6d.; Bonanza Extended, 1s. 9d.; and Nine Mile, 1s. 9d.; Central White Leads [illegible].

BRISBANE, TUESDAY.

At Charters Towers the calls for the month of May by 71 companies amounted to £12,895, and the dividends to £18,534. This is a great improvement on the previous month. The crushings for May are not fully returned, but they show an increase on those for April. The Sun and Black Jack block have cut a reef containing good stone at 557ft., and are still sinking on the formation. The Lubra crushed last week for nearly 2oz. per ton. Good reports are to hand from the various lines of reef, and the general mining prospects of the field are much improved.

Mount Morgan shares sold to-day at £13 12s. 6d.

BOURKE, TUESDAY.

Owing to the argentiferous and auriferous discoveries close here business is brisker than of late. Nearly eight miles of country have been pegged out along the supposed line of reef on Dunlop. Parties are constantly arriving from Bourke, Cobar, &c. Considerable interest is taken in the reported silver and gold finds on Tanko. Several townsmen who have visited the field report very favourably of it, and are now awaiting the results of assays of small parcels of stone sent to Sydney.

BROKEN HILL, TUESDAY.

Mr. Gibson, the mining registrar, has received a communication from the Under-Secretary for Mines to the effect that in future the registrar's office is to close at local time, and that all transactions in land be computed by the same.

CARCOAR, TUESDAY.

On Wood's Flat, Tucker and party are engaged in prospecting alluvial. They have a drive of 70ft. and a shaft of 150ft. in depth. They expect to strike the wash.

SILVERTON, TUESDAY.

West Euriowie Tin-mining Co.—The manager reports June 4: The crosscut west is now in a distance of 28ft. and it is evident a slide has thrown the lode some few feet farther than was anticipated. The country has been hard and indifferent for blasting, which accounts for the slow progress made. Pending the cutting of the lode in No. 1 shaft, sinking on the main shaft has been deferred. Trident Mine.—The manager reports: No. 2 shaft in the lode is down 38ft. Have been in very hard quartz, but the ground is getting better. Am opening up the lode on north block, where we have very good tin in the lode. In prospecting on the lode south of No. 2 shaft have found some very good tin in the lode on the surface. Ancona Silver-mine: The manager reports, June 7: At No. 1 we are now 107ft. from the brace. The lode is continuing down with the same steep dip, between very hard and smooth footwall and a mineralised hanging wall formation. Between those walls show grey ore and galena of much less siliceous kind than that met with in the levels nearer the surface. Stannery tin mine, Euriowie.—The manager reports June 4: During the past week we have opened on the best tin ground yet seen on the mine, and the lode is about the same width as last reported, viz., 16ft. The ore now broken is about 100 tons. Victory Silver Lead mine, Purnamoota.—The manager reports June 9: The underlay shaft has been sunk 9ft. for the fortnight. There is no material change in the formation, which is closer and harder if anything. A vertical shaft has been sunk a depth of 12ft. for the fortnight. The country is favourable for sinking, but requires blasting. Hidden Secret Silver-mine.—The manager reports June 9: No. 3 underlie shaft has been sunk 8ft. for the week, making a total depth from the surface of 18ft. The lode at the bottom of the shaft is looking well, having a nice body of galena, carrying a good percentage of ore. It is carried down by two well-defined walls. A drive is being put in from the north end of the shaft, at a shallow depth, in order to test the extent of the shoot of ore. At present the drive is in 13ft., showing a good lode all along the bottom. As far as this find has been opened up, the prospects are excellent. In No. 4 vertical shaft men have been engaged this week timbering up. They have also carried on sinking to a further depth of 4ft., making a total from the surface of 34ft. There is no change in the character of the stone.

WILCANNIA, TUESDAY.

The Billygoe West Claim, near Cobar, and adjoining the Billygoe Gold and Silver Mine, is being floated into a syndicate of 50 shares at £50 each, fully paid up. The property is comprised in 110 acres, and the reef in the Billygoe Company's land is supposed to go right through their claim.

COMMERCIAL.

PRODUCE MARKET.

TUESDAY EVENING.

This morning there was only a small attendance of the trade at Darling Harbour sales. A short supply of forage was forward. Excepting for one or two prime lots the inquiry was weak; inferior sorts of chaff were almost entirely neglected. The demand for wood also lacked animation. At the wharfs light shipments were received, principally from the Hunter River and Southern ports. Trade was unusually quiet, and yesterday's values were maintained. At Darling Harbour sales the following values were realised:—

Wood.—Fair market. The inquiry was again weak at per ton: Billet, 7s to 11s; bundle, 8s to 12s; foot, 9s to 10s; [illegible], 9s 6d to 11s.

Hay.—Small consignments. Moderate demand. Best oaten, in b bales, 3s 6d to 4s 3d per cwt; medium, 1s 1d to 3s 1d; inferior, 3s 6d to 3s 10d; lucerne, in trusses, 3s 6d; sales from Bathurst, 1s 3d.

Straw.—Limited supplies. Clean wheaten, in bundles, realised 2s 7d to 2s 8d per cwt.

Chaff.—The largest proportion of the quantity to hand was of inferior classes, which were very difficult of sale. Medium to prime sorts remain steady. Oaten, in bags, 4s 6d to 5s per cwt.; other descriptions, 2s 9d to 3s 7d; straw, in bags, 2s 10d; mixed, in bags, 3s 6d.

At the wharfs the following were the wholesale quotations:—

Maize.—This market rules firm at 3s 7d per bushel.

Oats.—Unaltered at 2s 1d to 2s 2d per bushel for good bright feed parcels; milling, 2s 3d; other kinds, from 1s 10d.

Barley.—Cape seed inactive, 3s per bushel.

Bran.—Rather quiet, 10d per bushel.

Pollard.—Quoted 9½d per bushel.

Hay.—Limited shipments from the Hunter River this morning. Best green or brown lucerne was rather scarce and quoted £3 10s to £3 17s 6d per ton; choice lots to £4; dry summer brown and other descriptions were slack from £2 to £3.

Chaff.—Further consignments from Victoria last night. Steady at £4 10s to £5 per ton for good lines; Adelaide, £4 10s to £5 5s.

Lard.—Best, in bladders, 4½d to 5d per lb.; bulk, 3d to 3½d.

Honey.—Dull at 2½d to 4d per lb., according to quality.

Eggs.—River lots quoted 1s 9d to 1s 10d per dozen; Adelaide, 1s 8d to 1s 9d.

Poultry.—Limited demand at per pair: Fowls, 2s 6d to 3s 6d; ducks, 2s to 3s 9d; geese, 3s to 5s 6d; turkeys, 6s to 12s.

LEATHER AND SKIN SALES.

At the weekly auction leather sales yesterday, a slightly stronger demand was reported for dressed goods, but values were unchanged. Sole leather was dull, whilst harness lines and basils were again neglected. Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited report sales of sole at 7d to 9½d; kip, 13d to 16½d; tweed, 11d to 17½d; yearling tweed, 15½ to 17½; calf tweed, 18d to 25d; kangaroo, 22½d to 25d; wallaby, 28d; splits, 9½d to 12d; butts, 8½d; bellies, 5d to 6d; shanks, 2d; cheeks, 4d; basils, to 5s 9d per dozen. Fairly large catalogues of marsupial skins were brought forward to a good attendance of buyers. The quantity of extra large sizes of kangaroo skins was rather small. There was keen competition for all lots; wallaby were slightly easier. Messrs. F. L. Barker, J. Bridge, J. H. Geddes and Co., and the New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Company, Limited, report:—Extra large kangaroo, 108s to 123s per dozen; exceptional lines to 150s; large, 60s to 92s; medium, 40s to 60s; small to medium, 30s to 38s; very small, 2s 6d to 18s; wallaby, 1s to 13s, bear, 2s 6d to 8s; [illegible], to 9s; cat, 2s to 3s; water rat, 3s; platypus, 6d to 3s 6d; [illegible], 1s to 3s 3d. An active inquiry prevailed, and prices ruled firm. Messrs. R. Goldsbrough and Co., J. Bridge, Mort and Co., Limited, and Harrison, Jones and Devlin, Limited, quote—Best butchers' full-woolled green skins, 5½d to 6½d; pelt, extra good, to 3½d; [illegible] 5½d; medium, 19d to 27d; short and faulty, 10d to 18d; [illegible] 14d to 20d; good dry skins, 4½d to 5½d; [illegible] growth and pelts, 2d to 3d.

THE CHINESE QUESTION.

THE TIMES AND THE TREATIES OF NANKIN AND PEKIN.

[BY CABLE.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, JUNE 12.

The Times declares that the treaties of Nankin and Pekin are absolutely incompatible with the Chinese Restriction Bill passed by the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales. England, it adds, is prepared to indulge the colonists to the last point consistent with honour and equity.

THE INTERCOLONIAL CONFERENCE.

DEPARTURE OF THE GUTHRIE AND CHINGTU.

The first sitting of the Intercolonial Conference upon the Chinese question was held in the Executive Council Chamber at the Colonial Secretary's office yesterday afternoon. The delegates present were:—New South Wales: Sir Henry Parkes, Premier; Mr. J. F. Burns, Colonial Treasurer. Victoria: Mr. Duncan Gillies, Premier; Mr. Alfred Deakin, Chief Secretary. South Australia: Mr. T. Playford, Premier; and Mr. C. C. Kingston, Attorney-General. Queensland: Mr. J. M. Macrossan, Minister for Works and Mines. Western Australia: Sir Malcolm Fraser, Colonial Secretary. Tasmania: Mr. P. O. Fysh, Premier. The New Zealand delegate, Mr. Richard Olliver, M.L.C., has not yet arrived, but he is expected to reach Sydney before the conference closes. Mr. Gillies, Mr. Playford, Mr. Kingston, and Sir Malcolm Fraser arrived by the express train from Melbourne at noon, and were received at the Railway Station by Sir Henry Parkes. They afterwards drove to the Crown and Anchor Hotel, where they have taken up their temporary residence. Mr. Deakin, Mr. Macrossan, and Mr. Fysh have been in Sydney for the past few days awaiting the arrival of the other members. The first matter under consideration was the selection of a gentleman to preside over the deliberations. On the motion of Mr. Playford, seconded by Mr. Gillies, Sir Henry Parkes was appointed president. Mr. Gillies proposed that Mr. Budge, clerk to the Executive Council, should be elected secretary to the conference. The motion was seconded by Mr. Fysh, and agreed to.

Some discussion took place with reference to the question of the admission of the press to the meetings of the conference. Mr. Burns proposed that the sittings should be open. The motion was seconded by Mr. Macrossan, but it was strongly opposed by Mr. Gillies, who pointed out that the Victorian delegates were anxious to return to Melbourne as soon as possible in order to complete their preparations for the meeting of Parliament next week, and it was to be feared, if the sittings were open, that the proceedings might be unduly protracted. A meeting of the Cabinet was to be held on Friday night, at which the whole of the Ministers ought to be present, and he and his colleague would have to leave Sydney on Thursday evening at the latest in order to attend it. If the press representatives were present members would make set speeches and, in fact, deliver addresses to their constituents, and it was possible that the sittings of the conference might not terminate even on Friday, and in that case the Victorian delegates would have to depart before the matter was finally settled. Mr. Deakin thought it was desirable that the representatives of the press should be present. The question was one of such importance that the fullest publicity was desirable. The South Australian delegates opposed the admission of the press. Mr Macrossan urged that as the question was one that had been before the public in all its phases for many months past, there was no object to be gained by conducting their deliberations in secret. He certainly felt that the conference ought to be an open one. After some further discussion, the motion was withdrawn. It is understood that had it gone to the vote the New South Wales and Queensland delegates, and possibly the Tasmanian and Western Australian representatives would have voted in favour of it. A suggestion was made that a Government shorthand writer should be appointed to take an official report of the proceedings; but it was held that the same objection would apply to that as applied to the admission of the press, and the proposal fell through.

The despatch from the Secretary of State for the Colonies received by each of the colonial Governments setting forth the views of the Imperial authorities was read. The document, which is marked confidential, is not likely to form the basis of any settlement of the difficulty.

Mr. PLAYFORD submitted to the conference three resolutions which formed the subject of a preliminary discussion. The first resolution is to the effect that Chinese immigration should be further restricted; the second, that the Imperial Government should be asked to interfere diplomatically to settle the Chinese question in accordance with the Australian view; the third is, that a committee should be appointed to draft a bill for the purpose of obtaining uniformity in Australian legislation on the subject. No decision was arrived at with regard to the resolutions, which will be further debated this evening.

The following memorial has been submitted to the conference by Chinese merchants resident in Sydney, on behalf of themselves and other Chinese resident in Australia and New Zealand:—"That by article 5 of the Treaty of Pekin, made on the 25th day of October, 1860, between her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of China, it was, amongst other things, provided that the Chinese, in choosing to take service in the British colonies or other parts beyond the seas, were to be at perfect liberty to enter into engagements with British subjects for that purpose, and to ship themselves and their families in British vessels at the open ports of China. 2. Your memorialists would respectfully refer to the rights given to British subjects to reside in and own property in China, and to travel therein. 3. Upon the faith of the above Treaty, and upon legislation passed in the various Australasian colonies, Chinese have come to the Australasian colonies. Some have married European women there. Many are still residents there, while others have left temporarily, and have in such case obtained certificates authorising them to return within a certain time. 4. The Chinese merchants and traders resident in the Australasian colonies from time to time require, in the ordinary course of their business, to visit the other Australasian colonies, and your memorialists would respectfully point to the great hardship that would be inflicted on them if provision be not made for them visiting such colonies. 5. Your memorialists would respectfully point out that, in the proposal to impose a poll-tax so high as the sum of £100 per head upon any Chinese coming to any one of the Australasian colonies, that such amount is unduly severe and unnecessarily high on the one hand, while on the other the very magnitude of the tax would hold out inducements to breaches of the law. 6. Your memorialists would also respectfully point out the hardship Chinese would be liable to if provision be not made for the performance of existing engagements with the Chinese in reference to their right to return to the colonies, if so returning within the time specified in their exemption tickets. 7. Your memorialists would also point out the hardship and injury to the Chinese who may have become naturalised British subjects, and who now own property in any of the Australasian colonies, if they be not allowed, after due examination, to return to their homes. 8. Your memorialists would respectfully refer to the fact of the general reduction during the last few years of the numbers of the Chinese resident in Australia (with the exception of Port Darwin under special circumstances). 9. Your memorialists would respectfully refer to the proposal to exclude Chinese from mining, it being well known that the Chinese only follow the Europeans, and make a living where Europeans cannot, and the mining by the Chinese means the saving to the country of a large amount of wealth that would otherwise be lost. Your memorialists therefore humbly pray that your honourable conference will take this memorial under favourable consideration. And your memorialists will every pray, &c.:—Quong Tart, Sydney, merchant; James Ung Quoy, Sydney, merchant; Yaen Tab, Sydney, merchant; Sun Kum Tiy, Sydney, merchant; Ouyik and Lee, Sydney, merchants; W. Goldtown, Sydney, agent. The names attached to the memorial represent different provinces in China. The conference has already discovered that there is no such treaty as that referred to in the first paragraph of the memorial. The document evidently refers to the convention of Pekin, the fifth article of which provides that "As soon as the ratification of the Treaty of 1858 shall have been exchanged, his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of China will by decree command the high authorities of every province to proclaim throughout their jurisdictions that Chinese choosing to take service in the British colonies or other ports beyond the sea, are at perfect liberty to enter into engagements with British subjects for that purpose, and to ship themselves and their families on board any British vessel at any of the open ports in China. Also, that the high authorities aforesaid shall, in concert with her Britannic Majesty's representative in China, frame such regulations for the protection of Chinese emigrating as above. The article in question allows no reciprocal privileges, and it is not likely to receive the serious consideration of the Conference.

The views of the various delegates have only been partially expressed thus far with regard to the question. Mr. Gillies is in favour of limiting the influx of Chinese even to prohibition, but he doubts whether local legislation is, after all, the most satisfactory or even the most efficient means to be employed. He thinks it quite possible that the influence of her Majesty's Government with that of the Emperor of China might effect more than drastic measures adopted here. It can hardly be supposed that in a nation like China which numbers its population by hundreds of millions, its Government can really regard with very much concern the question of whether or not a few thousands depart for Australia. It is therefore possible that a good deal might be accomplished through diplomacy, while stringent legislative measures might engender international bitterness.

The attitude of Mr. Macrossan on the question is well known. He was a very active member of the committee appointed in Queensland to collect subscriptions for fighting the A. S. N. Company when they introduced Chinese labour. Mr. Macrossan is the exponent of the views of the majority in the new Legislative Assembly in Queensland, and they have nearly all expressed themselves freely during the recent electoral campaign with regard to Chinese labour. The total exclusion of the Chinese labour from the colonies is what the Queensland delegate will aim at. He is in favour of Chinese travellers, students, and merchants being allowed to visit Australia, but what is wanted here is what the Americans have succeeded in obtaining.

The views of the Tasmanian Government, as expressed by the Premier (Mr. P. O. Fysh) yesterday, are to a certain extent more moderate than those held by the members of the conference representing the other colonies. This is accounted for by the fact that there has been little or no agitation in Tasmania on the Chinese question, with the exception of a public meeting which was held in Hobart in July last, at which resolutions were passed asking the Legislature to enact a restrictive measure for the purpose of checking the influx of Chinese into Tasmania of a similar character to that already existing in other colonies. Such a measure was passed by the Tasmanian Parliament last session, and with this measure Tasmania is likely to rest content, for the present at least, unless the result of the present conference may cause Tasmanian opinion to still further follow in the direction which it has already assumed in the neighbouring colonies. Mr. Fysh is not prepared at present to state whether Tasmania will concur in any resolutions adopted by the conference in favour of further restrictive legislation, as a great deal depends on the character of the measure introduced, and Tasmanian public opinion will be far more likely to be influenced by a desire that Australian legislation shall recognise, not only the selfish interests of its insular position, but the wider field of national interests generally coupled with the term Imperial. The efforts of Tasmania will be turned in the direction of assisting rather than impeding the Home authorities in what it is hoped will continue to be their desire of concluding such treaties, whether with China or other countries, as will be consistent with international friendly relations. Mr. Fysh comes accredited with full powers to represent the Tasmanian Government, not only on the Chinese question, but on any other points which may arise with regard to intercolonial matters: but, of course, any legislation agreed to by the conference will have to be submitted to the Tasmanian Parliament. The Tasmanian Chinese Restriction Act, which imposes a poll tax of £10 per head and limits the number of immigrants to one per 100 of a vessel's tonnage, has been found, according to Mr. Fysh, quite sufficient for the purpose of checking the influx of Chinese. Mr. Fysh, however, agrees with that portion of Mr. Gillies' memorandum to the Home Government which pointed out that the legislation already in existence had proved to be sufficiently stringent, as was shown by the fact that whilst in 1881 over 1500 Chinamen arrived in Victoria, the number of arrivals since the passage of the Restriction Act had been reduced to less than 500 a year. If a more restrictive measure is passed in Tasmania, it will be solely upon the grounds of those broader interests which should lead, in Mr. Fysh's opinion, each colony to co-operate with the other on this all-important question. This broader view may lead the Tasmanian Parliament ultimately to agree to a more restrictive measure, but Mr. Fysh evidently holds the opinion that no circumstances have yet arisen which call for any further restrictive legislation. With regard to the position taken up by Lord Knutsford, Mr. Fysh points out that the despatch which was sent by Lord Knutsford to all the colonies in January last, has not yet been officially replied to by the South Australian Government, and that up the present time there has, therefore, been no united expression of Australian opinion on this question offered to the Home Government by which their deliberations might be assisted. The Tasmanian Premier considers that the position taken up by the Home Government is a perfectly correct one, and sees no reason for complaint about it. Tasmania has joined in representations to the Home Government, urging them to conclude, as speedily as possible, a treaty with China definitely settling this vexed question, and this matter amongst others will be brought under the consideration of the conference. Tasmania, says her representative, wants to strengthen the hands of the Home Government, and not to cause irritation between a friendly Government like China and the British Empire. Any legislation which tends in this direction will, Mr. Fysh states, be hailed with gratification by the Tasmanian people. Mr. Fysh's stay in Sydney will be only a short one, as he cannot remain in here after Friday next, important legislative business compelling him to leave on that day for Tasmania. The conference had arrived at no conclusion with regard to the general question when the sitting (shortly before 5 o'clock) closed for the day.

The members will resume their deliberations at half-past 9 o'clock to-day.

At half-past 12 o'clock the delegates will be entertained by the Ministry at a harbour picnic on board the Government launch Premier. Amongst the gentlemen who have been invited to be present are—Sir John Hay, President of the Legislative Council; Sir Frederick Darley, Chief Justice; the Hon. J. H. Young, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly; Major-General Richardson, and Colonel Roberts.

DEPARTURE OF THE GUTHRIE AND THE CHINGTU.

The harbour is now free from vessels carrying Chinese immigrants. The steamship Guthrie sailed for Hongkong shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, under circumstances which seemed to afford some guarantee that the homeward voyage would be a peaceful one. The vessel had coaled at Newcastle, and on the occasion that she sailed hence for that port there was a most determined attempt by her passengers to break away from the surveillance of the police. Since the ship returned to this port there had been many manifestations of discontent on the part of the passengers, and they had not hesitated to declare that, unless they received something by way of compensation, they would very unwillingly leave this port. After much consideration, the conclusion was arrived at by the local representatives of the owners of the vessel that it would not be desirable to send the Chinese to sea without previously pacifying them. The next thing to be done was to ascertain what the views of the passengers were as to the amount they should receive. In order to elicit definite information upon this point, the mediation of Mr. Quong Tart (of Sydney) and Mr. Lew Tye Shing (of Melbourne) was sought. The two gentlemen named, as well as Mr. Meeks (of Gibbs, Bright, and Co.) and one or two others, visited the vessel yesterday, and interrogated the Victorian-bound passengers as to the amounts they would accept in full satisfaction of any claims they might have against the owners of the vessel. The adults signified their willingness to receive £11 each, and it was arranged that the "boys" should be paid £6 each. This agreement simply related to 40 Victorian-bound passengers who had not been sent to their destination. There were also on board 18 other Chinese passengers originally booked to this port, holders of exemption papers which had been rejected by the Customs. It was held that these 18 had no one but themselves to blame for being sent back to Hongkong, and therefore no offer of compensation was made to them. The terms of the agreement entered into with the other 40 provided that they should each be paid £1 on their departure and the balance after the vessel had passed Port Darwin. Some time was occupied in paying over the sovereigns and taking the signatures of the recipients, in transhipping 10 Chinese passengers to the Waihora for conveyance to New Zealand ports, and the embarkation of some Chinese passengers from Sydney. A few minutes before the vessel sailed the 18 rejected men were called aft, and Mr. Quong Tart and Mr. Lew Tye Shing (acting on behalf of themselves and other Chinese residents in Sydney and Melbourne) presented each of them with a sovereign—an unexpected donation, for which they expressed their deepest gratitude. Mr. Tart obtained from all of the unfortunate fellows a promise that on the return journey they would not attempt to create any disturbance. The Guthrie cast off from the wharf at a quarter-past 4 o'clock with 85 Chinese. Of these 40 were originally booked to Melbourne, 18 were holders of rejected exemption papers with which they had sought to land at Sydney, 11 were passengers from Sydney, including one transhipped from the Sea Nymph, and 16 were members of the crew.

The steamship Chingtu sailed for Melbourne at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She took hence 75 Chinese, 59 of whom were members of the crew, and 16 passengers brought to this port by the steamship Changsha.

The principal Chinese residents of Sydney have prepared for presentation to the Legislative Council of New South Wales a petition, which is in several respects similar to the memorial forwarded yesterday to the Intercolonial Chinese conference. The petitioners express a feeling of thankfulness for the careful consideration bestowed by the Council upon the Chinese Restriction Act, and, amongst other things, they pray the House to embody in the bill some provision which would enable Chinese carrying on business in the other colonies to visit Sydney whenever they may desire to do so. The Chinese regard the fixing of the poll tax at £100 as unnecessarily severe, and express a hope that the Legislative Council will reconsider the proposal to exclude Chinese from mining, or to only allow the same under Ministerial sanction. The petitioners state that it is well known that the Chinese only follow the Europeans and manage to live out of inferior mines, out of which Europeans fail to make a subsistence, and that excluding Chinese from mining would in fact mean a serious loss of material wealth to the country at large. The petitioners also point to the hardship involved in the absence of provision for Chinese residents visiting other parts of the world and returning to their homes in this colony, and suggest that any difficulty in identifying holders of exemption tickets would be completely overcome by the applicants for such tickets being required to lodge photographs and giving other particulars serving to complete identification.

Messrs. Lorimer, Rome, and Co. have, we learn, been in communication with the Premier of Tasmania, and from a conversation which they have had with Mr. Fysh, they believe that no objection will be offered to a number of the Launceston-bound Chinese now aboard the steamship Changsha, which is at Newcastle, being forwarded to their destination.

Mr. Quong Tart has received from the principal Chinese residents of Launceston a letter, in which they ask Mr. Tart to ascertain whether the authorities in this colony will offer any opposition to the continuance of the custom of Chinese returning from Tasmania to China being transhipped in this port. There is no direct line of vessels from Tasmania to China, and therefore all Chinese who journey to and from Tasmania have to proceed via Sydney.

THE CHANGSHA AT NEWCASTLE.

NEWCASTLE, TUESDAY.

The Changsha came in at daylight and went to No. 3 Crane, and is now loading coal for China. Inspector Hyam reports all quiet on board, the Chinese being guarded by the Sydney police, assisted by a contingent of Newcastle officers. Twelve Chinese arrived this morning per steamer Sydney, from Sydney, and were transhipped at 7 o'clock in the Government launch to the steamer Hauroto, which leaves for New Zealand to-day.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Would you be kind enough to grant me a small space in your paper to say what I know of the Chinese question, here and in other lands, and from both sides of it. In China a European is only allowed to hold property within certain limits in the treaty ports; if you go outside your limits you do it at your own risk, if you get knocked on the head the Chinese Government will not punish the offender nor allow you to punish him; and if you injure one, you are in Chinese territory as soon as you leave your boundary line, and are, of course, under their law. In our country they can go and come at their own sweet will, and enjoy the same rights that we do in every way, and, as yet, there are only three parties making money out of it, the British merchants in China, the shipowners, and John. In San Francisco the following trades employ 90 per cent. of Chinese labour:—Cabinetmakers, bootmakers, laundries, cigar makers, tailors farming, and gardening; storekeepers, 20 per cent.; domestic servants and general labouring, there are more than 100,000 Chinese in San Francisco alone. Now, the same thing is going on here; they have got the sway in five or six houses at Potts; in two of them, even the lady's man, or maid, is a Chinaman. Fully a third of the British vessels afloat are manned by Chinese or Malays, as evinced in this port by the 'Frisco mail boats, the P. and O Company, and the Chinese mail boats. British seamen in Britain have to starve, and here Australian workmen and servant girls, to give them work. I would sooner keep John as a pauper than keep my brother as a pauper. It is only a question of wages at the beginning; it is really a question of one race against another—Caucasian v. the Mongolian. I would not injure John in any way; and I must acknowledge they are our superiors in many things. I have used the boycott as far as I could for 12 years, and always will. In regard to the bill now before Parliament, the 19th clause is just the usual gate to drive a coach and six through, because there are in the Straits Settlements and Hongkong close on 1,000,000 ChineseBritish subjects. Even if there was not one 10dol. at any time would make them a British subject. I only trust the agitation won't cease till we gain our ends, both for our own sakes and our children's who have to come after us. I hope the muscle of the country will go in for the boycott to the extreme. Hoping you will insert this,

THE RACE BETWEEN TRICKETT AND HANLAN ON THE FITZROY.

The long-talked-of sculling contest between Edward Trickett, Australia's first champion, and the Canadian oarsman and ex-champion of the world, Edward Hanlan, takes place on the Fitzroy River, at Rockhampton, to-day. From all accounts a great race should take place between these rival scullers, and the match will doubtless be witnessed by many thousands of people, as in addition to the interest which naturally centres in this race, the Queenslanders, and more particularly the people of Rockhampton, are exceedingly anxious to see Hanlan on the water. As is tolerably well known, it is now some 12 years since Trickett defeated Sadler on the Thames course, and won the championship of the world. After holding it for a period of four years he was beaten by Hanlan, who at that time was deemed invincible on the water. On the occasion of his second race with Hanlan, the Australian was again defeated. After the Canadian was worsted by Beach on the Parramatta River, and still later on the Nepean, Trickett expressed himself as being desirous of meeting Hanlan on the Fitzroy. He accordingly challenged Hanlan, and the match was made. When the articles were drawn up, Beach had handed over the championship to the care of Kemp. The articles therefore stipulated that the race should be for £500 a-side and the championship of the world if Hanlan happened to hold it at the time the contest took place; if not, the race was to be for £500 a-side, the winner to take 75 per cent. and the loser 25 per cent. of the gate-money after expenses had been paid. The course is a measured one of 3¼ miles long, on what is known as the Lightship Reach in the Fitzroy River. The time of starting is left to the referee, but it is not to be before two hours of high water. The start is to be a mutual one from boats moored not less than 25 yards apart, and the competitors are allowed 15 minutes to get away of their own accord. The race will be under the new recognised rules of boat racing. Hanlan has been allowed £100 for expenses. The stakes are held by the proprietors of the Morning Bulletin at Rockhampton. Late advices stated that Hanlan was the favourite at 2 to 1 on. It is also said that Trickett, who has improved on the form he exhibited when he was last defeated by Hanlan, has every confidence in his ability to row a great race, and he even expresses the opinion that he has a good chance of winning. The probabilities are, however, that Hanlan will be too fast for the Australian, and if once the latter falls to the rear the victory should lie with the Canadian. It would be somewhat of a surprise to many people if Trickett were to win; but such a win would be very popular, as there are a great number of aquatic men who would like to see the one-time champion sculler of the world defeat his old antagonist. Should Trickett win the race his supporters will probably feel justified in offering to back him to row against Kemp.

ROCKHAMPTON, TUESDAY.

The interest in the boatrace between Trickett and Hanlan is increasing as the day approaches, and although the betting is still 2 to 1 on Hanlan, not so much money is available at that price. Trickett is almost certain to go to the post at 6 to 4. Several totalisators were opened in town to-day, and on these speculation was about even, with a leaning if anything in favour of Trickett, who expresses perfect confidence in his ability to win. He has shown really splendid condition in his training work. The race starts at noon sharp.

AMUSEMENTS.

CRITERION THEATRE.

There will be a change of programme at the Criterion Theatre this evening. "Much Ado About Nothing" will be reproduced. To-morrow night—vice-regal command night—the same comedy will be repeated, and on Saturday night it will give place to "Pygmalion and Galatea."

With the very worthy object of benefiting the Hospital for Sick Children, a concert was given last evening, in the New Masonic Hall, Castlereagh-street; and the very large audience which was present justifies the hope that the aim of the promoters will have so well succeeded that the charity may be substantially aided in consequence. Given under the patronage of the Hon. the Minister for Public Instruction, the management was undertaken by Herr Hugo Alpen, who had with him the children from the Crown-street Public (Girls') school—all tastefully dressed, and bearing wreaths and other floral devices. These children sang tunefully Alpen's "Australian Anthem," and a pretty valse song "The Fairy Queen," during the latter dancing gleefully "round the fairy ring," the details of the dance being quite elaborate, yet performed with ease. There were also "tableaux" of the "The Seasons," and a Floral March, all arranged by Captain Mulholland. Herr Alpen was assisted by Mr. Fitzpatrick, Mr. J. Thompson Brown, and Mrs. Innes, who contributed various songs. The entertainment concluded with a little operetta "Red Riding Hood," in which the children took a prominent part. The evening seemed to pass pleasantly, and to the satisfaction of the audience.

KIAMA TO SHOALHAVEN RAILWAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It would appear from Sir Henry Parkes's speech, and the interjections of the Opposition, that the above railway is one for which a loan estimate has to be provided. This is so far from the fact that I may remark that that railway is one of the objects of a former loan of £5,500,000, and is stated in the schedule thereto as the railway from Kiama to Jervis Bay, 41 miles, estimate £804,000. When I came to the colony, 26 years ago, I examined the qualities and capacities of various districts, and came to the conclusion that there were none superior to the Shoalhaven. I may observe that it contains four municipalities, that the price of the farm lands is from £30 to £50 per acre, that the area of alluvial land is one-third larger than the whole valley of the Hunter, and that the hills are mostly chocolate soils of a quality similar to Bulli, Dapto, and Gerringong. The coal seams have been the subject of many eulogistic reports, and the gold mines have always been payable. And yet there is a question of extending a railway a few miles to this splendid district, whilst the hungry sandstones are being perforated in all directions by railways which will be miracles if they pay. Even the price of allotments in the various Shoalhaven townships or villages ranges from £5 per foot to £30. There are four steamers weekly, and yet it is certain that the soil is not taxed to one-fourth of its capability, as carriage is not speedy, nor even cheap. The estimate of £804,000 is unfair as regards Shoalhaven, because it includes going through Kiama and compensation for the town lands there, the original excess of cost over estimate having been incurred in getting out of the sandstones and tunneling through to the Illawarra district. It is not a wrong estimate to say that £200,000 will practically tap the Shoalhaven district, and the sections for that distance have been ready years ago.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

Come-by-chance race meeting was granted registration by the A. J. C. yesterday.

The adjustments for the principal handicaps to be decided at the annual meeting of the Hay Jockey Club appear elsewhere in this issue.

Mr. Joseph Kean, who has filled the position of starter to Tattersall's Club, Rosehill Racing Club, Canterbury Park Race Club, and other racing institutions for some time past, has determined to relinquish the flag, and devote his attention to other pursuits. During his connection with the turf in the capacity of starter Mr. Kean was very successful, and on many occasions his abilities met with most emphatic and spontaneous recognition; and, though his retirement was not altogether unexpected, numbers of true sportsmen will learn with regret that he has thought fit to tender his resignation to the clubs mentioned.

Mr. Danger's bay colt by Splendor from Emilia has been named Mohawk.

Anticipating the weights for the Melbourne Cup, the speculative public have already commenced wagering on that event, both in straight out and double betting. The Australian Peer and Silver Prince have many admirers, who have accepted 100 to 4 to a considerable amount; Tetford has been backed at 100 to 3; 1000 to 30 has been taken in one hand about Cranbrook; and Algerian's name has been written for a wager of 500 to 10. The doubles range from 1000 to 2 to 1000 to 1 for "mixed goods."

The secretary of the Rosehill Racing Club writes stating that through an oversight the name of Invader was omitted from the list of entries for the Rosehill June Handicap, which appeared in our issue of yesterday.

The committee of the Sydney Driving Park Club, Limited, have decided to hold supplementary trotting and race meetings every other Wednesday, in addition to their usual monthly meetings, the first to be held on the 27th instant, and the subsequent ones on August 1 and 15, September 5 and 19, October 10 and 24, November 7 and 28, December 12 and 29. The programme for the 27th instant is as follows:—Distance Handicap Trot, 20 sovs., 2 miles, saddle and harness; Pony Handicap Trot, a trophy value 15 sovs. and 5 sovs. added, 2 miles, saddle and harness, catch weights; Handicap Galloway Race, of 10 sovs., 1 mile; Selling Galloway Race, of 10 sovs., ¾ mile; Handicap Pony Race, of 10 sovs., ¾ mile; Selling Pony Race, of 10 sovs., ¾ mile. Entries close Wednesday, 20th instant, and the full conditions can be seen in our business columns. A liberal programme has also been framed for their July meeting, at which £215 will be disbursed in prizes.

The adjustments for the Time Handicap Trot, to be decided at the coming meeting of the Hay Jockey Club, framed by Mr. T. M. Alcock, were issued yesterday, and appear in another part of this paper. The handsome Doncaster has been placed at the top of the list, with 65 seconds behind scratch, and concedes a start of 10 seconds to Cyclone, while Cuthawarraw, Barmaid, and Romer have been fixed at scratch. The handicap should bring together a good field, as the prize is worth competing for.

The residents of Corindi, north-coast district, are taking steps for the formation of a racing club, and in the event of being successful, will organise a midsummer race meeting, to be held on the course at Lucas's Plains.

A match has been made for £25, one mile, w.f.a., between Mr. E. Bridges' Secret and Mr. F. Caban's Safeguard, by Mailguard. The contest will take place on the Laguna racecourse.

The recent visit of the Marquis of Drogheda to the Australian colonies has led to the introduction of a numbered saddle-cloth system on the racecourses of Great Britain, where it will possibly soon be as prevalent as on the colonial turf. The numbered saddle cloths were first used at the Kildare and National Hunt races at Punchestown, in April last, when they gave great satisfaction.

The Queensland colt Double Strain, by Robinson Crusoe from Maid Marion, has been purchased with a view of being sent to Western Australia.

Snapshot, a son of Musket and Venture, was lately sold at Dunedin for 62 guineas; while the Apremont filly, Apres Moi, who was submitted to auction at the same time, was retained by her owner at 212 guineas.

GOULBURN COURSING CLUB.

GOULBURN, TUESDAY.

The Goulburn Coursing Club have fixed the date for the two next meetings as Friday and Saturday, July 27th and 28th, and September 14th and 15th. A £30 trophy will be added for the President's Stake at next meeting.

FOOTBALL IN SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, TUESDAY.

At a meeting of the committee of the Football Association to-night, it was decided to grant their patronage to the English and Essendon (Victoria) football teams. It was decided to inform the promoters of the English tour that the association would not favour the idea of English teams coming to Australia, and would be jealous of granting patronage to future teams.

CRICKET.

The following are the principal averages for the Lilywhite C.C. for the past season:—Batting: Cowley 55 runs, Mannix 22. Bowling: Pearce, 36 wickets, at an average of 6½ runs; Cowley also made the highest not-out score.

FOOTBALL.

A match was played at Parramatta on Tuesday between King's School students and ex-students and the British footballers. The game took place on the Parramatta Cricket Ground, in the presence of about 1200 spectators. The school, which was represented by seven masters and students, and eight ex-students, captained by Mr. Bennett, one of the masters, was placed as follows:—Bayliss, full back; Bennett, C. Wade, and Hungerford, half-backs; White and Weaver, quarters; Rice, L. Wade, Ingram, Hall, Priddle, Rand, Tange, and Burkitt, forwards. Mr. T. A. Brodie umpired for the school, Mr. T. Banks for the British players, and Mr. Thallon acted as referee. The school kicked off, and before the ball had been in play three minutes the school worked it on to the British line, when the defenders were compelled to force. After the kick out the visitors followed up well, and the ball got into Anderton's hands, who, when he was collared, passed to Haslam, but Wade was upon him in an instant. From the scrimmage that ensued the school got the ball, and Bennett made a grand run. When collared he passed to Rice, and Rice to Wade. This brought the ball again into the British 25. Here Anderton got it, and soon had the school line in danger, but Hungerford brought him down splendidly. Ingram, Baylies, and Burkitt showed some good play, and their passing was excellent. Working it well down, Burkitt made a dash for the English line, but Paul stopped him just in time. Burnett got the ball out of the scrimmage, but was stopped by Anderton. Wade got the ball directly afterwards, and making a shot at goal, placed the ball behind the line, and the British players forced down a second time. As soon as the ball was kicked out it was well returned by the school, and the play for a time was in the centre of the ground. Wade made a fair catch, and kicked into the English quarters, where the ball went in touch. Stoddart was waiting for it and sent it right back into the school territory, the ball bounding and striking the post. Baylies and Wade here made some grand runs, and soon the ball was in the British territory. Stoddart, Haslam, and Paul did good service. Stoddart came into the School 25, and when tackled he passed to Anderton, and the latter, when he seemed to have a good show, passed to Brooks, who missed it, and the ball went in touch. Wade kicked off, and Weaver, following up, took the ball into the centre of the ground. Here Stoddart again got it, but when near the school line he was tackled by Baylies. Immediately afterwards the school forced for the first time. After the kick out Rice, White, and Bennett showed good play, and working the ball gradually into the English 25, Rice secured it and dashed in, right between the goals. Baylies was entrusted with the kick, and scored an easy goal. Scores, 5 points to nil. Anderton kicked off, and after a few minutes play the school forced. Time after time Stoddart, Brooks, and Haslam tried their best, but could not get past the half-backs. A piece of quick and long passing from Stoddart to Haslam, and that player just fell over the school line, and scored a touch near the boundary line. Anderton took the kick, and failed to increase the total. Score: School, 5; British players, 2. Half-time was then called, but by consent play went straight on after changing sides. The Englishmen kicked off, and in a very short time Stoddart got the ball, and passed to Anderton, who got a touch near the goal posts. Anderton tried the kick, but badly missed the goal. Scores: School, 5; Englishmen, 4. The school, shortly after the kick off, got a touch, but it was disallowed, off-side being called by the umpires. The ball was brought back to the middle of the ground near the line, and G. Hale, one of the schoolboys, got the ball passed to him, and, carrying Anderton over with him, he scored the second touch for the school amidst great excitement. Bayliss by a beautiful kick converted it into a goal. From this out play was wonderfully fast, and the boys were on to each player who had the ball passed to him, but eventually the school was forced. Rice soon after showed some good play, and dribbled the ball well down to the English 25, but Stoddart passed to Mathers, who had an easy chance for a pot at goal, but refused it, and was soon tackled. Out of the scrimmage Brooks passed to Stoddart, who sent it on to Haslam, and that player got a touch near the boundary line. Anderton again attempted the kick at goal, and, although he failed, it was a splendid kick. Again the Englishmen forced the play, but the school responded; Rice, Bennett, Weaver, Burkitt, and Baylis showing great play. Stoddart and Brooks, by working well together, got close to the line, where the ball was passed to Thomas, who ran in with it. Paul tried the kick, and failed. Score: School 10, British players 8. The School kicked off, and a great deal of off-side play was indulged in by both sides. The Englishmen spoilt a very good chance for the School by a bit of hand ball. Anderton soon after got the ball, and took it up to the School's quarter, where Wade met him, and a scrimmage was formed. From this the ball was passed to Bayliss, who dribbled across his own goal, and Anderton, seeing the opportunity, collared the ball and secured a touch. This was the only mistake Bayliss made, and a grievous one it was, as only for it the School must have won. This made the fifth touch for the Englishmen, but Paul failed to add to add to the score by the kick at goal, and the score stood 10 all. With a few more minutes to play, the Englishmen strained every nerve, and at last succeeded in forcing the School, when time was called, the game resulting in a draw. Taking the play all through, the boys were certainly not behind their opponents. Their tackling was splendid, and their passing and kicking was worthy of any team that could be picked to represent the colony.

The following matches were played on Saturday:—

A match was played at Petersham on Saturday between the Second Lillywhites and Carlingfords, and it resulted in a win for the former by 18 points to 2. For the winners, Stephens got two tries, Suttor two, Wallace one, and Sinclair one. For the losers, Bardsley got the try.

St. James's F. C. and St. Joseph's F. C. played at Toxteth Park, and the match resulted in a draw in favour of St. James's, who forced the latter three times.

AQUATICS.

The proposed match between Stansbury and Searle was not made last evening, and it will not be made unless the Clarence River sculler defeats Wulf on Friday next. In view of the fact that Stansbury had gone into training for the proposed match with Searle, Neil Matterson has put down £10 to cover the Shoalhaven man's training expenses if the match is not made. We are informed that Matterson will be prepared to back Searle to row Stansbury for £100 a-side in a fortnight's time if the former beats Wulf.

Searle and Wulf are both in good fettle for their race on Friday. Wulf has had his work lowered a little, and he is now sculling with more freedom of action than usual. He will row at about 12st. 2lb. Searle, who is showing good form on the water, will scale about 11st. 7lb. on the day of the race. The steamers Gosford and Charlotte Fenwick will leave No. 4 Jetty at 3 p.m. on Friday to follow the scullers.

A movement has been started in St. John, N.B. (says Turf, Field, and Farm) for the construction of a yacht to endeavour to wrest the supremacy from the American centre-boards. David Lynch, shipbuilder, who has built some fast vessels, has prepared a model, and it is probable that before long the work of construction will be begun. It bears a close resemblance to the Volunteer, but differs from it in some essential points There will be very little displacement, and it is claimed that the boat will stand up better under a heavy press of canvas than any of the American racers, and will be able to carry more sail.

A LAME BACK IS A TORMENT.
It is usually ascribed either to a strain or to rheumatism. Nine times out of ten it is kidney disease. Be wise in time; take DR. BELL'S (Kidney and Liver) BITTERS for your lame back and avoid the dangers of which it is the warning.—[ADVT.]

CASUALTIES.

FIRE IN WILLIAM-STREET.

At half-past 10 o'clock last night a fire broke out in premises No. 74, William-street, near Riley-street, Woolloomooloo, occupied by Messrs. John Stewart and Co., carrying on business as retail grocers. The alarm was raised by a man who happening to be passing the locality observed the flames, and at once he communicated with the Metropolitan Fire Station in Castlereagh-street, from whence a steamer engine and a detachment of men were despatched to the scene of the outbreak. On arrival it was found that the flames had obtained a strong hold of the building, which was constructed of brick, with a slate roof, and the work of the firemen was consequently rendered more difficult, but by strenuous exertions the fire was confined to the premises in which it originated. The contents of the shop consisted of a large quantity of groceries, &c., all of which were destroyed, together with the furniture in the portion of the building used as a dwelling-house. The entire structure, which comprised eight rooms besides the shop, was entirely gutted and burned out. The contents were stated to be insured in the office of the Colonial Mutual Company for £250, but it is not known whether the premises were insured. At present the origin of the fire is not known, but further inquiries are being made.

Yesterday morning, as a boy named Martin Neila, 8 years of age, residing in Thomas-street, Redfern, was passing St. Benedict's Church, another boy, whose name is at present unknown, knocked him down. He fell upon the pavement with great violence, and was rendered unconscious by the shock. As quickly as possible the injured lad was conveyed to Prince Alfred Hospital, where, upon being examined by Dr. Bancroft, it was found that he had sustained a contused wound at the side of the head. He was admitted as a patient.

On Monday evening, as a boy named William Hardy, residing in Wells-street, Newtown, was taking his tea, a piece of hard bread became caught in his throat in such a manner as to baffle all efforts to dislodge it. Upon being taken to Prince Alfred Hospital the obstacle was removed by Dr. Blaxstead.

At about 1 o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in the premises of Mr. William Service, produce merchant, Avoca-street, Randwick. In response to the alarm the Waverley Volunteer Company were quickly at the scene of the conflagration with their new engine, and were soon making efforts to extinguish the flames. The M. F. B. soon after arrived, and the two companies made every effort to save the property, but the flames had gained such headway that it was quite impossible to do so. The following is the extent of the damage:—A two-storied building of brick, with an iron roof, about 50 by 50 feet, containing a large quantity of general produce, together with a boiler, engine, &c., burned out, and the most part of the premises have fallen down. Four horses were burned to death, and a fifth was very severely burned. The building was insured in the Union Fire Company of New Zealand for £75, and the contents were also insured in the same office for the same amount. A fire broke out on the same premises on the 18th of June, 1886. The cause of the fire is unknown.

At about a quarter to 7 o'clock last night a small fire was discovered in a warehouse occupied by Messrs. Mason Brothers, Nos. 63 to 69, Kent-street. The amount of damage done was small, being confined to a crate of crockery, which was partly broken, and a quantity of straw that was burned. The flames were extinguished by the employees with buckets of water, and the Metropolitan Fire Brigade also appeared on the scene soon after the alarm was given, but their services were not required. The building and contents were both insured in various offices. The origin of the fire is unknown.

A man named Henry Barrett, 24 years of age, a fireman on board the steamer Liguria, was admitted to the Sydney Hospital yesterday by Dr. Gwynne-Hughes, who found the patient to be suffering from injuries to the left hip, which were caused through his being knocked down and run over by a cab in Lower George-street.

A middle-aged woman, whose name could not be ascertained, was taken to the Sydney Hospital late last night by Police-constable Brennan, who stated that he found her lying on the flags in Oxford-street, apparently in a fit. On being examined at the institution by Dr. Fisher she was found to be in a state of violent alcoholic hysteria.

Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, an elderly man named Thomas Moloney was taken to the Sydney Hospital in an unconscious condition, and admitted by Dr. Gwynne-Hughes. It appears that the man was knocked down by an omnibus, in George-street, near Christ Church, and was rendered insensible by the concussion. On being placed under examination he was found to be bleeding from the right ear and the nose, and the pupils of the eyes acted slightly by exposure to the light. His condition up till a late hour last night was regarded as very serious.

A rather painful accident happened to a shoemaker named George Geddes, residing at Newtown, shortly after 6 o'clock last evening. He was driving in a delivery van, when his vehicle collided with a Waterloo tram, near the railway station, and he was thrown to the ground, and received severe injuries to the back and the right arm. He was admitted to the Sydney Hospital for treatment.

GENERAL POST OFFICE CLOCK BELLS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your correspondent "M. H.," writing on the above subject, is apparently wedded to old ideas, and very apt to prejudice public opinion against progress. I would here remind "M. H.," and also the general public, that we are in an era of enlightenment and advancement. Not many years ago steam, electricity, &c., were unknown, and upon discovery were much ridiculed by the prejudiced. Look at their accomplishments. To return to the subject of tubular bells. If "M. H." had been to England recently, he could have seen many towers where the old clumsy bells have been replaced by the harmonious sound-producing tubular bells, which are daily coming into use and favour, both in England and the Continent. "M. H.," as a practical man, must be aware that the sound of a bell is only derived from the thick ring at its mouth, all the remaining mass of metal only serves for its suspension, and it is very surprising that science was so long discovering such a simple and splendid substitute for bells. New ideas and inventions are always criticised, and are seldom perfected at first. The tubular bells, I am confident are open to improvement, and for this very strong reason I should like to see them adopted, because they could be easily changed with both little trouble and cost, whereas the old clumsy heavy bells would have to be hoisted up outside the building and taken through the dial aperture and fixed before any work connected with the clock could be carried on, which would also be a very dangerous undertaking with such a high tower, now that all scaffolding has been taken away. The only two remarks of "M. H." which carry any weight at all, viz., the oscillation of the tubes by the wind and their vibration against the hammer after a few strokes, can be easily rectified by a competent tradesmen. I have no desire to take up too much of your valuable space by replying to the rest of "M. H.'s" statements, feeling assured that, like the fable of the Old Man and his Ass, it will be a difficult thing to satisfy everybody. In conclusion, I trust this great and prosperous young country will shrink from the old prejudices and adopt all improvements, and show the world that we

OUR QUARANTINE REGULATIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The Live Stock Journal of May 4, in mentioning the first shipment of pure-bred stock to this colony, on the 30th of April, says:—"They were animals of first-class description, a number of people witnessed their departure, and considering the excessive care which is compulsory before they are shipped, the trucks and boxes running up to the ship's side, the examinations and restrictions imposed, a strong feeling was expressed that colonial Governments will see their way to date the lengthened quarantine of 120 days from the day when the vessel leaves English shores. In this opinion we fully concur The veterinary inspection on this side, and the care to select stock from localities which are free from pleuro-pneumonia, render the long quarantine quite unnecessary." What will they say in England when they hear that this long quarantine has not been imposed to guard against pleuro-pneumonia—which we already have all over Australia—but to guard against foot-and-mouth, a disease that has not existed in the United Kingdom since October, 1885? How the Americans must laugh at us! During all the time foot-and-mouth disease was raging in England they imported cattle in thousands, over 3000 head of Hereford cattle alone having been sent over during one year, and now, when they are anxious to keep out pleuro-pneumonia, they only impose 30 days' quarantine. Now, if this term, after a short voyage, is sufficient for America to prevent the introduction of a disease which now exists in England, surely it is sufficient after a two or three months' voyage to prevent the introduction of a disease which does not exist in England, and a case of which has not been known for nearly three years. I maintain it is against reason and common sense to quarantine cattle on arrival from England after being shipped as the Live Stock Journal describes, and which we clean on arrival here. To show the want of common sense in framing these regulations, I may mention that sheep only undergo 90 days' quarantine, and yet American sheep are scabbed to the eyes, and more of them will probably be imported than any others. I joined a deputation last week who waited on the Minister for Mines, but all he appeared to be inclined to do was to reduce the term on cattle to 90 days, making it the same as it is for sheep. I trust others will take this matter up, and get the Government to agree at least to date the term of quarantine from the day cattle leave England; at the same time I think the term on sheep should be increased to 120 days. I am, &c.,

June 11. REGINALD WYNDHAM.

A number of gentlemen interested in the lighting of railway carriages electrically, on the invitation of Mr. John Noble, general manager of the Midland Railway Company, have recently (Electrician says) visited their works at Derby, to witness the working between that town and Manchester of the system of electric lighting of railway carriages designed by Mr. J. A. Timmis. The chief feature of the system is that it secures "through lighting" in a train by the adoption of the Union battery stored in each vehicle; and by this means any carriage may be put into a siding, or be slipped from a train, without interfering with the maintenance of the light. In case one or more of the vehicles are slipped or break loose from a train, the lamps in them, if lit, remain lighted; and if they are not lit, provision is made for their being automatically lighted up.

The Australasian Mining Exchange Company report the following quotations:—Hunter River Steam, seller 9; Newcastle Steam, seller 10s. 6d.; Industrial Fire Insurance, seller 26s.; Saywell's Tobacco, buyer 13s. 6d., seller 15s.

All the available shares in Tooth's Brewery Company, Limited, representing £380,000 out of the total capital of £900,000, have been applied for, including £50,000 reserved for the constituents and employees of the firm. The eagerness to take up shares was so great that to-day, within an hour after the opening of the offices of Messrs. Jones and Black, brokers to the company, the whole were applied for, on the brief notices appearing in the morning papers. The whole of the capital will be payable within three or four months. This, we believe, represents the largest amount of subscriptions tendered for co-operative enterprise payable in so short a time in the colony. The provisional directors are Mr. R. L. Tooth, the Hon. James White, M.L.C., the Hon. R. H. D. White, M.L.C., Messrs. J. G. Cohen, J. B. Christian, A. A. Dangar, F. N. Burt, C. C. Skarratt, and R. Jones, jun.

In the Import markets to-day business was extremely quiet. There is scarcely anything doing in the flour trade, quotations being as follows:—Stone makes, £8 to £9 5s.; roller, £8 15s. to £9 10s. Two hundred boxes and 50 half-chests tea at 8s. 3d. for boxes and 13d. per lb. for half-chests comprised all that was sold of the auction catalogue submitted. The demand for sugar remains very slack. 120 cases tinned salmon sold at 8s. 3d. Some little inquiry for currants, at about 5d. for ordinary quality. A full shipment advised for the month. Jordan almonds were done at 1s. 6d., but for prime samples 1s. 8d. to 1s. 9d. required. Salt is steady at late quotations. A large shipment of rock reported for the month ended May 9. Candles are selling at 5⅝d. to 5¾d., according to brand, and again the month's export is unusually heavy. A small parcel of malt of ordinary quality was quitted at 6s. 3d. Hops moving in two to three bale lots at late quotations. The liquor trade disclosed no new feature, all prices being about the same as yesterday. The metal market remains extremely dull. Galvanised iron so far shows no symptoms of improvement, either as to demand or price; though probably both will come together when stocks are further reduced. But the month's shipments again slightly exceed the average. Tin plates are procurable from 17s. 6d. Wire shows no alteration in value, buyers purchasing less eagerly. Quicksilver is rather firmer, consequent on the receipt of a cablegram reporting an advance of 20s. per bottle in London. There is still a fair demand for most descriptions of lumber, for export, with a fairly firm market. A good line of cement has been bought for Melbourne at equal to 13s. 7½d. per barrel. As shipments have greatly fallen off and the demand is likely to be maintained, it is thought prices will be well supported. The sale is reported of 88 cases of Raven Twist, and 101 cases of Two Seas, Pocket Pieces, and Nailrod, besides a quantity to arrive; present quotations being, for Raven Twist, from 1s. 4½d., in bond; Two Seas, Pocket pieces, Nailrod, and Aromatic, 1s. 6d., in bond.

Messrs. Fraser and Co. advertise for sale to-morrow (Wednesday) morning, 521 packages tea, oilmen's stores, and provisions; and in the afternoon a catalogue of Oregon pine, lumber, sugar, pine doors, and a shipment of Baltic architraves, mouldings, &c.

According to the Miller's Gazette, the Argentine Republic last year developed unexpectedly large resources as a wheat exporter, the quantity exported in 1887 being 234,355 tons, against 37,304 tons in 1886, 106,895 tons in 1885, 59,856 tons in 1884, 1680 tons in 1883, and 154 tons in 1882. In the present year, however, it is not expected, owing to a less favourable crop, that the exports will much exceed 150,000 tons. La Plata wheat is very popular on the Continent, which took nearly 80 per cent. of last year's total exports from the Republic, only about 50,000 tons being imported into the United Kingdom. La Plata wheat is a rather brittle red wheat, of medium to low strength, with fair colour in the resulting flour, but is rather dirty generally, containing more than an average quantity of impurities. It is a very useful wheat to assimilate with damp English.

From Stables, Straker, and Co.'s circular, we learn that the shipments to the colonies for the month ended 9th May were valued at £1,826,400, against £1,687,100 in the preceding month, the increase being apparent rather than real, as the month's totals were swelled by the values of shipments of vessels carried over by the incidence of the holidays from the previous month. For the corresponding month of 1887, the combined values only amounted to £1,500,100. There was therefore an increase of nearly 22 per cent. on the figures for the year. To Sydney the shipments were valued at £569,700, a decrease on the preceding month's figures amounting to £36,000, but an increase on the total for the preceding year of £139,100, or 32 per cent. To Queensland there was a decrease in the shipments for the month, but an increase for the year. To Sydney the shipments included—Drapery, £155,000; rails and general machinery, £36,600; gunpowder, 3052cwt.; hardware, cutlery, £35,100; galvanised iron, 2154 tons; sheet lead, 275 tons; tin plates, 4464 boxes; wire and wire rope, 1772 tons; linseed oil, 18,020 gallons; cement, 10,130 barrels; tobacco, 528cwt.; brandy, in bulk 7900 proof gallons, in case 1590 proof gallons; rum, proof, 23,000 gallons; geneva, 11,500 proof gallons; British spirits, in bulk 17,080 proof gallons, in case 16,160 proof gallons; red wine, 2820 gallons; white wine, 6050 gallons; beer, bulk 2865 barrels of 36 gallons, glass 3617 barrels of 36 gallons; malt, 2872cwt.; sardines, £2360; assorted oilmen's stores, £11,030; while salt, 1093 tons; rock salt, 950 tons; candles, 5824cwt.; dates, 475cwt.; raisins, 993cwt.; currants, 2949cwt.

The value of the cargo of the Smyrna, wrecked off the Isle of Wight when on her way from London to Sydney, is stated as amounting to about £35,000, of which by far the larger portion consisted of drapery goods, assorted oilmen's stores, and sundries.

Dalgety and Company, Limited, have received a cablegram from London, dated 11th June, to the effect that owing to the heavy shipments of tallow from the Australian colonies and New Zealand, which amounted to 3600 tons in May, the London market is in a very irregular state, with a downward tendency.

The steamers Liguria and Fifeshire arrived in port from London to-day with cargoes valued at £36,600 and £25,500 respectively.

The following was the Customs revenue received to-day:—

Spirits, £2675 19s. 10d.; wine (still), £152; wine (sparkling), £20; ale, porter, and beer (in wood), £12 7s. 6d.; ale, porter, and beer (in bottles), £126 12s. 9d.; tobacco and snuff, £225 6s.; tobacco (unmanufactured, for manufacturing purposes only), £8 4s.; cigars, £84 7s. 11d.; tea, £188 9s. 3d.; coffee, £3 7s. 6d.; coffee (raw), £43 18s. 3d.; sugar (refined), £66 13s. 4d.; sugar (unrefined), £67 16s. 2d.; rice, £156 9s. 1d.; dried fruits, £62 1s.; sarsaparilla, £3 15s. Harbour and light rates, £86 18s.; pilotage (Sydney), £223 15s. 8d.; harbour dues, £12; colonial distilled spirits, £156 14s. 8d.; excise on beer, £238 11s. 3d. Total, £6262 6s. 6d.

Messrs. Batt, Rodd, and Purves report having sold this morning, at their rooms, portion of the Rosebank Estate, situate off Upper William-street, together with the residence thereon known as Rosebank, for the sum of £7000. The two residences and land comprising the balance of the estate were passed in, not reaching the auctioneers' reserves.

PURITY IS HEALTH. CORBETT'S WORCESTERSHIRE SALT. The well-known "Black Horse" brand, beautiful in colour, from the natural and pure brine springs of Stoke Prior, Worcestershire, as supplied to the Royal Families of England and Europe, should be exclusively used for all purposes where purity and health are of importance, for table purposes, in baking, dairy and provision curing, as physicians of eminence declare pure salt to be a vital constituent of the blood; hence the ancient proverb, "Ex sale salus"—from salt is health. Do not be misled by OUTLANDISH or SENTIMENTAL names for salt. You must not expect PURE water from an IMPURE fountain. Have confidence in an article that has stood the test of hundreds of years, and from one of the oldest firms in the trade. John Corbett, M.P., Stoke Prior Salt Works, Worcestershire. MR. MEESON'S WILL, by RIDER HAGGARD.
The Proprietors of the SYDNEY MAIL have purchased the Australasian Copyright of Mr. RIDER HAGGARD'S New Tale, entitled MR. MEESON'S WILL, the first chapters of which will appear in the MAIL NEXT WEEK, JUNE 23.
THE STORY WILL BE ILLUSTRATED FROM DRAWINGS BY THOSE WORLD-RENOWNED ARTISTS, A. R. FORESTIER and G. MONTBARD.
THE WHOLE OF THE ENGRAVINGS ARE MOST BEAUTIFUL AND CHARACTERISTIC.
Mr. Haggard's novels are the best read books of the day, not only throughout Europe, but the United States. According to some of the New York papers, the popularity of Mr. Rider Haggard in that city is astounding. It is said that "Allan Quatermain" was not out a day before everyone was reading it. In the elevated train in the morning every other man—grey-headed bank presidents and Wall-street magnates—sat with his nose buried between its pages. Mr. Haggard, it appears, is more popular among men than women. Women do not read him, and fail to appreciate his talents for ever-varying incident and adventure.
When his marvellous story, "She," was being published through the MAIL the week's issue was frequently run out, the demand for the paper being greater than the supply. Intending subscribers who desire to read this story would therefore do well to leave their orders with the newspaper agents without delay.
NO EXTRA CHARGE will be made, but each week's copy will be the usual price, SIXPENCE.

It is supposed that South Australia will before long send a representative to the Federal Council. The introduction of a bill to bring the colony within the operation of the Imperial Statute is a part of the policy of the new Ministry. The attempt has been made before, but has failed. Now, however, it is assumed that it will succeed. It is further taken for granted that when South Australia has joined the combination already formed by Victoria, Queensland, and Tasmania, with Western Australia and Fiji to round off the group, the isolation of New South Wales will become too conspicuous to be long endured by its people. We have no desire to be counted amongst the prophets, or to discuss the question whether this forecast is or is not likely to be fulfilled. So many reasons, however, have been assigned for the action of New South Wales in relation to the Federal Council scheme, and so much misunderstanding has been displayed from time to time upon that point, that it may be well, now that representative men from all the colonies are gathered together in Sydney, to throw a little light upon the question, as one in which interest has in some [illegible] revived.

In a recent explanatory refe[illegible] matter in another colony we fin[illegible] of what is supposed to be "the [illegible] why federation of the colonies h[illegible] posed" by our leading politicia[illegible] very outset, therefore, we find [illegible] tion. Some, at least, of our le[illegible] cians have been rather in favour [illegible] tion than against it. They [illegible] Federal Council scheme; but that [illegible] thing. They regarded it as [illegible] in the way of Federation. They still hold, if we mistake not, that the Federal Council must go before Federation can take place. It is a mistake to assume that we are all opposed to the genuine thing because we are distrustful of an illusory substitute for it.

The objections to the Federal Council scheme by which the action of this colony has been governed have not, as some have said, been dictated by a feeling of petty jealousy directed against any of the other colonies, although they were perhaps strengthened by a natural resentment at some of the proceedings which took place in London when the Federal Constitution Bill was about to be, or was actually being, carried through the Imperial Parliament. The first objection was founded upon the manner in which the scheme was initiated. There was a Conference which was styled a Convention, although it had not any more authority than Ministerial conferences usually possess. The members were not delegates from the Parliaments to which they respectively belonged. They received no instructions from them; they had not consulted them. They met and proceeded with closed doors to draw up a constitution for a Legislature which was intended under certain conditions to make laws for the whole of Australia—laws which, once in force, would override any conflicting legislation on the part of the colonial Parliaments. It was at first proposed that this constitution should be sent straight to England, to be there endowed with the authority of an Imperial law. This proposal was set aside in favour of one to the effect that the constitution should be submitted in the first place to the colonial Parliaments. But how was it submitted? Not for discussion in committee, clause by clause, but for acceptance or non-acceptance as a whole. Under these circumstances, we were unprepared to give the sanction of acceptance to a scheme begun and carried through in a manner that could not give satisfaction, but necessarily engendered distrust.

Besides that, the scheme, considered upon its merits, was unsatisfactory at almost every point. The Federal Legislature, though limited at the beginning as to its direct powers, had placed before it the possibility and the prospect of an almost indefinite expansion of power, and yet it was to consist of about a dozen members. Some provision was made afterwards for an increase of the number, but none was made for any further enlargement of the constitution. The Council was to begin as a single Chamber, and it is to remain a single Chamber. It was to be elastic as to its powers, but rigid as to its constitution, to whatever extent within the purview of the scheme its range of legislative action might be increased. In these respects, the constitution was objected to by us as beneath the level of the purposes which the project expresly placed in view. In each of the colonies the Legislature charged with the function of making laws for local purposes is composed of two Chambers, and the work of legislation is surrounded by precautionary checks and safeguards with the view of providing some sort of security that it shall be done carefully and well. Yet this new Legislature, to which (unless some of its provisions were mere surplusage) it was intended to entrust the work of making laws for the whole group, was to be constructed upon an inferior constitutional basis. This objection was regarded here as fatal to the whole scheme, and the probability is that it would have been so regarded in the other colonies if the scheme had been properly discussed in detail. Elsewhere, men have been content with the remark that the scheme was only a beginning, and that it would develope into something better as time went on. But, as we have seen, whilst provision was made for development in the sense of an enlargement of the range of action, no provision was made for development in the direction of constitutional reform. The constitution is laid down within the hard and fast lines of an Imperial statute, which neither the Federal Council nor the colonial Parliaments would have power to change. This colony, therefore, has objected to be drawn within the operation of a system defended by its advocates on the ground that it would develope into something else. We have held throughout that the system should be reconstructed from its very base.

But the objection here to the constitution of the Federal Council has been founded, not simply upon its inadequacy, but also from the fact that it appeared to us to be grossly inequitable. This colony has a population of a million; so has Victoria. Queensland, South Australia, and Tasmania have between them only 811,000. Yet each of these colonies would have equal representation on the Council with us; and Western Australia, with less than one-twentieth of our population, would send one representative to our two. In a Federal Legislature representing a large number of States the want of proportionate representation might be a matter of comparatively small importance. But where only six or seven States are represented, there is little or no scope for that variety of interest and conflict of opinion which might afford some guarantee for the fair treatment of most questions. Here we have felt that it would be unwise to place our interests, even indirectly, or remotely, or contingently, under the influence of a body in which our representatives would be liable to be outvoted by a combination of numerically inferior States.

Considerations like these having governed the policy of this colony hitherto, weighty reasons will have to be given if we should turn round and move in the other direction. What Ministerial changes, what Parliamentary changes, what changes of public opinion, may await us, men gifted with prophetical foresight may feel free to say. We can only remark that if this colony should reverse its course in this matter, the grave considerations which have hitherto guided it will have to be silently ignored, or openly cast away.

We have already pointed out that the question of Australian Federation and that of our being represented at the Federal Council are two different things. When the constitution of the Federal Council was under incubation at the Convention of 1883 the members of that body carefully refrained from raising any question about differences of tariff, perceiving, as they did, the risks that would have followed if they had been raised. At the present moment we see the question of Federation presented from a different point of view. From some of the speeches at the Intercolonial Free-trade Conference just held it appeared that the speakers were thinking at least as much of Australian Federation as of Intercolonial Free Trade, and that in their view both were inextricably bound up with the establishment of a policy of Protection throughout the whole group. Similar views were expressed the other day by an influential journal in Melbourne:—"It is clearly seen," says the writer, "that so soon as Australia earnestly enters on a process of Federation the policy of Protection will grow in general favour. The history of Canadian federation has shown that there is really no other practical basis of combination. When Canada became a Dominion there were conflicting tariffs in the different provinces which had to be assimilated, and it was speedily discerned that assimilation amongst themselves implied protection against the outer world." If, therefore, we are to join in any federation with our neighbours, we must do so upon their terms. They have laid down the basis, and it must be accepted by us. The policy of isolation was initiated by them when they warned us off as well as the rest of the world. Federation is in their view a means of compelling us to join with them in a policy of isolation from the rest of the world. It is possible that circumstances may arise which would make the question of Federation appear to us to be one of greater urgency than any question of merely fiscal policy. We might then be willing to accept Federation with its possibilities, even though in some respects the time appeared scarcely ripe for it. But even then the acceptance of Federation would have to be a very different thing from placing ourselves under the influence of that mock Parliament, the Federal Council. We should recognise the need for union as a consideration that could not be denied; but the probability is that we should insist upon the basis of union being broad and sound, and upon the machinery of union being worthy of trust.

This afternoon, as will have been seen by a paragraph in yesterday's issue and by further notice to-day, a public meeting will be held at the Town Hall to receive the report of the sub-committee appointed at a meeting in the same place in December last to inquire into the best means of constructing model artisans' dwellings in the metropolis. The result of the investigations of the committee so far has been to bring to light, among other things, the fact that there are 69 tenement houses in the northern section of the city which have been condemned by the municipal authorities. These buildings poorly accommodate about 454 persons, chiefly factory and wharf hands, who pay at the rate of from 4s. to 8s. for a room per week. The committee intend to urge the erection of buildings suitable to the requirements of workmen and their families in the centre of the city, and to suggest that a company be formed to carry out a scheme of construction.

This is an important matter. We have for many years advocated the construction of workmen's dwellings in the city upon a plan which would provide comfortable residence, and at the same time secure sanitation, and be free from the evil of herding that falls with flats or tenements constructed without reference to detachment, and the conveniences for perfect sanitation and comfort. It is only lately, though, that the evil of overcrowding, and the danger to public health resulting therefrom, have become apparent. As the population increases it will be more distinctly seen by the disease and crime which are always engendered in crowded and ill-ventilated quarters of great cities. No better evidence of what reform can do exists than can be seen by reference to statistics compiled after the Glasgow Improvement Act was passed in 1866, dealing with crowded quarters and with workmen's dwellings. In 1867, crimes in Glasgow numbered 10,899, which were followed by 5042 apprehensions and 2975 convictions. In 1873, although the population had increased by 57,000, there were only 7869 crimes committed, which were followed by 5791 apprehensions and 3526 convictions. It will thus be seen that not only had crime been reduced by over forty per cent., but the apprehensions had increased at a ratio of over forty per cent. also. This diminution in crime and increase in apprehensions, while, perhaps, it was to some extent influenced by other things, such as improved police service, &c., was mainly owing to the greater facilities for the detection of crime given by improved dwellings and streets, and the cleansing and uprooting of bad quarters. It is impossible for crime to exist to any great extent in districts where there are good streets, good homes, and plenty of room and fresh air. When Mr. CROSS launched his Artisans and Labourers' Dwellings Bill in the British House of Commons in 1875, he said that there were seventy streets in one part of St. Giles's, London, where there was not one thoroughfare through which there could come good air. The result, of course, was that crime and disease were rampant. In some quarters four children out of five died before they were five years old, and the other twenty per cent. grew up unhealthy, and with predisposition towards crime. To meet this terrible state of things in the English metropolis, such men as PEABODY and WATERLOW laboured and exercised their great philanthropy by money and service.

Since 1875 the work of reform has gone bravely on in England. A correspondent in this paper a few months ago drew attention to the report of the Industrial Dwelling Company, which was formed about the time that Mr. Cross's Improvement Act was passed. The company's 4314 tenements accommodate 25,000 people, and the rentals are about 10 per cent. on the capital invested. The death rate in these buildings, built in the neighbourhood of London, has only averaged during the whole twenty years of occupation 17·8 per thousand, against the 30 and 40 per thousand recorded of the crowded districts of the metropolis. This result, while it shows a great improvement in public morality and health, does the greater work still of bettering the condition of the working man and lessening his doctor's bill. What London has been in regard to crowded districts Sydney might become to some degree if we permitted the life of the city to coil in upon itself, old tenements to increase, and portions of the city where the workmen live to become more densely populated. There are quarters where it is bad enough now, where whole families live in one or two rooms, and where malaria and offences against law and decency go hand-in-hand. The tenements which have already been condemned are sufficient evidence of the danger there is to the public health. There are a large number of old buildings in Sydney occupied by the poor where fever hides in damp walls and bad sewers. All this could be rectified in properly-constructed artisans' dwellings upon a model plan, after the style of those built by the Industrial Dwelling Company.

Provision must be made for artisans' dwellings in the heart of the city. There are workpeople, chiefly wharf and factory hands, who by the nature of their labour must reside in the city, and the wretched tenements in which many of them live only make their struggle of life the greater. Again, the question of expense comes up. There are here workmen's trams and trains, as there are in London, and the cost of travelling is reduced somewhat for the artisan; but if he pays sixpence a day for tram, railway, or omnibus fares, it is still an item of three shillings a week. This, out of an average labourer's earnings, would be an important item. Many labourers would not pay more than eight or ten shillings a week for their tenement dwellings. In every large city in England and America artisans' flats when built now are supplied with elevators, and provided with every convenience for ventilation, cleanliness, and comfort. The process of reform, however, is very slow, and in London and New York there are many districts where the most baleful overcrowding occurs, and where uncleanliness, disease, and crime abound. To prevent any such fate falling upon Sydney the matter should be taken in hand in time, and house-construction should be guarded by inspection and unceasing vigilance. We have a climate which is favourable toward producing a race of healthy and sturdy people, and there is no reason why we should not have carried out here a perfect construction scheme for artisans' dwellings. No plan of construction would do which did not provide for separation of the dwellings in the range of building, and for good sanitation. We do not want the old-fashioned barrack system. It destroys the idea of home, and it only perpetuates the evils of the tenement houses of to-day. Plans are to be put before the meeting this afternoon which are arranged upon the basis of the newest London designs, and it is to be hoped that some action will be taken in the matter, and that a company will be formed here after the model of the Improved Industrial Dwelling Company of London.

In deciding to sit with closed doors the Conference on the Chinese question has committed a serious error; it has wilfully destroyed its influence and power. The delegates seem to forget that as a conference they cannot settle anything, nor commit the Australian Parliaments to anything. Their conclusions can only carry weight so far as they harmonise with the public opinion of Australia, and how is Australian opinion to go with the Conference unless the reasons given by the delegates for their action are published? If the Conference talks in secret, and deliberates in secret, its findings will have no weight with the people; they will scarcely be noticed out of doors. The decisions arrived at may be accepted as a guide by the Governments represented at the Conference, but they will not command the support of the people. We have had many other conferences, and everyone knows how they have been regarded. The public has cared nothing about them, has taken no interest in them, and as a rule they have done little good. If the Chinese Conference were to sit with open doors, its proceedings would be followed with eager attention from one end of Australia to the other; if its sittings are held in private, the people will pay no heed to it—its decisions will be the decisions of the Conference, and nothing more. We have given reasons why the sittings of the Conference should be held in public; we should like, in return, to hear what reasons can be advanced in favour of closing the doors. There may be some matters which it is necessary to discuss in private, but it would be easy enough to have confidential sittings for business of this sort, and open sittings for the general affairs of the Conference. The determination of the Conference to surround its proceedings with mystery and secrecy will be viewed with displeasure by the Australian people. They are deeply interested in the Chinese question, and they have a right to ask that when their representatives meet together to discuss it in the light of day. We are glad to find that our own representatives and those of Queensland were in favour of open sittings. Unfortunately, they were overruled by the other delegates for reasons which were not stated excepting in one case, that of the PREMIER of Victoria. The reasons given by Mr. GILLIES were very bad reasons—they were paltry, provincial, parochial. The Victorian delegates, he said, wanted to leave Sydney on Thursday, so as to be in Melbourne in time to attend a Cabinet meeting on Friday, and they were afraid that if the reporters were admitted the members of the Conference would make set speeches and prolong the proceedings. Because the Victorian representatives have their own affairs to attend to, they must run away from the Conference, and the proceedings must be hurried to suit the convenience of Victoria. If no better reason for closing the doors could have been given than this, it would have been better to give no reason at all. This is supposed to be a conference to which Victoria attaches great importance, but how can this be so if her delegates are determined to run away in a couple of days, whatever happens, to attend a Cabinet meeting in Melbourne? This is not treating the matter in a national spirit but in a spirit of pure provincialism. The arguments urged by Mr. GILLIES for excluding the public from the Conference would apply with still greater force to the not holding of a conference at all.

During the last few days two serious disturbances have taken place in the Melbourne streets, both of them arising from the aggressiveness of the larrikin population. In both cases the police were set upon by a crowd of roughs and maltreated, and in both cases the reason of the attack was the efforts which the officers of justice were making to apprehend disturbers of the public peace. These cases, so much alike in all respects, show that the Melbourne larrikins, like their Sydney brethren, look upon the police as their natural enemies, to be attacked and punished whenever an opportunity presents itself. The Melbourne larrikins, if not more savage than those of Sydney, are more formidable from the fact that they form larger gangs and work together more systematically. In one of the cases reported from Melbourne the police were nearly overpowered, and would have fared very badly if it had not been for the help of a number of gentlemen who went to the rescue with walking-sticks. As it was, the policemen received injuries which made it necessary for them to undergo treatment in the hospital. Scenes of violence like this are not creditable to any city, but if Melbourne larrikinism is to be deplored, too much praise cannot be given to those persons who went so courageously to the assistance of the police. It is always a risky thing to interfere in a street row, and those who did so on this occasion must have placed themselves in some danger, for the larrikins were numerous and determined. We have no doubt that under similar circumstances Sydney citizens would behave with equal credit. There is, in fact, a case before the public at the present moment in which one man went to the rescue of a constable who had been dangerously wounded, and not only beat off nine larrikins but pursued them and captured one of the ringleaders. The gallantry of this brave man not only saved the constable's life, but was instrumental in bringing the chief offenders to justice. What is thought in the police force of Mr. JOHN BAIRD'S conduct is shown by the handsome testimonial which the men have presented to him, and the Judge who tried the case warmly praised the young man for the service he had rendered to society. But the Government appears to have taken no notice of the occurrence. This is an omission which should be remedied. We do not say that everyone or anyone who assists the police should be pecuniarily rewarded, but when a man renders such signal service as was performed by BAIRD in the Redfern case, he should receive at least the thanks of the authorities.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

FOR the convenience of advertisers and others who may desire to communicate with us by telephone, we have printed our telephone numbers under the "Index to Advertisements," where they will remain from day to day. The number of the editorial and news telephone is 413. The number of the business telephone is 839.

THE Legislative Assembly yesterday, after formal matters had been disposed of, went to work with a will, and did more business in the three hours before dinner than it often does in three weeks. A number of bills came up for the second reading; they were explained by the hon. members having charge of them; they were passed through committee and reported to the House; and now they await only the third reading to be finally passed. These comprise the following measures:—Australian Mutual Provident Society's Acts Amendment Bill, the Companies Bill, Divorce Extension Bill, Bills of Sale Act Amending Bill, Broken Hill and Suburban Gas Company's Bill, St. Thomas' Church (Enfield) Lands Sale Bill, Grafton School of Arts Trustees Enabling Bill, Contractors' Debts Act Extension Bill, Judgment Creditors' Remedies Extension Bill, and the Permanent Trustee Company of New South Wales Bill. The Dams and Weirs Regulation and Registration Bill and the Partnership Bill were discharged from the notice paper.

WITH regard to the city railway, it is the intention of Mr. W. J. Lyne to move in the Legislative Assembly on Tuesday next that immediate steps should be taken to extend the railway from Redfern through the city to the deep waters of Port Jackson. Mr. Thompson will also ask this afternoon whether any fresh routes for a railway from Redfern into the city have been submitted to the Government, and whether any definite conclusion has been come to on the matter by the Cabinet.

THE eight members to represent the Legislative Assembly on the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Public works were elected last evening. Mr. Sutherland moved that the following be the members of the committee:—Messrs. J. P. Abbott, J. N. Brunker, H. Copeland, J. Garrard, Sydney Smith, A. Kethel, T. M. Slattery, and J. R. Street. Mr. M'Court took exception to the comparative absence of country members among those proposed, and called for a ballot, and after some discussion a ballot was taken. This necessarily occupied a good deal of time, and did not alter the names proposed by the Minister of Works. The gentlemen named in the motion were therefore declared by the Speaker to be elected, and the announcement was received with cheers. The five members to represent the Legislative Council to complete the committee will in all probability be chosen by that Chamber to-day.

MR. COPELAND'S motion for the imposition of moderate import duties on such portions of agricultural productions as can be grown in the colony, and on all articles which can be locally manufactured, was further considered in the Legislative Assembly last night, and was ultimately negatived on division by 48 votes to 35. The announcement of the result was followed by a considerable amount of cheering on the part of the protectionists, and the closeness of the division was claimed by Mr. Garvan as a ground for an appeal to the country on the question of a change in the present financial policy.

THE Minister for Works has intimated that he does not intend to carry out any new work in connection with the railways, or to appoint any new hands unless it is absolutely essential to do so for the safe working of the department. He has decided to adopt this course in view of the Railway Act recently passed, and which is to come into operation very shortly. He is anxious to take no step that will in any way bind, embarrass, or hamper the new Railway Commissioners, by forcing them to carry out works approved before they take over the railway administration. Numerous applications for employment are daily received by Mr. Sutherland and the officers of the department. It will be well if intending applicants will accept this intimation that it will be fruitless for them to send in requests to the department in the hope of obtaining work, as the Minister will not be able to consider them. In cases where it is absolutely necessary to fill a vacancy the names will be selected from those already entered in the books of the department, of which there are now hundreds.

THE Parliamentary Refreshment Committee, through its chairman, Mr. Sydney Burdekin, M.L.A., laid before the Legislative Assembly yesterday a report with reference to the action of Mr. M'Elhone in tearing down from where they were exhibited in the Refreshment Room certain notices respecting the supply of refreshments. This matter it will be remembered was under the notice of the House last week. The report presented to the Assembly yesterday was as follows:—"At a meeting of the Refreshment Room Committee held to-day, it was ordered that the Chairman report to the House that in accordance with the powers delegated to it the steward was directed by a resolution of the committee to hang in conspicuous places in the refreshment room the following notice:—'The refreshment committee have issued imperative instructions to the House steward to supply refreshments for cash only, and to refuse to supply refreshments of any kind to any member who has an unsettled account or who has neglected to pay his entrance fee of three guineas.' The steward, by letter to the Chairman dated 8th June, reported that these notices had been violently removed and destroyed by Mr. M'Elhone on Thursday, 7th June, between the hours of 6 and 7 p.m., and that the same hon. member tore down and destroyed other notices which for a long time were hanging in the smoking-room. The committee reports the offence to the House, and asks to be supported in the exercise of its functions."

A PETITION from ministers of religion of various religious denominations in the colony, was presented to the Legislative Assembly yesterday against the Divorce Extension Bill. The petitioners stated that while entertaining other strong objections to the provisions of the bill by which divorce was facilitated, they were still more strongly opposed to that which provided for the re-marriage of the persons divorced—the guilty as well as the innocent. They felt the greatest repugnance to this provision, inasmuch as it gave to those who had been guilty of the greatest cruelty and sin opportunity to repeat their offences upon fresh victims of their licentiousness. The petitioners, accepting the solemn declaration of our Lord Jesus Christ, that "Whosoever marrieth her that is put away committeth adultery" as the law of the Christian Church were of opinion that any legislation which provided for the re-marriage of one who was put away afforded a direct sanction to sin and was opposed to the Divine Law in the Seventh Commandment. They therefore prayed the House to withhold assent from the bill. The petition was signed by 80 ministers of the Church of England of the diocese of Sydney, 25 ministers of the Church of England of the diocese of Newcastle, 24 ministers of the Presbyterian Church of New South Wales, 3 ministers of the Presbyterian Church of Eastern Australia, 12 ministers of the Congregational Church, 30 ministers of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, 4 ministers of the Primitive Methodist Church, 1 minister of the United Methodist Free Church, and 2 ministers of the Baptist Church,—making a total of 181.

THE question of the establishment of an agricultural college and model farms is now engaging the attention of the Minister for Mines. Mr. Abigail has obtained a vast amount of important information from the other colonies, and he has now before him a report of the Royal Commission appointed to inquire into agricultural and dairy schools in Great Britain last year. The recommendations contained in that report, supplemented by the other information in the hands of the Minister, will form the basis of the scheme for the New South Wales Agricultural College and Model Farms.

FROM the time of the passing of the present Chinese Restriction Act, which was assented to in December, 1881, up to the 28th of April last, 3178 certificates of exemption have been issued under the provisions of clause 9 of the Act. The number of certificates received from returned Chinese is 1703, and the number of certificates which have been rejected is 484. Of the total number issued 991 have not been presented, or, in other words, are still out. With respect to these, 623 have exceeded the time for which their certificates have been issued, and 368 are within the time at this date.

SIR SAMUEL GRIFFITH has tendered to the Governor of Queensland the resignation of his Ministry, and Sir Thomas M'Ilwraith has formed an Administration, whose names will be announced to-day. The new Premier will resume his old post at the Treasury. Mr. B. D. Morehead is to be Colonial Secretary. Mr. J. M. Macrossan, the delegate of Queensland at the Chinese Conference now being held in Sydney, is the new Minister for Works. Mr. M. Hume Black is likely to be Minister for Lands; Mr. Nelson, Minister for Railways; and Mr. Donaldson, Postmaster-General. On account of no prominent barrister having been returned with the National party there will be no Attorney-General in the new Government. The Premier will seek a law adviser from the lower branch of the profession, and a new portfolio of Justice will be created. The names of several solicitors have been mentioned in connection with the appointment, but it is understood that the position will be offered to and accepted by Mr. A. J. Thynne, M.L.C., who will probably be leader of the Government in the Upper House. Mr. Norton has been unanimously elected Speaker in succession to Mr. W. H. Groom. Mr. Norton has for the third time been returned as representative of Port Curtis. He succeeded Mr. Macrossan as Minister for Works in March, 1888, and held that portfolio until Sir Thomas M'Ilwraith went out of power in November of the same year. He was leader of the Opposition during the whole of last session, after the temporary retirement of Sir Thomas M'Ilwraith from Parliament. He is a painstaking, industrious man, of good sound judgment and moderate views, and his reputation in public as well as private life has been irreproachable.

WE regret to learn that Colonel Roberts, C.M.G., the officer commanding the Artillery forces, is now confined to his bed, having been recently obliged to undergo a surgical operation rendered necessary by an injury which he received to his leg at the Loyalty Demonstration held in the Town Hall last year. It is expected that it will be some time before the Colonel will be sufficiently recovered to resume the active discharge of his duties.

AN important judgment was delivered yesterday by the Full Court, consisting of his Honor the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Innes, and Mr. Justice Stephen, in the matter of William Charles Brown, which was argued a considerable time ago. The motion was one to make absolute a rule nisi for a prohibition to restrain the Minister for Lands and the Gosford Land Board from further proceeding in a certain matter relating to a conditional purchase made by William Charles Brown. It appeared that Brown took up a conditional purchase of 240 acres at Gosford, and there being no appeal or complaint by any caveator, it was confirmed by the local land board. Subsequently, however, T. A. Palmer made an application to the same land board for a piece of land, a portion of which overlapped Brown's conditional purchase, but the board refused the application on the ground that the land had already been confirmed to Brown. Palmer thereupon appealed to the Minister for Lands, who directed the land board to re-open—not Palmer's application, but Brown's, which had been confirmed, and finally dealt with. It was now sought to restrain the Minister from further proceeding, on the following grounds:—1. That the application of William Charles Brown having been duly confirmed by the local land board, and no person having lodged a caveat or having appealed against such confirmation, the said Minister had no power or jurisdiction, on the appeal of Thomas Abbott Palmer, in another application, to make the said decision and reference. 2. That the local land board has no power or jurisdiction to proceed with the reference, or to re-open under the decision the question of the confirmation of the application of William Charles Brown. The Chief Justice, for the reasons set out in his judgment, thought the rule should be made absolute, with costs, but Mr. Justice Innes and Mr. Justice Stephen concurred in the opinion that the prohibition must be discharged with costs, which was accordingly the decision of the Court.

IN the Equity Court yesterday morning, before Mr. Justice Owen, an application was made, in the suit of Dean v. Jones, to restrain the defendant, the contractor for the underground sewers, under the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Act, from continuing blasting and the use of explosives in the neighbourhood of the plaintiff's house in Young-street. It was contended by Mr. Manning that plaintiff's premises were being much injured, and that the blasting was unnecessary, and that it ought to be stopped. Mr. Salomons, for the defendant, said that he was entitled to do the work, provided compensation were made for any injury or damage done. The blasting was necessary, the work could not go on without it, and the Court certainly would not stop it. When an Act of Parliament authorised work to be done, it could not be stopped by injunction. All that could be come for was compensation. He submitted that plaintiff had no case, that there was no ground for seeking an injunction, and that the application must be refused with costs. His Honor held that the plaintiff could only be entitled to compensation for any injury done to his premises. An injunction could not issue in the matter, and he dismissed the application, with costs.

AN interesting decision with reference to the duty of owners of land in making excavations which may prove dangerous to adjoining premises, was given yesterday by the Full Court, consisting of Mr. Justice Windeyer, Mr. Justice Innes, and Mr. Justice Foster. Recently an action—Kay v. Johnson and another—was tried, in which the plaintiff sought to recover compensation for damage done to her property by reason of the fall of a portion of the wall of her premises in Oxford-street, owing to the alleged negligence of defendants in excavating their land. It appeared that the greater part of the wall in question was on defendants' land; but it was admitted that a small portion was on the land occupied by the shop which plaintiff had leased, and defendants relied mainly upon the fact that the excavation was carried out by a contractor for whose negligence, if any, they were not responsible. The jury found for the plaintiff, with £350 damages, and yesterday the defendants sought to have this verdict set aside. In the course of his judgment, in which the rest of the Court concurred, Mr. Justice Windeyer quoted the 59th section of the City of Sydney Improvement Act, as follows:—"The owner of any premises or land (hereinafter called building owner) may, if necessary, excavate or dig out any ground against the wall of any building adjoining such land for the purpose of erecting a wall thereon, or for any other purpose, provided that such building owner do at his own cost shore up and underpin such wall, or such parts thereof, to its full thickness, and to the full depth of such excavation, with good sound bricks or stone," &c. It appeared to him it was impossible to contend on the admitted facts that the wall, a portion of which undoubtedly belonged to plaintiff, was not the wall of a building adjoining the building owner's land, and the owner of the wall was clearly entitled to the protection which section 59 insisted upon. That being so, it mattered not whether the defendants employed a contractor or not, as it became their statutory duty to see that the necessary precautions were taken in carrying out the excavation on their own land. The rule nisi was discharged with costs and the verdict therefore stands.

IN No. 1 Jury Court the ejectment action M'Roberts v. Carter was concluded, a verdict being given for the defendant. The action brought by the City Bank against the Sydney Mining Club and Exchange Company, for the recovery of £500, money advanced, stood part heard when the court adjourned. The claim of £2000 damages made by Roland Thomas Sutton and Mary Sutton, his wife, against the Commissioner of Railways was begun in No. 2 Jury Court. The amount is claimed as compensation for injuries received through a tram colliding with their buggy at the corner of Ocean-street and Bondi-road on the night of the 31st January last.

ARGUMENTS were commenced yesterday, but not concluded, in Banco, to make absolute a rule nisi to set aside the decision in the action Robinson v. Tyson, in which the plaintiff succeeded in obtaining a verdict for £3000 for alleged breach of contract in regard to the delivery of a quantity of cattle by defendant.

OUR London letter which we publish to-day refers to the doings of Mr. Chamberlain and Sir William Harcourt, and to a difference of opinion which appears to exist between the Gladstonians and the Liberal Unionist leaders with regard to the occupation of the front Opposition bench in the House of Commons. It also gives some interesting information respecting the Italian Exhibition, Mrs. Gordon Baillie, the multiplication of clubs in London, and refers to differences of opinion said to exist amongst the heads of both the Admiralty and War Offices and the permanent officials of those departments. It is stated that the autobiography of Mr. G. A. Sala is to appear early in the autumn; also, that Rubinstein is to pay a visit to the United States during the present year. The letter closes with a short notice of the London season.

AT the usual monthly meeting of the trustees of the Free Public Library the following statement was submitted to the board. For May books were taken out from the lending branch classified as under:—Natural philosophy, science, and the arts, 838; history, 716; biography, 793; geography, voyages, and travels, 1171; jurisprudence, 128; mental and moral philosophy, 258; poetry and drama, 198; miscellaneous (including 2230 volumes of prose fiction), 3431; patents, 20; total, 7553. WRITING after the match between the Australian cricketers and Thornton's Eleven the Daily News says:—"The colonial cricket team yesterday showed startling improvement upon their form of Monday, and beat Mr. Thornton's Eleven by six wickets. There was little to admire in the Australian batting, but the fielding was brilliant, and the two bowlers who took the English wickets on Monday carried all before them yesterday. The ground was in good condition, so that the match was a distinct bowlers' triumph. Turner, who is to replace Spofforth, took nine wickets for 90 runs—an achievement that, though good, is by no means remarkable—but Ferris, the slow left-hand bowler, was found to be wonderfully difficult by most of the English batsmen, and altogether in the match he had 11 wickets to his credit, at a cost of only 71 runs. The fact that a good side have been beaten by first-class bowling and fielding will put our county and representative elevens on their mettle."

BY a tabulated return which appeared in yesterday's Gazette, giving the total value of the import and export trade of the Australasian colonies for the year 1887, it is shown that the total value of the imports for this colony amounted to £18,806,236, and the total value of the exports to £18,496,917. The home produce was valued at £15,472,361, and the re-exports at £3,024,556. The total trade amounted to £37,303,153. The imports per head of the population amounted to £18 7s. 10d., and the exports to £18 1s. 10d., making the total trade £36 9s. 8d. The export of home produce per head of the population amounted to £15 2s. 8d. As regards the number and tonnage of vessels inwards and outwards for 1887, it is noted that 2815 vessels, with a tonnage of 2,142,457, reported "inwards," while 2906 vessels reported "outwards," with an aggregate tonnage of 2,180,301, the total shipping amounting to 5,721 ships, whose tonnage equalled 4,322,758 tons.

MR. JOHNSON, the Under-Secretary for Education, has written to Mr. J. Haynes, M.L.A., informing him that the Minister for Education has had under consideration a letter which appeared in the Sydney Morning Herald on April 28 last, signed by Mr. A. Lorenzini, dealing with the subject of the non-attendance at school of Italian children in this city. Mr. George, a school attendance officer under the Department, has reported that there is great difficulty in dealing with the class of children referred to, because of their unsettled and wandering life. Most of them, if at school at all, attend those schools of the Roman Catholic persuasion from which no returns of defaulters have been required since 1882. He had had an interview with Dr. Marano, the Italian Consul, who had promised to furnish from time to time the names and addresses of such Italian children as may come under his notice whose education is being neglected. If Signor Lorenzini takes a similar course to that promised by Dr. Marano, Mr. George will deal with the cases as promptly as the law will allow.

OPENING OF THE QUEENSLAND PARLIAMENT.

THE ELECTION OF A SPEAKER.

STATEMENT BY SIR SAMUEL GRIFFITH.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

The first session of the tenth Parliament of Queensland was formally opened by Commission to-day. There was a very large attendance of ladies and other spectators in the Council Chamber. The proceedings were very brief. The members of the Assembly returned to their own Chamber, where the members were sworn in. They then proceeded to the election of a Speaker.

Sir Thomas M'Ilwraith proposed, and Mr. Archer seconded, that Mr. A. Norton be appointed Speaker. The motion met with no opposition but Sir Samuel Griffith deprecated the election of Speaker being made a party question. He said he had arranged that if Mr. Groom had desired to be nominated as Speaker he should be proposed from that side of the House, but he certainly would not himself have made the proposal. Mr. Groom, however, had intimated to him that morning that he did not desire to be proposed in opposition to Mr. Norton.

The Speaker having taken the chair and returned thanks, Sir Samuel Griffith said he would like to make a short statement. The Government had met on the previous day, which was the very first available day they could all meet, and considered what it was their duty to do under the circumstances, whether they should follow the precedent on previous occasions under similar circumstances and lead the House, and allow the Governor to announce his programme, or whether it would be more convenient, and in the best interests of public business, to resign at once. It was the practice when the Government went to the country on definite issues, and were defeated, to resign before the Speech was made, but this was not so in this case. As a matter of fact, there was very little difference between their proposals; and the supporters of the present head of the Opposition were also supporters of the views of the present Government in all their main features. (Loud laughter.) They might laugh, but as a matter of fact nearly the whole House supported the policy enunciated during the late elections by the Liberal party. On the Chinese question there was no difference between them, while with regard to the Naval Defence Bill, he believed the great majority were with them. (Loud laughter.) The Government, therefore, would have been quite justified in coming to the House with a reasonable hope of carrying on the business of the country. (Renewed and most ironical laughter.) However, under all the circumstances, and considering the desire that had been expressed by the majority of the new members for a change of Government, he had that morning placed the resignation of himself and his colleagues in the hands of the Governor, leaving to their successors the duty of announcing to Parliament the causes why it had been called together. The Governor had been pleased to receive their resignations, and he had advised his Excellency to communicate with the hon. the Leader of the Opposition with a view to forming a new Ministry. All that would be done next day would be that the Speaker be presented to the Governor, and on the return of members he would be prepared to move the adjournment of the House for any time members desired.

A brief discussion followed, in the course of which Sir Samuel Griffith stated there was now a debit balance of £215,000, and Sir Thomas M'Ilwraith remarked that half a million for interest must be paid at the end of the month.

The House adjourned till to-morrow.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A meeting of the Exhibition Executive Commission was held to-day, to consider a telegram from Sir Thomas M'Ilwraith, asking if the rumour that the Exhibition would not be opened on August 1st was correct, and wishing definite information, in order that he might adjourn Parliament so as to afford members an opportunity of attending. After a brief discussion, it was unanimously decided, come what may, to open on August 1st. It was also decided to assist the Executive Commissioner for Great Britain, which court is most backward. They will furnish a report to the Minister in a few days.

The Metropolitan Licensing Court continued its sitting to-day to decide what hotels shall be closed in Port Melbourne, as the result of the local-option polls. It had been arranged the previous day that the evidence of the police should be taken viva voce, but Judge Molesworth expressed the opinion that if the testimony were so given the proceedings would not be closed by the end of the month, as was required by the Act. It was, therefore, arranged that the written report of the police should be received in evidence. Inspector Acton was in the witness-box all the afternoon.

On the 4th instant Constable Nicholson brought up a man at the City Court, charged with firing a revolver at him. The constable's story was that the prisoner with another man was engaged in robbing a man in Little Bourke-street. On the constable appearing, the prisoner fired at him. The case was remanded for a week. It was called on to-day, but the constable did not appear and has disappeared. It is now stated that the policeman fired a revolver at the prisoner.

The monthly yield of gold at Sandhurst for May was 12,798oz., while for the corresponding period last year it was 12,768oz. There is an increase of 8000oz. in the yield for the five months of this year over the corresponding period of last year.

Captain Whitney visited Echuca to-day, and was shown several suitable sites for the proposed federal cartridge factory. Later on he was entertained at a banquet. In responding to the toast of his health, he said he thought there was not a better site in the colonies than the Saltwater River. He viewed the matter from a commercial point. If the Government were prepared to grant facility in regard to carriage which would place him in as advantageous a position as a site on the seaboard, he would be prepared to consider the question of an inland site.

WRECK OF THE UNION COMPANY'S STEAMER HAWEA.

ALL HOPES OF SAVING THE VESSEL ABANDONED.

[By Cable.]
(From our Correspondent.)

AUCKLAND, Tuesday.

The Union Company's steamer Hawea has been wrecked at the entrance to New Plymouth Harbour. She struck a rock when making into the harbour this morning, and is now full of water. There is no chance of getting the ill-fated vessel off from her present position. The passengers and crew were all landed safely, without the loss of life.

Later.

The Hawea left Manukau on Monday, and arrived off New Plymouth Breakwater at midnight. She anchored till 6 o'clock this morning. I raising the anchor it slipped, and was lost. The vessel was proceeding to take up a position at the wharf. She had to make the usual detour, and while coming inshore she struck. She immediately tilted over to port, but righted as the tide rose. The bulwarks are now level with the water. There were only a few passengers on board. These, with the mails and baggage, were landed, the harbour tug rendering assistance. There was very little cargo on board. The steeplechaser Allegro was drowned. The Hawea was valued at £13,000. She was insured for £5000, namely £3000 in home and £2000 colonial offices, the Union Company themselves taking the balance of £8000. The insurances in the colonial offices are—National and South British, £500 each; Standard United, New Zealand, Colonial, and North Queensland, £250 each; Victoria, £750.

[The Hawea was a screw steamer of 462 tons register, and was built at Dumbarton in 1875, by W. Denny and Bros, and engined by Denny and Co. of the same city. She was engaged in the New Zealand coastal trade.]

THE ASSOCIATION GROUND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—With my wife I hied for the Association Cricket Ground to-day to see the football match, England v. Eighteen Juniors, advertised in your columns—"To-day. Admission to ground, 6d.; extra to grand stand, 1s. Gates open at 2 o'clock, play commence at 3 o'clock." Taking tram to gates we had to wait until a quarter to 3 for gates to open. Then when the crowd filed in, we were accosted, "1s., please: the advertised 6d. was a mistake." Well, disgusted, we entered, and were then kept waiting until 20 minutes to 4, when the game commenced. Is this proper treatment for the public, sir? It is this kind of thing which often causes a crowd to forget decorum. I am, &c.,

RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION IN WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

PROPOSED LINE FROM ALBANY TO EUCLA.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

PERTH, Tuesday.

Further particulars have been received concerning the scheme to construct a railway from Albany to Eucla on the land grant system. The matter has been taken in hand by a syndicate of English, American, and colonial capitalists, who are at present represented in this colony by Dr. N. E. Boyd, M.D., of Cooper's Institute, America, and is projecting a syndicate who desire to construct a line from Eucla to some point on the Eastern Railway, bringing it into Perth, either by the Swan or Helena Valley. The syndicate ask for 16,000 acres of land for every mile of railway constructed, and that for every 10s. given by way of compensation for vested interests they shall receive an acre of land reserved along the railway. The line is to be on a 4ft. 8½in. gauge, and the construction is to extend over 10 years by contract, which the syndicate is prepared to enter into, and of which a draft has been furnished to his Excellency the Governor. Surveys are bound to be commenced within one year, and to be completed within two years from the signing of the contract, 100 miles of line are to be completed within four years, and the line is then to progress at the rate of not less than 50 miles in one year. The total cost of this great undertaking is estimated at £4,000,000. Dr. Boyd is empowered at the present juncture to deposit £5000 as proof of the bona fides of the syndicate, and £25,000 on the signing of the contract with the Government. Dr. Boyd is anxious to complete negotiations as far as possible with the Government of this colony, so that he can proceed to South Australia and negotiate with the Government of that colony for the construction of a land grant railway to Eucla, by way of Port Augusta.

IMPORTANT CASE UNDER THE SLAUGHTERING ACT.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

CASINO, Tuesday.

An important point under the Slaughtering Act, 14 Vic., No. 30, was decided by Mr. J. Bray, P.M., last night. The Act provides that persons entitled to vote for the election of members of the Legislative Council shall take part and vote at any meeting to consider the advisability of extending the Slaughtering Act to any municipality. This Act was passed before responsible government was inaugurated, and when a portion of the Council was elective. The police magistrate therefore held that the public at present had no standing in the matter, and further held that if a resolution were adopted in favour of the extension of the Act, and the Colonial Secretary complied therewith, still the whole action would be illegal, as, at the present time, no one had any right to vote for the election of members of the Legislative Council. The point is considered a very important one, as it will invalidate any extensions granted under the Act in the past, and demands immediate attention from the Government, otherwise the councils acting under the Extensions Act will be liable to actions for damages by any slaughterman affected thereby. The difficulty was first discovered by Mr. Campbell, C.P.S. here.

THE WRECK OF THE BERBICE.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

The inquiry into the cause of the wreck of the Berbice by the local Marine Board was continued to-day. Captain Ross corrected some of his previous evidence, but still maintains that he burnt three lights for a pilot or a tug, which were taken no notice of, and but for the expectation of assistance he would not have come so near the port. The decision of the board will be made known to-morrow.

PASTORAL INTELLIGENCE.

[By Telegraph.]

BOURKE, Tuesday.

The following is the western districts pastoral report:—Nyngan: A light shower fell during the week, giving eight points of rain. Seasonable weather prevails. Lambing is progressing. Very few stock are moving. Coonamble: Rain would be exceedingly beneficial. The yield of current lambing is not yet definitely ascertained, but it is generally regarded as satisfactory on the whole. The district is fairly well off for feed. Forbes: More rain is required to enable the farmers to proceed with ploughing. Large numbers of sheep are travelling in the district. Warren: The grass and herbage is being quickly dried up by the heavy frosts. Rain is required. With rain this month feed will be secured till the spring. The continued dryness must prejudicially affect the lambing. The following are the stock passings:—420 fat cattle, Thargomindah to Sydney, to be trucked at Dubbo; 423 fat cattle, Ardock to Sydney and Melbourne, to truck at Nevertire; 200 fat cattle, Benera to Sydney, to truck at Nevertire; 1000 ewes travelling to Enaweena, Montgomery owner; 2000 wethers, Euroka to Sydney, to truck at Nevertire; 1000 fat sheep, Dungalear to Sydney, to truck at Nevertire; 450 ewes, Merri Merri to Crooked Creek, Hampton, owner. Cobar: There is no change in the weather. Pasture is failing, owing to the prevalence of heavy frosts; stock are in fair condition. Several cases of strangle are reported on different stations, but nothing serious is expected. Louth: Preparations for shearing are observable on several adjacent stations. The stock and wool are in splendid condition. Lambing is expected to be very fair, and in some cases very large percentages are spoken of. Bourke: Pasturage is good, and stock are fat. Lambing prospects are very good. The stream of fat cattle from Queensland is broken for a time, as no arrivals were reported last week; large numbers are reported as approaching, however.

In answer to a petition, the Minister for Lands has refused to open a stock route from Wompah to Wanaaring, as it is reported by the district surveyor to be unnecessary. Eungonia reports:—950 store bullocks, Burninbella to Albury, Cobb and Co.; 400 fat cattle, Carrabulka to Dubbo, Woods and Ferguson, owner; 350 fat bullocks, Ditton station to Sydney, M. Hackett, owner.

CARCOAR, Tuesday.

Stock movements: 700 fat wethers, Cowra to Homebush, S. G. Alford; 6000 wethers, Bigga to Goulburn, H. Hall owner; 1300 wethers, Blayney to Melbourne, Namoi Pastoral Company owners; 720 fat ewes, Coombing Park to Homebush, .. F. Whitney owner; 6000 store wethers, Funny Hills to Dunn's Plains, H. Carr owner; 700 ewes, Forbes to Cadia, J. M. Martin owner; 682 store sheep, Bathurst to Dummy Swamp, M. Morrison owner; 3000 store wethers, Goulburn to Cudgegong, Marsden and Jennings owners. At present there is plenty of grass throughout the district, but it is deficient in quality, owing to the absence of autumn rains. Severe frosts have occurred in most parts. There is a slight falling off in the condition of stock, owing to the severe cold weather.

WAGGA WAGGA, Tuesday.

The following are approaching:—6700 wethers, Alexander Ogilvie's, Cootamundra to Wentworth, via Wagga. They are a very fine flock of sheep; 500 mixed weaners, S. Clough's, Rock to Bradford.

THE WEATHER.

The weather yesterday was again fine and clear, the atmosphere was most invigorating, although towards midday the wind blew hard and created a most disagreeable dust. The weather in the country continues to be dry, and without any apparent sign of a change, which is in the most inland portions of the colony so badly wanted. Farmers and others interested in pastoral pursuits are still complaining, and the general wish is for rain. Last night the stars shone out most brilliantly, and as long as the wind remains in its present quarter no rain or even change can be expected.

THE NEW PENNY STAMP.

The second of the new issue of stamps commemorative of the centenary of the colony will soon be ready for issue. The engraving and printing has been under the immediate supervision of Mr. Charles Potter, Government Printer and Inspector of Stamps at the Government Printing Office, the engraving being performed by Mr. William Bell. We understand that the work has been recently submitted to the Hon. the Postmaster General (Mr. C. J. Roberts), and approved by him; and it is expected that the stamp will be ready for issue by the 1st of next month. The design of the new stamp is that of Mr. M. Tannenberg, of Melbourne, and may be thus described:—Inside the circle is a view of Sydney taken from Mosman's Bay, showing the harbour, Exhibition Building and fortifications at Fort Denison. Above the top of the circle rests an Imperial crown, and around the top of the circle are the words, "New South Wales Postage," and underneath, the words, "One hundred years." The space surrounding the whole is filled up with Australian ferns. Underneath is a shield, containing the words of the stamp, viz.—"One Penny." From a critical point of view the design of the new penny stamp can hardly be considered as successful as some of the others of the series. The view of the harbour has had to be greatly reduced to meet the requirements of the dimensions allowed. For this, however, Mr. Potter is not, of course, responsible, and as far as his office is concerned, the work is most excellent.

COUNTRY NEWS.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondents.)

BATHURST, Tuesday.

An old man named Leahy was picked up near Kebo yesterday with his throat cut. He was conveyed to the hospital where his wound was sewn up. He had been drinking, and stated, when questioned, that he had attempted suicide because he was tired of his life.

CARCOAR, Tuesday.

On the new railway proposals becoming known here much dissatisfaction was expressed, owing to the Coombing-Forbes line not having been mentioned.

CASINO, Tuesday.

Last week nearly 2500 acres were applied for at the Casino land office, and this week a similar area will be applied for. Quite a number of people are engaged in inspecting the country for suitable areas for grazing.

COOTAMUNDRA, Tuesday.

At a public meeting of the ratepayers last night it was decided to ask the local council to carry out the water scheme, and the Mines Department to send diamond drills for testing the country for an artesian supply. The scheme devised by the Harbour and Rivers Branch, at £19,000, was thought to be too heavy a responsibility.

GULGONG, Tuesday.

A very large meeting was held last night in Powell's Hotel to form a building society. The Mayor, Mr. R. Steen, was chairman, and the representatives of professional and mercantile pursuits were present. It was decided, on the motion of Mr. M. Marks, storekeeper, and seconded by Mr. R. White, hotelkeeper, that a society, to be named the Gulgong Building and Investment Society, be formed.

KIAMA, Tuesday.

Mr. Matthew Burnett's meeting in the Temperance Hall last night was presided over by Mr. Duncan Salmond, manager of the Bombo quarries. It was essentially a working men's meeting, and was a great success.

MOAMA, Tuesday.

Captain Whitney visited Moama and Echuca to-day. He was shown several sites in both towns for the establishment of an ammunition factory. He, however, urged a number of objections, chiefly as to heavy charges for freight coal, lead, and other requisite raw materials, from Melbourne. It is very unlikely a factory will be established here.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

A meeting of the council of the Decentralisation League was held to-day, Mr. Alex. Brown, J.P., the president, being in the chair. Mr. Thos. Hungerford brought forward a motion to call public meetings for the discussion of the Government railway policy, under the auspices of the league, but after discussion the Council deemed it advisable not to interfere, as there was a difference of opinion among the members of the league upon the policy. The motion was therefore withdrawn. Mr. Hungerford favoured a line from Cassilis to Walgett instead of from Narrabri to Walgett. Many of the Newcastle public are in favour of the latter.

WAGGA WAGGA, Tuesday.

Major Bartlett, adjutant of the 1st Regiment of volunteer infantry, arrived this morning. The first whole day parade of the year will take place to-morrow.

WEST MAITLAND, Tuesday.

Mrs. De Montemas, vice-president of the St. Paul's Girls' Friendly Society, has received a handsome banner from Mrs. Darling, of London, as a present to the society. The banner is a costly and beautiful work of art, and the donor's kindness is much appreciated.

Wm. Davis, a resident of Davistown, near Gosford, was picked up yesterday, on the Mount Vincent road, in an insensible condition, and it is feared he has been seriously injured. He was lying in a pool of blood, with one arm broken, and was otherwise cut and bruised, having evidently received a severe fall from his horse. He was removed to the Maitland Hospital for treatment.

WILCANNIA, Tuesday.

Now that the roads between here and Mount Brown are almost impassable on account of the drought the want of telegraphic communication with Milparinka is very much felt.

The weather is very mild for this time of the year, but rain keeps off. Since January it has been exceptionally dry, and we have not yet had three inches of rain, which is much below the usual average.

YASS, Tuesday.

At the Quarter Sessions to-day, before Judge M'Farland, Thomas Hartnett, charged with stealing goods from a dwelling at Yass, was found guilty, and was sentenced to three years' imprisonment in Yass Gaol. This was the only case on the list.

WAGGA PASTURES and STOCK PROTECTION BOARD.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our Correspondent.)

WAGGA WAGGA, Tuesday.

At a meeting of the Pastures and Stock Protection Board for the Wagga district, Mr. Arthur Devlin, grazier, of Marah station, was present, and gave the board a quantity of information on the anthrax question. He gave extracts from the writings of Mr. Chamberland, D.S., and superintendent of M. Pasteur's laboratory, showing the climatic influence on anthrax spores and filaments. He detailed certain experiments made in the years 1882-83, which showed that the mortality amongst sheep inoculated with anthrax vaccine was merely nominal, while amongst those not vaccinated a high rate of deaths occurred. Extracts were also read from the minutes of proceedings of the Australian Stock Conference held in Sydney in October, 1886. The board received a letter from the chief inspector of stock, relating to the negotiations at present pending with M. Pasteur as to the rate of compensation to be paid. The board will now make their report.

Cargo: 300 cheeses, 90 kegs 20 cases butter, 16 cases eggs, 2 cases honey, 2 cases 25 bags bacon, 80 bags bark, 6 casks tallow, 16 casks fish, 3 cases lobsters, 2 horses, 60 pigs, 24 calves, and sundries.

The ship British Merchant has nearly completed the discharge of her cargo for this port; in fact, she is only waiting the arrival of some 600 or 700 tons of coal, in order to stiffen the vessel, before she can discharge the remainder of her cargo. The British Merchant proceeds hence to San Francisco, thence she has been chartered to load grain for England.

The Orient Company's R.M.S. Orient, hence to London, arrived at Suez on the 8th instant. The same company's R.M.S. Iberia, inward bound from London, sailed from Suez on the 9th instant.

The R.M.S. Ormuz, of the Orient line, left Plymouth for Australian ports on Saturday last, her contract date.

Yesterday the North-German Lloyd steamer Nurnberg was taken from her berth at the old A. S. N. Company's Wharf to an anchorage in the stream.

Four ships bound north passed port yesterday morning shortly after 8 o'clock. They will undoubtedly comprise a part of the fleet of vessels that left Melbourne a few days since for Newcastle.

The steamer Yarra, of the M.M. Company's line, left Sydney last evening in continuation of her voyage to Noumea.

The Anglo-Australasian Company's steamer Port Augusta, hence to Batavia via Newcastle, left the latter port yesterday with 3300 tons of coal.

The following vessels left Newcastle yesterday for their respective ports, and with their respective coal cargoes:—Ayrshire, for San Francisco, with 2680 tons coal; Francois, for Macassar, with 1367 tons coal; Albany, for Valparaiso, with 745 tons coal; and the Milton Park, for San Francisco, with 2285 tons coal.

The three-masted schooner Coquette passed Gabo Island yesterday at 8.25 a.m. She was heading north.

The paddle-steamer Avon, which has recently been purchased by Messrs. John See and Co., of this city, arrived in port yesterday from Melbourne. The Avon is a smart little craft of 111 tons gross register. She has great carrying capacity upon a light draught of water. It is understood that the future engagements of the Avon will be acting as a tender between the Bellinger River and Port Macquarie, in which occupation she will bring all the local produce to be transhipped into the company's larger boats. Hitherto the Avon has been engaged in the Gippsland and Melbourne trade. The Avon has accommodation for a few passengers, and all necessary comforts in the way of berths, &c., are provided on a very liberal scale. Prior to taking up her running in the Bellinger trade the Avon will go into dock. She will very shortly start work in her new sphere of occupation.

The China Navigation Company's steamer Tsinan, hence to Hongkong, arrived at Port Darwin at 4.30 p.m. on the 11th instant.

The steamer Hauroto left Newcastle for Wellington yesterday.

The vessels M'Leod, Lismore, and Gladstone left London early in May for Sydney.

The ship Buttermere, bound from London to Sydney, was spoken on April 27, in 37° N. and 15° W.

The tonnage loading on the berth at London for India, China, and the Cape of Good Hope, on May 11, amounted to 38,336 tons; and for Australia and New Zealand to 37,910 tons.

S.S. FIFESHIRE.

The steamship Fifeshire, which was built especially for the London, Australian, and New Zealand trade, arrived at 3 a.m. yesterday, from London, via Adelaide, at Melbourne. The Fifeshire is one of the most modern of cargo carrying steamers, although she has accommodation for several passengers, who are located aft and in most comfortable quarters. The berths are arranged on either side of a very spacious saloon. The most prominent feature in connection with the vessel is her carrying capacity in the frozen meat trade. The Fifeshire is now on her second visit to Sydney. The last time she was here, it will be remembered, she had rather a lengthy stay in Mort's Dock, when some repairs were made to her machinery. However, she made a most successful trip home with nearly 30,000 carcases of sheep and lambs, besides which she took several thousand bales of wool. So far, the career of the Fifeshire has been one of unequalled success, and Captain Millar and his officers can well feel proud of their vessel. The Fifeshire will here take in some 600 tons of coal, and will probably proceed to New Zealand to-night or early to-morrow. Upon arrival home the Fifeshire was immediately placed upon the Australian berth, and she rapidly filled up with a general cargo. For Melbourne alone the Fifeshire had about 3000 tons of merchandise; besides, she landed over 500 tons at Adelaide, and at this port she will put out fully 800 tons. Captain W. A. Millar is still in command. Mr. Falconer is chief officer. Mr. Morgan has again come out in his old capacity, that of purser; and Mr. Small still is chief in the engineering department. Several passengers came out on this occasion, and they all speak in the very highest praise of the ship and her officers. All have enjoyed excellent health, so that Dr. T. W. Francis, the medical officer, has had very little to do in his official capacity. On April 17, William Marsh, one of the crew, died of heart disease. Captain Millar reports of the voyage as follows:—The Fifeshire left London on April 15, and had a pleasant run to Las Palmas, where a quantity of coal was taken in, and whence the steamer sailed again on April 22. The Equator was crossed on April 29, but the S.E. trades were fallen in with north of the Line before that date. There was some rough weather in the S.E. trades, but nothing special or exceptional. The Southern Ocean was crossed chiefly on the parallel of 44° S., with moderate breezes and fine weather all the way to Adelaide, where the steamer arrived on the morning of the 1st instant. The cargo for that port was lightered with despatch, and at 10.30 a.m. on the 2nd instant the Fifeshire left for Melbourne. Port Phillip Heads were entered at 10 a.m. on the 4th instant, and the bay was reached shortly after 1 p.m. The steamer was berthed in the bay just off the Railway Pier, Port Melbourne. The Fifeshire left Melbourne on the 10th instant, and arrived at 3 a.m. yesterday. She experienced on the run round very heavy westerly winds and seas, with heavy squalls to the Promontory, thence to port more favourable weather. The steamer is in admirable order, and has lost nothing of her new appearance of last year. The saloon of the steamer was an object of admiration yesterday to those who had not seen it on her former visit to this port.

THE ORIENT COMPANY'S R.M.S. LIGURIA.

Shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday morning the Orient Company's R.M.S. Liguria arrived in port, after a most successful run from England, with mails, passengers, and cargo. Her mails have been delivered well within her contract time, although some very heavy weather was experienced in the South Pacific. Besides, a little delay was caused by transhipping some passengers and cargo at Aden ex Garonne. Amongst the latter was 156 cases of electric-light apparatus for the Melbourne Centennial Exhibition. On the voyage out the health on board has been generally good, and the only incident in that direction during the voyage was the birth of a female infant, which took place on the 27th of May; the mother, Mrs. L. Ring, and her infant were safely landed in Melbourne. The Liguria's officers are: G. F. Dixon, captain; H. Perry, chief officer; R. Archer, second officer; F. W. Tonge, third officer; W. J. Trahair, fourth officer. Dr. Alfred Fisher has succeeded Dr. M'Cambridge, as ship's surgeon; Mr. John Moffatt is still chief engineer, and Mr. W. Taylor has taken the place of Mr. E. Williams in the capacity of chief steward. On leaving Plymouth the Liguria had a large list of saloon passengers, but over 40 of these landed at Gibraltar, Naples, Port Said, and Ismailia. Seventeen passengers all told disembarked at Albany, and 26 went ashore at Adelaide. In all classes there were 201 for Melbourne and 234 for Sydney. The voyage from a social point of view has eclipsed the former ones. The musical entertainments were not wanting in merit, for amongst the passengers both vocal and instrumental talent was to be had freely, and it was most cheerfully exercised. The comfort of all on board has been in the hands of Mr. Taylor, the chief steward, and no complaints have been even hinted at in that direction, for general satisfaction has been expressed at the excellent manner in which the duties connected with the victualling and the attendance has been discharged. The Liguria will on this occasion take up the Garonne's running, and consequently she will have just a week's stay in port. Upon arrival she came up to the company's berth at the Circular Quay, and coaling was commenced immediately. The Liguria, after taking in mails, passengers, and cargo, left London at 1 p.m. on April 27, and put into Plymouth next day at 3.30 p.m. After a stay of an hour and a half to embark passengers, she left at 5 p.m., and had moderate breezes and fine weather across the Bay of Biscay. A call was made at Gibraltar on the 2nd instant at 8.15 a.m., and the passage was resumed at 2 p.m. Light winds and fine weather continued thence until arrival at Naples at 8 a.m. on the 6th instant. Here the mails from England, France, and Italy were received, and at 10.35 a.m. on the 7th ultimo the Liguria left for Port Said, where she arrived at 8 p.m. on the 10th ultimo. After receiving the Egyptian mail and supplementary bags from Italy, the Canal was entered at 5.15 a.m. on the 11th ultimo. Taking advantage of the electric light the steamer was enabled to clear the Canal next day, and Suez was reached at 1.40 a.m. on the 12th ultimo. A supplementary Egyptian mail was received, and the Liguria left at 3 a.m. with 438 bags and 15 parcels of mails. Light winds and fine weather marked the passage of the Red Sea, and the steamer arrived at Aden at 9.15 a.m. on the 16th ultimo. After coaling, and receiving 53 third-class passengers from the R.M.S.S. Garonne, the voyage was resumed at 4.15 p.m. same date. Cape Guardafui was rounded at 9 p.m. on the 17th ultimo, and moderate S.W. monsoons and fine weather were fallen in with to lat. 3° N. The winds thence were light and variable to lat. 3° S., where they developed into a fresh S.E. trade. The trade winds were in force to lat. 28° S., where they took off and gave place to fresh southerly winds and a high sea, which lasted until rounding Cape Leeuwin at 1 p.m. on the 2nd instant. The Liguria arrived at Albany at 3.45 a.m. on the 3rd instant, and after landing mails, passengers, and cargo for West Australia, and taking in 8 bags of mails and six passengers thence, she left at 5.30 a.m. for Adelaide. Strong S.E. winds and a heavy head sea prevailed across the Great Australian Bight, and this portion of the voyage was one of hard steaming. The Liguria anchored off the Semaphore, Port Adelaide, at 1 a.m. on the 7th instant, and after landing mails, passengers, and cargo, left at 11.30 a.m. for Melbourne. Strong northerly winds continued from the Semaphore to Port Phillip Heads, which were entered at 8.15 p.m. on the 8th instant. A short stay in Melbourne sufficed, and a start was made on the 10th instant for Sydney. The Heads were entered at 5 a.m. yesterday. Strong S.W. winds were encountered on the run round.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—Tuesday, June 12.

In Banco.—(Before their Honors the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Innes, and Mr. Justice Stephen.)

EX PARTE W. C. BROWN, AN APPLICATION FOR A PROHIBITION TO BE DIRECTED TO THE MINISTER FOR LANDS.

The Court delivered its reserved judgment in the above matter.

The Chief Justice: In this case the applicant, Mr. W. C. Brown, on the 13th of August, 1885, lodged an application with the local land board at Gosford for the conditional purchase of 250 acres of land, under the 47th section of the Crown Lands Act, 1884. No caveat or other objection was lodged as against this application, and on the 4th September following the application was duly confirmed by the local land board, and a certificate to that effect was issued to the applicant under the provisions of the 29th section of the Act. On the 8th of July, 1886, one Palmer lodged an application under the 42nd section of the Act for the conditional purchase of 40 acres, being a portion of the 250 acres so conditionally purchased by Brown. This application came before the local land board, and was disallowed, on the ground that "the land applied for was included in Brown's prior application," thereupon Palmer appealed to the Minister from this decision, alleging, as a ground of such appeal, that when Brown took up the land it was improved, and further, that Brown had taken up conditional purchases under the repealed Act. This appeal—to which, of course, Brown was no party—came on to be heard before the Minister, sitting as a land court, on the 15th September, 1886, when the Minister, assuming to act under the powers contained in section 14 subsection 6 of the Act, referred the matter back to the local land board to inquire—first, as to the value of the improvements said to be on the land at the date of Brown's application; and secondly, whether Brown had made any conditional purchases under the repealed Act. The local land board made some inquiry into this matter, took evidence, and returned the evidence to the Minister without any adjudication on this point. On the 15th of December Palmer's appeal again came before the Minister. Of this hearing Brown had notice, whereupon the Minister assuming to act under section 14 sub-section 6, decided to refer Brown's application back to the board for consideration, on the ground that his application for the land was improperly confirmed, and he postponed Palmer's appeal pending the result of such rehearing. Accordingly on the 7th of May, 1887—a year and eight months after the confirmation of Brown's application—the chairman of the land board gave notice to Brown to attend at the courthouse at Gosford, in order that an investigation might be held as to whether his application should be disallowed, on the ground that at the date of the application the land contained improvements which were not specified in the application as required by the 25th section of the Act. Accordingly Dr. Donovan, as counsel for Brown, on the 20th of May last year, obtained a rule nisi for a prohibition to be addressed to the Minister for Lands and to the local land board at Gosford to restrain all further proceedings upon the ground—first, that Brown's application having been duly confirmed by the local land board, and no person having lodged a caveat, or having appealed against such confirmation, the said Minister had no power or jurisdiction on Palmer's appeal to give the decision complained of; secondly, that the local land board had no power or jurisdiction to proceed with the said reference or to reopen the question of the confirmation of Brown's application. It is contended on the part of the Minister and the local land board, first that a prohibition will not lie to them or either of them, and secondly, that under the 14th section subsection 6 the Minister has at all times independent power, whether he is set in motion by any person or not, to refer any matter back to the local land board for revision or rehearing, and that this is one of the matters which may be so referred. First, I am of opinion that both the local land board and the Minister do, when adjudicating on matters brought before them in Court, form Courts to which a writ of prohibition may go. By the 14th section of the Act, subsection 1, the board is to hear and determine all complaints and other matters brought before it as sitting in open Court; and, again, by section 18 appeals to the Minister shall be heard and determined as in open Court, and his decision in any matter arising out of a conditional purchase or conditional lease shall for the purposes of the Act be final and conclusive. These Courts so constituted have no jurisdiction beyond that conferred upon them by the Act, and accordingly, if they attempt to act without jurisdiction, they are Courts which can be restrained by a writ of prohibition issuing out of this Court. This Court having jurisdiction to grant prohibition to every description of Court exercising judicial functions or to a pretended Court. (See 6 Bacon's Abridgement, 583), the next question is whether the Minister and the local land board have in this case the jurisdiction they seek to exercise. This, of course, will depend upon the construction of the Act. Before the Act was passed conditional purchases were made under the 13th section of the Crown Lands Act of 1861. Any intending conditional purchaser attended at the land office on the land office day, applied for certain land, paid his deposit, and was by the land agent, a mere Ministerial officer, declared to be the conditional purchaser. This declaration settled nothing, and months, or perhaps years afterwards, the unfortunate conditional purchaser found that the land so taken up by him was not available for conditional purchase, and he was thereupon ousted from the land he had conditionally purchased. In order to remedy this serious defect, one which gave rise to much expensive and ruinous litigation and great hardship in many cases, the present Act was passed, and the local land board, with its large judicial powers, was substituted for the land agent, who exercised merely administrative powers. By the Act certain prescribed lands are exempt from conditional sale (section 21), and all other lands are open to conditional sale (section 22). The 25th and following sections provide for the taking up of the land. The applicant, if the land be not measured, must mark the land in a prescribed manner (regulation 32), and identify it in his application. If it be measured he is to describe it as measured. If it contains improvements he is to state this fact, and to describe the nature and position of such improvements (section 25). He is to tender to the land agent for the district his application in person, pay a deposit, and with his application tender a declaration in a certain prescribed form (this form has been prescribed by the 27th regulation, and contains nothing about improvements). If there be any false statement in the declaration, the applicant forfeits all moneys paid in respect of the land and the right and title to the land. The land agent, having received the application, deposit, and declaration, is to enter particulars in a book, and to forward the application, together with all documents relating thereto, to the local land board to be dealt with. A list of all such applications so transmitted is to be kept by the land agent, and be exhibited by him for public inspection in a conspicuous part of his office (section 28). The Governor has power to appoint a district surveyor for every land district (section 16), and copies of applications for conditional purchases, prior to consideration by the board, may be transmitted to the district surveyor for report; and the board, having received this report, may require a survey of the land, and ask for a further report (regulation 33). The application is then to be dealt with by the board sitting as in open court on a day of which at least 14 days' notice is to be given in the prescribed manner (section 28) to the applicant and to the caveator (if any), and this 14 days' notice is to be posted in a conspicuous manner outside the office of the land agent of the district, and outside the head office of the board (regulation 34). Even after all this, if a further report or survey be considered desirable, the board may adjourn the further consideration of the application until receipt of the required report or reports, and shall then fix a day and place for dealing with the application, of which day and place notice is to be given, and posted as under regulation 34 (regulation 35.) If then upon the report or reports the land shall appear to be available for conditional purchase, and no caveat be lodged, the board shall confirm the application. If, upon the report or otherwise before survey, the board shall be opinion that the land is not open to conditional purchase, it may disallow the application. On every confirmation after all these enquiries, reports, notices, &c., the board shall issue a certificate of such confirmation to the applicant (section 29). Any person may, within 14 days after the day of application, lodge a caveat setting forth objections to the application being granted. This caveat is then to be dealt with by the board, sitting as in open Court (section 30), and either party may, within 28 days after the decision of the board, appeal to the Minister against such decision (section 17.) If the decision of the board be against the caveator, and he does not appeal within the prescribed time, then the adjudication of the board is to be final and conclusive (section 31), and the board is, after the expiration of the 28 days allowed for appeal, to issue a certificate of confirmation (regulation 39). Such are the safeguards prescribed by the Act, and for what purpose are these prescribed? Is it not for the purpose of ensuring to the conditional purchaser that if there be no false statement in his declaration, and if he has obtained a certificate of confirmation, which, whether there be a caveat or no caveat, he can only obtain after an enquiry in open Court, of which enquiry the fullest notice is given, such a certificate gives him a title to the land as against everyone. If a caveat has been lodged, and the decision against the caveator, such decision is final and conclusive. Can it be that the decision of the board in open Court, that the land is available for conditional purchase, followed by a certificate of confirmation, is less final and conclusive? I think not. In this case I must assume that the board did its duty, and that all required notices were given, yet Palmer lodged no caveat within the prescribed time, or at all; and, therefore, lost his right to complain of Brown's conditional purchase. But now, 18 months after, by applying for a conditional purchase of part of Brown's conditional purchase (if the Minister and the board have the jurisdiction they seek to exercise), Palmer effects the same purpose—it may be, at a time when much evidence is lost or difficult to obtain—as he would have effected had he lodged a caveat as the law requires. So that, in place of the decision given in open Court being final and conclusive, it is only so in case some person does not at some indefinite time apply to conditionally purchase the land or some portion thereof. If such subsequent application be made, the decision of the board at once ceases to be final and conclusive. The finality and conclusion, therefore, is only to have effect in case it be not required, but if required it is to be of no avail. It is, however, contended that under the fourteenth section, subsection 6, the Minister has at all times plenary power, and whether there be an appeal or not, to inquire into the decision of the board. If so, then any conditional purchaser's title in the colony rests upon the fiat of the Minister, who must, according to this argument, have power at any time after confirmation, whether it be days, months, or years, to send the matter back for consideration and possible condemnation. I do not so read this 6th subsection. In my opinion the 5th, 6th, and 7th sub-sections stand together. The 5th sub-section deals with complaints by unauthorised persons and how they are to be dealt with. An appeal from the decision on this complaint will be to the Minister (section 17), and then, by force of the 6th section, the Minister may, in place of deciding this case, remit it back for revision, rehearing, or further consideration; the board may then, by sub-section 7, instead of giving any decision after taking evidence, refer such case, with the evidence, back to the Minister for his decision, and he has then power to deal with the case so referred in all respects as if it had been brought before him in the first instance. The board has its prescribed duty to discharge entirely independent of the Minister; such matters can only come before the Minister in case there be a caveat, and this by way of appeal from the board. It appears to me therefore clear that the Minister can only refer such matters back to the board under subsection 6, as the board taking evidence can refer to the Minister for decision, and that these matters are confined to cases which the Minister has power to deal with in the first instance, as, for example, questions of lapse, avoidance, or forfeiture, which the Minister may deal with or may refer to the board (section 20), and the complaints by unauthorised persons are complaints probably of some non-fulfilment of conditions which would bring about lapse, forfeiture, or avoidance. I am therefore of opinion that neither the Minister nor the local land board has the jurisdiction which they propose to assume. It should be borne in mind that improvements are in no case an absolute bar to the improved lands being conditionally purchased. It is in all cases left to the land board to say whether the improvements, if any such there be, are necessary for the profitable occupation of the land; if in the opinion of the land board they are not so necessary, the land is still open to conditional purchase, subject, perhaps, to the provisions of the 41st section. I can conceive nothing more dangerous to the due administration of the land law and to the prosperity of the country, than to allow it to be supposed that every conditional purchaser's title rests for its security upon the smile or frown of the Minister for the time being. In my opinion the Legislature, acting on the experience gained from the administration and working of the Act of 1861, and seeing the manifest and frequent cases of hardship and oppression as affecting conditional purchasers arising from the insecurity of tenure and the great difficulty of ascertaining whether certain parts of the public lands of the colony were or were not open to conditional purchase, has advisedly formed a Court, through the operation and under the sanction of which only can the lands of the colony be conditionally purchased, and has in my opinion made the decision of that Court unappealed against in cases within their jurisdiction final and conclusive, of which the certificate of confirmation is the evidence, binding upon the Minister and all alike. For these reasons, I am of opinion that there should be a rule absolute for a prohibition in this case, and with costs.

Mr. Justice Innes said: In the view which I take of this case, it is unnecessary to consider whether the Minister is a "Court" to which prohibition will go. I may say, in passing, that upon this part of the case I am disposed to agree with his Honor. But I am clearly of opinion that the confirmation by the local land board of W. C. Browne's application does not, in the circumstances of this case, preclude the Minister from taking the action which he has taken. I think he is empowered under the 6th subsection of section 14 to return to the local land board for "revision, rehearing, or further consideration" this "case" or "matter," if it has appeared to him that it has been "improperly or insufficiently considered or determined" by the board. I take it that it has appeared to him that this case has been either insufficiently considered or improperly determined, or both insufficiently considered and improperly determined; and, that being so, it seems to me that in sending back W. C. Browne's case to the land board for "reconsideration, on the ground that his application was improperly considered," he has acted entirely within his powers. Section 5 of the present Act commences with these words:—"Crown lands shall not be sold, leased, dedicated, reserved, or dealt with, except under and subject to the provisions of this Act," thereby re-enacting in plain and forcible words the equally emphatic provision of "section 3 of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861—"Any Crown lands may be lawfully granted in fee simple under and subject to the provisions of this Act, but not otherwise." The policy of the Act so far is thus clearly expressed,—that the mode of alienation as prescribed by the Act is to be rigidly adhered to. Any considerations as to whether too much power is given to a Minister or not, are wholly beside the question. The Minister is responsible to Parliament, and observations which have been addressed to us about the impolicy of vesting such large powers in him, however fitting in discussion within the Houses of the Legislature, are wholly out of place in a Court that is concerned merely with the administration, and not with making, of laws. The sole question we have to consider, is, "Has the Legislature given to the Minister the power which it is contended he possesses?" I have already stated I think it has. Section 21 says: "Crown lands belonging to any of the classes hereinafter specified shall be exempt from conditional sale"—i.e., shall not be conditionally sold; and subsection 9 specifies one of these classes, viz., "Lands containing improvements" . . . of the character of the improvements which it is alleged are contained within the lands in question. Such lands were, therefore, if, in fact, they did contain such improvements, not open to conditional purchase. It is, however, contended in support of this motion that, inasmuch as the local land board has thought fit to confirm an application for that land—the real fact, apparently, not having been brought under the notice of the land board—that confirmation operates finally and conclusively to vest the land, subject only to his complying with subsequent conditions, in the applicant for it—the would-be conditional purchaser—and that as no caveat was lodged, the Minister has no power to direct a "revision, re-hearing, or further consideration of the matter." I am of opinion that that is not the law. If it were, we arrive at once, by a very short route, at a direct violation of the provisions of section 21; and Crown lands distinctly and expressly prohibited by that section from being conditionally sold would be sold, and that notwithstanding the express and stringent terms of section 5, which, as I have before pointed out, says that "Crown lands shall not be sold except under and subject to the provisions of this Act." But, it is said, this is a petitio principii—a begging of the question; and that the provisions of the Act do authorise a sale of Crown lands not open to conditional sale, if, after receipt of an application for land, the local land board (if the land applied for appears to such board to be open to conditional purchase, and has not been surveyed) direct the district surveyor to cause a survey of such land to be made; and if, upon the report of such surveyor, it has appeared that the land is available, and the board has thereupon confirmed the application, no caveat (as in the 30th section provided) having been lodged. I do not think the provisions of the Act authorise any such sale under such circumstances. It is difficult indeed to state the proposition contended for without stating a palpable contradiction in terms. Now, as to the fact: Did the land contain improvements which exempted it from conditional sale? We must take it for the purposes of this decision that that question is to be answered in the affirmative. It is a somewhat curious thing that the lengthy affidavit in support of this motion for a prohibition does not say one word about it—nor do the annexures to the affidavit allude to that very material fact. We must, I suppose, presume that the board directed the district surveyor to cause a survey to be made. But we are not informed, nor are we informed what report the surveyor—if so directed—made. And it would be interesting to know what he had to say upon the question of "improvements." However, as I said before, the truth of Mr. Palmer's allegation put forward in his appeal is not disputed. Palmer says, "When W. C. Browne selected said 40 acres, same was improved by a stone well, clearing consisting of grubbing and falling large trees by the roots, some log-fencing, and split timber lying on the ground ready to erect fencing. (In his application these improvements were, I believe, not specified as required by section 25 of the Act.) The above improvements were effected by myself when I selected the same land on 2nd October, 1884, which selection has since been disallowed." Mr. Browne chooses to leave us to assume that allegation to be true. It may or may not be true; but for the purposes of this motion, we must look at it as we look at allegations of fact in a pleading demurred to—their truth admitted. Then, that being so, the land is as matter of fact not "open to conditional purchase," and it cannot come within section 47, the section under which Browne's application was made, which section deals only with "Crown lands open to conditional purchase." Ab initio therefore Browne fails. Is then this wholly void application to be cured by an adherence to the letter of the 29th section? I think not. Now let us examine the provisions of section 29. It is however well to go back to section 25 for a moment. That section says, with reference to applications for lands containing improvements, "Whenever the land so applied for contains improvements, the applicant shall state that fact in his application, and shall describe the nature and position of such improvements." No regulation prescribing a form of declaration which may omit reference to improvements can in any way abrogate this section, or lessen the obligation upon the applicant to state in his application that which this section requires to be stated. Did the applicant Browne comply with this imperative injunction of the Act? Again we are not told aye or no, but it does not seem a violent presumption to infer that as a matter of fact he did not. However, I assume that he did. We turn then to section 29. It runs thus:—"Upon receipt of every such application, the local land board, if the land applied for appears to such board to be open to conditional purchase, and has not been surveyed, shall direct the district surveyor to cause a survey of such land to be made; and if upon the report of such surveyor it shall appear that the land is available, then the board shall confirm the application, unless a caveat be lodged as hereinafter provided." Now, the board is to "confirm the application" unless a caveat be lodged "as hereinafter provided." Section 30 prescribes the "hereinafter" provisions alluded to. No caveat was lodged in this case. But who is to lodge a caveat? Section 30 gives the answer—"Any person claiming a right to land so applied for." No one else. There was no such person. Palmer was no such person; he was not on the 13th August, 1885, the date of Browne's application, nor was any one else, a person claiming any right to the land applied for. He would therefore have no locus standi to lodge a caveat, nor would any one else. How then can it be said that this was a case for the lodging of a caveat, and that because no caveat was lodged, not only should the board confirm the application, but that that confirmation is to be absolutely and for ever binding and conclusive upon every one, Minister and all, and a portion of the public lands of the colony is to be alienated in direct violation of the provisions of the Act? I am clearly of opinion that in such a case as this the caveat provisions have nothing whatever to do with the matter. And now, as to the effect of the "confirmation" by the board of the application. What does that confirmation do? It is, no doubt, a necessary preliminary to the title of the applicant. Its date indicates, under section 32, the time within which residence—in those cases where residence is necessary, and this case is not such a one—is to commence. I see nothing more that it does. It is a preliminary safeguard with which the Legislature has fenced round a transaction which, if carried through, results in the alienation, under terms exceptionally favourable to the purchaser, of a large slice of the public estate, but was surely never intended to be a machinery for bringing about the alienation of the public estate contrary to the express prohibitory sections of the Act. This not being, as I have pointed out, a case in which any person was entitled to lodge a caveat, the notices spoken of were merely inoperative, and the whole proceeding, from "application" to "confirmation" inclusive, was entirely an ex parte proceeding. Now then rightly comes in the function of the Minister—exercising, in the public interest, a correcting and controlling jurisdiction over a possibly improvident action of the board. Section 14 provides—"For the purpose of regulating the procedure of local land boards under this Act, and of empowering such boards to give full effect to the meaning and intent thereof, the following provisions shall be applicable to, and shall be carried out by such boards. . . .:—The Minister may return to the local land board for revision, rehearing, or further consideration, any case or matter which to such Minister shall appear to have been improperly or insufficiently considered or determined by such board." Whenever and however it comes to the knowledge of the Minister in his official capacity that a case or matter has been improperly or insufficiently considered or determined by the board (whether that knowledge is arrived at by the complaint or representation of any interested person, or merely by his own perusal of the papers forwarded to him by the board), it seems to me that it is competent to him, as a great trustee for the public in their beneficial ownership of the Crown lands of the colony, to return such case or matter to the board for "revision, rehearing, or further consideration." And where the Minister sees that Crown lands have been assumed to be alienated improperly—i.e., as here, in violation of the express provisions of the Act—I take it it is not merely competent to, but the duty of, the Minister not to wink at any such proceeding, but to take steps for the vindication of the law at the earliest period. The board may then revise, rehear, or further consider such case or matter, and report accordingly. In such a case as this, where now there is a person claiming claiming the same land, both parties may be brought before the land board, sitting as a Court, and the matter in dispute fairly fought out; and the erroneous determination (if the confirmation can even be put so high as a determination), previously arrived at ex parte, may be, after the hearing of both sides, "reversed, altered, or amended." (See section 19) And then the dissatisfied party may appeal to the Minister. Section 18 unquestionably makes the decision of the Minister upon any appeal in respect of any matter arising out of conditional purchase or conditional lease "final and conclusive." We may be disposed to regard as a grave error on the part of the Legislature the vesting in a political officer supreme judicial functions (if indeed it be the case that no appeal lies to the Courts of ordinary judicature from the decision of a Minister); but this again is a matter with which we here, administering and not making the law, have no concern. And, be this as it may, no such language is used in any case with reference to a determination of any land board, where the whole proceeding has been, as here, ex parte. Section 31, which says that the adjudication of the board is final and conclusive unless the caveator appeals to the Minister, obviously applies to an entirely different state of circumstances. And in ex parte cases I see nothing in the Act which has the effect of making the decision, even of the Minister, final and conclusive. I am of opinion that this rule should be discharged, with costs.

Mr. Justice Stephen said: I have had great difficulty in coming to a conclusion on this matter, owing to the language of the sections that we have had to consider, the bewildering order in which they are placed, and to a state of things not perhaps anticipated to have arisen. My opinion is that the Minister had, under sub-section 6 of sec. 14, a right to refer to the local land board for revision the "matter" of Brown's application. In the first place, I think that he was in no way precluded from so doing by the fact that the board had confirmed Brown's application. I cannot find that any effect is given to a confirmation beyond fixing the date from which the purchaser shall commence to reside. See s. 32. I am quite clear that the fact of a caveat not having been lodged does not give the confirmation a binding effect, or insure to the purchaser his right to land which may have been illegally purchased, that is, not being available under the Act. The 30th section does not, in my opinion, at all apply. That only prescribes that a person claiming a right to land applied for may lodge a caveat; and it is against him only that under Section 31 the adjudication of the board would be final and conclusive unless he appeals. In the case before us, when Brown applied for the land in question, neither Palmer nor any one else, so far as we know, claimed any right to the land. Palmer was no more interested than any other member of the public in preventing land being taken up that was not legally available. Whether he did or whether he did not know of the application, he could not resist it by means of a caveat. Nor is any appeal given in case of allowance—as in the nature of things, there could not, no one being especially interested. When Palmer applied for the same land—or, rather, part of it—an opportunity arose for making use of the 30th section, and that would be by Brown, who did claim a right to the land, entering a caveat against Palmer. Had this been done, it seems to me that the whole matter might have been decided under the 30th and 31st sections and those regulating appeals. No caveat is lodged, and Palmer appeals, under the 29th section, against the disallowance by the board. How is the matter now to be determined? If the Minister, on Palmer's appeal, allows his application—then the anomaly will exist of two allowed applications—the effect of which it is impossible to say. The Minister remits Palmer's appeal back for further inquiry to the land board, and they refer the matter to him for decision. It is now, I suppose, seen that Brown's right cannot be affected without notice to him, which is accordingly given. It may be that the Minister might have again referred Palmer's application to the board, and given Brown an opportunity to contest the point raised by Palmer. But so far as Brown is concerned, he having entered no caveat, one hardly sees what would be his legal position. What the Minister does, however, is to refer Brown's application, assuming to act under the sub-section already mentioned. It "appears" to him, so I assume (see sub-sec. 6), that when it "appeared to the board" (sec. 29) that the land was open to conditional purchase, the matter in hand was "improperly or insufficiently considered or determined by such board." It is true that there is no appeal before him—between two parties directly raising the point—nor has there been a complaint under sub-sec. 6. Is this necessary? To me the 17th, 18th, and 19th appear independent sections, dealing solely with appeals and the manner of procedure—the latter providing (in case of its appearing that further evidence ought to be taken) for a remission to the board and an alteration of its decision. They are preceded by sub-section 6 of section 13, which is general in its terms, and certainly not limited expressly to cases where a complaint is made to a land board, or an appeal comes before a Minister. Indeed, in the case of an appeal, it is the Minister's duty to decide himself. If further evidence is necessary, he refers to the board—section 19. It can hardly be that sub-section 6 also refers to the case of an appeal. If an appeal is before him, and he considers it "improperly determined," surely he must decide. There is more reason, perhaps, for construing sub-section 6, following sub-section 5, as providing that where there is no appeal from the decision on a complaint, the Minister may, ex mero motu, refer it back, if he thinks the determination improper. However, I see no express limitation, and I think that the section fairly meets a "case" or "matter" like the present. There is no provision in the 20th section of means whereby it shall be made to appear to the board that the land is "open to conditional purchase," that it has not been dedicated, that it has not been granted or contracted to be granted, or that it is not exempt under any of the nine conditions mentioned in section 21. If it does so appear, then a surveyor is simply directed to make a survey, and if on his report it should appear that the land is "available" (whatever that now may mean—though it cannot mean open to conditional purchase) the application is confirmed. I have shown that, whatever the error may be, it is not the case for a caveat or an appeal. The person who may subsequently apply (as is apparently Palmer's position) alleging that the ground was not open to the first purchaser, but is so to himself, is remediless, unless the former applicant enters a caveat, or unless, on appeal against the disallowance, the former matter may be re-opened. It may possibly be urged that he must as well enter a complaint under sub-section 5, and that then the decision, if not in his favour, may be referred back, under sub-section 6. This is the view, in fact, that I have had most difficulty in considering. I think that the policy of the Act is to give the Minister every possible power to secure the due administration of the lands with which he is charged—to prevent their being illegally alienated—to correct every kind of error. In this instance, not assuming to decide or influence the matter himself, he refers it to the land court, the primary tribunal, the ultimate resort being himself. The point arose before him in a legitimate way, and we cannot grant a prohibition unless we hold that the confirmation was so absolute as to exclude all further jurisdiction, or that the operation of sub-section 6 depends on a complaint filed or an appeal lodged. If it be said that this power would in some cases work injustice, owing to the lapse of time, I say, in the first place, that is a risk which a purchaser must understand he incurs; and next, that in one case to which I shall refer, and where equal hardship would be involved, the Act clearly contemplates the liability to such a risk until a "certificate of completion" (sec. 36) of the conditions, or grant, has issued. I allude to the complaint that made be made under sub-sec. 3 of sec. 13—that land has been purchased in violation of the repealed Acts. I may observe, too, that after the expiration of the prescribed term of residence, on application made for a "certificate of conformity," a caveat may be lodged. It may, however, I admit, be a question whether or not such caveat could impeach the legality of selection. I may observe, too, that, whatever the construction of sub-section 6, no time is limited for the action of the Minister.

Rule accordingly discharged by majority, with costs.

KAY V. JOHNSON.

The Attorney-General and Mr. G. H. Reid, instructed by Messrs. Williamson and Williamson, appeared for the defendants (appellants), and moved for a rule nisi for a new trial. The action, which was brought by Emily Kay against Richard Nicholson Johnson and Henry Johnson, to recover compensation for damage to her property owing to a portion of the wall of her premises in Oxford-street falling, in consequence, as alleged, of the negligence of defendants or their servants in excavating adjoining land, was tried before Mr. Justice Stephen and a jury of four on the 18th, 21st, and 22nd May, when a verdict was returned in favour of the plaintiff, with damages £350. A rule nisi was now moved on leave reserved to set aside the verdict or enter a nonsuit on the following grounds:—1. That his Honor ought to have nonsuited plaintiff on the grounds reserved. 2. That his Honor ought not to have directed the jury that if any part of the wall in question in the case belonged to the plaintiff or was in her possession the plaintiff would be entitled to recover damages. 3. That his Honor ought not to have directed the jury that the defendants were liable for any negligence of their contractors, and that his Honor ought to have told the jury that upon the evidence the defendants were not so liable. 4. That his Honor ought to have held, and so directed the jury, that the case was not one within the meaning of section 59 of the City of Sydney Improvement Act. 5. That the verdict was against evidence and the weight of evidence. 6. That the damages were excessive.

The Attorney-General having addressed the Court on behalf of appellants,

Mr. Justice Windeyer said that it appeared that the parties in the case were the owners of adjoining houses. Defendant was apparently the owner in fee of the land upon which his house stood, and plaintiff was the occupant of a house adjoining defendant's house. It also appeared from the evidence that defendant's house was built first, and that the owner of the plaintiff's house constructed that building by erecting the back and front walls of the structure which they put up on their land, but they built no side walls, availing themselves of the walls of the adjoining house already in existence. The wall which existed between plaintiff's and defendants' house stood in a great measure upon defendants' land, but a portion of it clearly was upon plaintiff's land, and extended some distance along and upon plaintiff's land; and it was not denied that it might have run down to an infinitesimal point upon plaintiff's land. So that it was quite clear, according to the evidence of the persons from whom plaintiff claimed to have been in possession that for over 20 years a portion of the wall was on plaintiff's land. Under these circumstances the defendants employed a contractor to excavate upon their own land for certain purposes, and in consequence of the excavation the wall fell. The plaintiff then brought an action against defendants for the damage done to her property by the falling of the wall, in consequence, as it was stated, of the wall not having been properly underpinned during the time that the excavation was going on upon defendants' land. Defendants at the trial contended that they were not liable, inasmuch as they employed a contractor to do the work, which was not necessarily dangerous in itself, and did not necessarily involve any danger to the plaintiff's house if the work was carried out with due care; and various cases had been cited to the Court to show that under those circumstances the defendants were not liable. Cases of this kind often involved points of considerable difficulty; but it was suggested that the difficulty was got over here by the provisions of the 59th section of the City of Sydney Improvement Act, and the principles which were laid down by the Court in the case Clancy v. Davies, 3 N. S. W. L. R., page 299. The provisions of the 59th section were in he following words:—"The owner of any premises or land (hereinafter called the building owner) may if necessary excavate or take out the ground against the wall of any building adjoining such land for the purpose of erecting a wall thereon, or for any other purpose. Provided that the said building owner do at his own cost shore up and undermine and underpin such wall or such parts thereof to its full thickness and to the full depth of such excavation with good sound bricks or stone and tiles, irons, or slates bedded in cement, or with other proper and sufficient material and in a workmanlike and substantial manner to the satisfaction of the surveyor." It was stated that the plaintiff relied upon the provisions of the Act as making it a statutory duty on the part of defendants, whether they employed a contractor or not, to take the precautions which were pointed out in the 59th section as proper, in order to prevent this wall from falling. It appeared to him that the provisions of the section did apply to the present case, and that if they were to allow the defendants to escape from their obligations on the ground suggested, the salutary effect of this section, and the safeguards which were afforded to owners of adjacent properties under the provisions of the section, would be to a very large extent defeated. It was suggested here that the defendants were not the owners within the meaning of this section, and it was further suggested that the wall in question was not such a wall as it was intended should be shored up. Defendants were clearly the persons who, by the section, came under the denomination "building owners," who were authorised under the provisions of the section to make all necessary excavations, or take out ground against the wall of any building adjoining such land. Now, the only question for the Court to decide was, whether the wall referred to in this case was the wall of a building "adjoining such land." It was admitted that a portion of this wall was undoubtedly the plaintiff's, and it appeared to him it was impossible to contend, under the circumstances, that the plaintiff's wall was not a wall adjoining such building owner's land, and plaintiff was clearly entitled to the protection which the 59th section insisted upon. That being so, it mattered not whether defendants employed a contractor or not, and it became their statutory duty to see that the necessary precautions were taken, and not having done so and the plaintiff's wall having fallen in consequence of the excavation on defendant's land, plaintiff was entitled to recover. For these reasons he thought the rule ought to be refused.

Mr. Justice Innes and Mr. Justice Foster concurred.

Rule refused.

SYDNEY TRAMWAY COMPANY V. MAHER—PEISLEY CLAIMANT.

Mr. Salomons, Q.C., and Dr. Sly appeared for the execution creditors (appellants); and Mr. Nash for the claimants. This was a motion to make absolute a rule nisi for a prohibition directed to Mr. District Court Judge Wilkinson, J. A. Lucas, Registrar of the District Court, William H. Peisley, and George R. Peisley, claimants, to set aside the decision of his Honor in the above action on the 1st June. On the 16th May Peisley Brothers lodged a claim to certain goods of one John Maher, which were taken in execution by the Sydney Tramway and Omnibus Company under a judgment recovered by them on the 19th April last. In the summons served upon them they were required within two clear days before the 1st June to deliver to the officer in charge of the process of execution, or leave at the office of the registrar, particulars of the goods and chattels claimed, and the grounds of claim, and they stated that the particulars in question were delivered to the officer in charge of the process on the 29th May at the judgment debtors' house. When the matter came before the District Court Judge the execution creditor took the objection that no particulars had been filed within two days of the hearing, as required by the additional District Court rules of 15th June, 1861. The objection, however, was overruled, and the execution creditors now applied to the Court on the ground that claimants did not file particulars of their claim under the rules referred to two clear days prior to the date of hearing.

After hearing Mr. Salomons, and without calling upon Mr. Nash,

The Court unanimously held that the particulars were filed within the time as required by the District Court rules, and discharged the rule with costs.

ROBINSON V. TYSON.

The Attorney-General, Mr. Salomons, Q.C., and Mr. Pring, instructed by Messrs. Fisher, Ralfe, and Salwey, appeared for the appellant (defendant); and Mr. Pilcher, Q.C., and Mr. Want, Q.C., instructed by Mr. C. C. Read, for the respondent. This was an application on behalf of defendant to make absolute a rule nisi to set aside the verdict and enter a nonsuit. The action, which was tried on the 5th, 6th, and 7th of September last, before the Chief Justice and a jury of four, was brought by Benjamin Robinson against James Tyson, to recover damages for breach of contract in regard to the sale of certain cattle, and the jury returned a verdict in his favour with damages £3000. It was now sought to have the verdict set aside, and a nonsuit entered on the following grounds:—1. That his Honor ought to have nonsuited the plaintiff, or directed a verdict for defendant on the ground submitted by the defendant's counsel, viz., that there was no evidence to go to the jury in support of the plaintiff's case. 2. That the verdict was against evidence. 3. That his Honor was in error in directing the jury that if they found that M'Donald was placed by the defendant with regard to the public in such a position that the public might reasonably draw the inference that he was so placed by the defendant as his general agent for the purpose of carrying on the business of the station, they should find a verdict for the plaintiff. 4. That as to the alleged holding out by the defendant of M'Donald as his agent his Honor should have ruled and directed the jury that before they could return a verdict for the plaintiff it was necessary that they should find that the plaintiff before the making of the alleged contract was aware of the prior acts of M'Donald, and that the plaintiff entered into the contract on the faith of or relying on such acts.

The case was partly argued and then adjourned.

In Equity.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice Owen, Chief Judge in Equity.)

DEAN V. JONES.

Mr. C. J. Manning and Mr. A. Gordon (instructed by Messrs. Salter and Barker), were for the plaintiff, Alexander Dean; and Mr. Salomons, Q.C., and Mr. Lingen (instructed by the Crown Solicitor), were nominally for the defendant, Montagu Rhys Jones, but really represented the Government.

The application was one for an injunction restraining the defendant, or his servants and workmen, from in any way continuing blasting and explosions in connection with the sewerage works in Young-street. The case for the plaintiff was that he was possessed of certain premises in Young-street, Sydney, known as Longueville-chambers, which were almost new, and were well and substantially built, and were at present occupied by tenants. The defendant was the contractor for the construction of certain underground sewers in front of plaintiff's premises. In course of the work he had sunk a shaft communicating with the sewer, and his workmen were in the habit of frequently and daily discharging large quantities of powder, dynamite, or other explosives for the purpose of blasting, and had thereby caused damage to the walls and foundations of the plaintiff's premises. These had been already much injured, and if such blasting were continued they were in danger of being altogether ruined. The walls and ceilings were already cracking, and were in danger of falling down. Plaintiff's tenants had been disturbed and injured, and had been interrupted in their businesses. The plaintiff, through his solicitors, sent a letter to the defendants complaining of the injury he had suffered, and asking for an undertaking that such blasting should be discontinued, or so carried on as to prevent further damage to his property. The defendant, in answer, visited plaintiff's premises, but had not given any undertaking such as was desired, but had continued to carry on the work. The plaintiff, in his affidavits in support of his claim, said that he believed the defendant was conducting his blasting operations without any license from the Municipal Council of Sydney, the proper officers to give the same, and was, in fact, conducting the operations entirely at his own risk, under cover of some alleged authority from the Government.

Mr. C. J. Manning urged that the defendant was wrong in conducting his operations so as to injure adjoining property. Plaintiff's premises were being much injured, the blasting was unnecessary, and ought to be stopped.

Mr. Salomons, for the defendant, said that he was entitled to do the work, provided compensation were made for any injury or damage done. This sewer must be made for the general good, but the general good was not to be purchased at the expense of the private individual, and hence the provision for compensation. The blasting was necessary, the work could not go on without it, and the Court certainly would not stop it. When an Act of Parliament authorised work to be done, it could not be stopped by injunction. All that could be come for was compensation. The Act had authorised certain things to be done which necessitated blasting. The same thing was going on all over Sydney. Grant this injunction, and it would be said that all the old houses and buildings in Sydney were being damaged. The work had been going on from April until now. It was only at this period that plaintiff discovered injury was being done. He submitted that plaintiff had no case, that there was no ground for seeking for an injunction, and that the application must be refused with costs.

Mr. Lingen said that the work had now reached a stage which rendered it less likely to do damage than previously. Every day took the excavations deeper down the ground, and the vibration was less and less. The nature and extent of the nuisance had to be taken into account by the Court. Where the injury was merely temporary and trifling, the Court ought not to act, and he submitted that the plaintiff had no case.

Mr. C. J. Manning, in reply, urged that it was not a temporary injury where there was a chance of buildings coming down. The damage was increasing day by day, and the work was to be continued for two months more. Saying plaintiff was entitled to compensation was not an answer to him. Temporary injury only took place where the work was not of long duration, where everything was speedily put right, and where no actual damage worth speaking of was inflicted.

His Honor said that this was an application to restrain the defendant, the constructor of the underground sewers under the Metropolitan Water and Sewage Act, from continuing blastings and explosions in the neighbourhood of the plaintiff's house in Young-street. The first question he had to determine was whether the defendant was acting within his powers under the Act of Parliament. An objection had been taken that the defendant had not got a license for blasting as required under the Sydney Corporation Act; but he was certain that no license was required for the purpose. The law under which the defendant was acting was an Act of Parliament passed after the date of the Sydney Corporation Act, and that gave the Sewerage Board full power to make sewers in such manner and of such construction as they thought proper. If that were not so, the Act might empower the board to construct tunnels, but it would be impossible to carry the work out because the Corporation might say they would not allow the use of explosives, and thus they would neutralise the powers given by the Legislature to the board. Then it was said that the board had no power to construct such drains as these, but could only construct surface drains; but it appeared to him that the law empowered the board to make sewers and drains of such construction, and in such manner as they thought fit, and that authorised them to make them in the manner they were being constructed now. The principle of the law thus came in that if the defendant was merely carrying out powers given to him by the Act of Parliament, and no negligence was shown on his part, the Court would not interfere to prevent him. It was not contended that there had been any negligence on the part of the defendant. It had been hinted that explosives were not necessary, and that the work might have been constructed by the use of diamond drills; but it was stated by defendant that the explosives were necessary, and that it was impossible to work in sandstone, in a confined space, without the use of explosives. The plaintiff stated that his house was shaken and that certain cracks appeared, and urged that he was entitled to restrain the defendant. That meant that, although the defendant was authorised to do this work by Act of Parliament, and was admitted to be doing it without any carelessness, yet, because the plaintiff's house suffered, it was to be put a stop to. That could not stand for one moment. The right of the plaintiff was limited to obtaining compensation in case injury were done to his property. If the ceilings fell down, or the whole house fell down, his remedy was by compensation and by compensation only. An injunction could not lie, and his Honor must dismiss the application with costs.

KELLY V. HENRIQUES (PART HEARD).

Mr. C. J. Manning and Mr. Campbell (instructed by Mr. Joseph Thompson) appeared for the plaintiff, Thomas Hussey Kelly; and Mr. Walker (instructed by Mr. Malbon Thompson), for the defendant, G. H. Henriques.

The suit was brought in order that the Court might rescind certain mining shares bought by plaintiff, and decree that there be paid back to him the money representing the price of the shares. According to the case for the plaintiff certain persons had formed a syndicate for the purpose of testing and working land near Silverton known as Horan's Corona silver claim, supposed to contain silver and other minerals. One of the partners in the syndicate was Peter Horan, who, it was alleged, caused certain assays to be made of four samples of ore said by him to have been taken from the mine, and reported to his co-partners that the result of the assays showed that these samples contained silver per ton to the extent (1) of 203oz. 13dwt. 16gr., (2) 138oz. 16dwt. 16gr., (3) 42oz. 9dwt. 8gr., and (4) 40oz. 16dwt. 16gr., respectively. Plaintiff was misled by the misrepresentations made as to the results of the assays. He charged that Horan acted as the agent of the defendant and his other co-partners in procuring assays of the ore in and around the mine, and in forwarding reports of the results of the assays, and that the sales by the defendant to the plaintiff were brought about wholly by the fraud of his agent and co-partner. So soon as plaintiff had reason to believe that Horan had been guilty of fraud he repudiated the purchases from defendant, and demanded a return of the money, but the defendant refused to refund, and hence the present action.

The defence was that whilst Horan was a member of the syndicate he was not entrusted by his co-partners with the management of the lands or the mines thereon. He was sent there to test the value of the land by sinking a shaft and obtaining assays of the ore found thereon, and he was ordered to report the results to the other members of the syndicate. At the time of the reports referred to, defendant believed that they truly stated the results of the assays of ore taken from the mine, and that they were bona fide in all respects. In any case, Horan was not his agent for the purpose of making any untrue representations. If Horan did commit a fraud, which defendant did not believe, defendant submitted that he was in no way responsible for the same. He admitted that he had refused to refund the money paid by the plaintiff, but said that he was not bound to do so. He claimed that the purchases by the plaintiff were perfectly good, and that the suit ought to be dismissed with costs.

On the case being resumed,

George Loughnan, of the firm of M'Dermot, Loughnan, and Scarr, stock and station agents and general brokers said that his firm was connected with the Horan Corona Silver Syndicate, and acted as agents for the sale of one-half of the property to the syndicate. Horan retained the other half, but gave his firm an interest in it. A portion of the half retained by Horan was transferred to them. Horan, was sent to examine the property, and his reports as received from time to time were published in the newspapers.

T. H. Kelly, the plaintiff, spoke to the purchase of the shares, and said that the first assay that he was told of Mr. Loughnan gave, he thought, 49oz. of silver to the ton. After the purchase, from certain information he obtained, he demanded his money back, and he brought this action with the view of testing whether or not syndicates were liable for the reports of their agents in cases of this kind.

John Alfred Fotheringham said that he had had large experience in mining matters. Last year, at the desire of the syndicate, he went to Horan's Corona Silver Mine, near Silverton; he was handed specimens of the lode by Horan: Horan pointed to a shaft and said that it was from there they got their big assay; there was no means of going down the shaft, but Horan gave him a sample which he said was taken from below the water level; witness also took a sample from this place himself; it was of the same character of stone as that from which Horan said he had obtained 213oz. to the ton; he was also given a number of other samples, which he brought to Sydney to the office of Messrs. Watt and Dodds, mining agents, and he was instructed to deliver them to the assayers; some of the stone was very hard, but other samples were more soft.

Cross-examined by Mr. Walker: Witness did not pretend to be an expert in mining matters, but he thought he had effectually sampled the mine.

By his Honor: The weight of the stuff he brought down was about 100lb.; there were 12 samples altogether, which were divided into 36 lots for distribution.

Wm. Dixon, analytical chemist and assayer, said that he examined certain samples given him by Messrs. Watt and Dodds; they showed 13gr. of silver to the ton, and for silver-mining purposes the stuff was practically worthless.

Charles Smith, an assayer, spoke to examining other samples; there were neither gold, lead, nor silver in them; within the last month he had examined other samples given him by Mr. Thompson, which also turned out to be worthless.

Evidence relating to the assays of ore published by the company was put in, and the case stands as part heard.

No. 1 Jury Court.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice Stephen and a jury of four.)

M'ROBERTS V. CARTER (PART HEARD).

Mr. Bruce Smith and Mr. Hanbury Davis, instructed by Mr. Dowling, for Mr. H. C. Colyer, appeared for the plaintiff, and Dr. Sly, instructed by Mr. P. V. M'Culloch, for the defendant. This action was one of ejectment, brought by the plaintiff, John M'Roberts, farmer, to recover possession of a portion of an allotment of land, measuring 10a. 2r. 32p., in the parish of North Colah, near Dural, county of Cumberland. The plaintiff resided at Parramatta, and the defendant, John F. Carter, was a selector living at Dural, distant some 15 miles. According to the plaintiff's case he purchased the allotment of land in question, together with other land, in 1872, about 40 acres altogether, known as Nugent's Grant. The grant was an original one from the Crown, dating back as far as 1823, and adjoined another portion of land, called Tunks's Grant, the area of land in dispute between the parties being about three acres. The plaintiff had occupied the land in question since the date of purchase in 1872, the boundary being defined by a certain old fence. A certificate of title issued on July 17, 1884, was held by the plaintiff, but on the 7th of August, 1884, the defendant took up a selection in this neighbourhood, which he claimed to include a portion of the land which was included within the plaintiff's certificate. This case had been tried two years ago, and a verdict had been given for the plaintiff, but the Supreme Court had since given the defendant permission to go into the merits of the certificate, and to endeavour to show that the certificate with regard to the boundaries of the land was erroneous. The defence was limited to three acres of this piece of land, which the defendant claimed was included in his selection.

Several witnesses gave evidence as to the boundaries of the piece of land in question, after which certain plans were put in, and the case for the defendant was closed.

The case for the plaintiff was commenced shortly before the Court rose on Friday, and concluded on Monday, after which the addresses of counsel were given, and the Court adjourned till yesterday morning.

His Honor, in putting the case to the jury, directed that a verdict should be given for plaintiff if they were satisfied there had not been a mistake in the original survey; but if they found it was incorrect they would have to decide and define the boundary line between the two grants. His Honor reserved for the Full Court the point as to the advisability or otherwise in the matter of grants of the Crown going behind the certificate of title.

The jury gave a verdict for the defendant.

CITY BANK V. ROBERT HENRY REYNOLDS AND OTHERS.

Mr. Salomons, Q.C., and Mr. Pilcher, Q.C., instructed by Messrs. Dawson and Son, for the plaintiff; and Mr. Rogers, Q.C., and Mr. C. B. Stephen, instructed by Messrs. Stephen and Ickerson, for defendants. This was an action brought by the plaintiff to recover the sum of £500 and interest, being the amount of an advance to the Sydney Mining Club and Exchange Company. The defendants, as the directors of the company, guaranteed that they would be responsible to the City Bank if that institution would pay the cheques—signed by any two of the directors—of the Mining Club and Exchange Company. The cheques signed by two of the directors were accordingly negotiated, and the fixed time of repayment having elapsed, the present proceedings were instituted. The names of the other defendants are Messrs. James Hunt, James Steers, T. S. Richardson, and J. Henochsberg.

The defendants pleaded that they did not guarantee and promise as alleged, and said, by way of defence upon equitable grounds, that at the time of making the alleged guarantee it was agreed between the defendants that they should unite, and should all sign a joint and several guarantee for the repayment of the moneys, and that it was made a term and condition of the agreement that no moneys should be advanced until the signatures of all the directors had been obtained.

The evidence taken was of a conflicting nature, it being adduced on the one side that the signatures of any two of the directors with that of the secretary to the company was understood to answer for the responsibility of the directorate, whilst on the other side the directors themselves gave evidence that an agreement was made that all the signatures should be attached to the guarantee document.

The defendant's case had not concluded when the Court adjourned till 10 o'clock this morning.

No. 2 Jury Court.—(Before his Honor the Chief Justice and a jury of four.)

SUTTON AND WIFE V. COMMISSIONER FOR RAILWAYS.

Mr. Want, Q.C., and Mr. O'Connor, instructed by Messrs. Slattery and Heydon, appeared for the plaintiffs, and Mr. Salomons, Q.C., and Mr. C. B. Stephen, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, for the defendant. This was an action brought by Roland Thomas Sutton and Mary, his wife, to recover compensation for injuries sustained by them in consequence, as alleged, of the negligent and careless driving of a tramway motor by the defendant's servants, on the night of the 31st January last, at the intersection of Ocean-street, Bondi, with the Bondi-road, whereby the plaintiffs' buggy was overturned, and plaintiffs and their children suffered serious injury, and the vehicle and harness were broken and rendered useless. Damages were laid at £2000. Defendant pleaded not guilty.

Counsel for the plaintiffs opened the case on Monday which was adjourned till Tuesday, when Roland Thomas Sutton gave his evidence. He drove from Ocean-street on to the Bondi road at a slow trotting pace, when he observed the motor and carriages coming at the rate of about seven or eight miles an hour. He tried to escape the collision but could not, and the motor struck the buggy with great force on the right fore wheel, and scattered the occupants all over the roadway. His wife and he were pitched 30 yards distant. To his surprise she got up immediately apparently uninjured, but subsequently she was taken seriously ill and was confined to bed for from 16 days to three weeks. She was in great bodily pain, and developed bad symptoms in being taken with fits. The baby's mouth was bleeding, his daughter's right arm was injured, his nephew sustained cuts on the back of the head, and his little boy escaped unhurt. His own injuries were cuts and bruises on the head and face. A portion of the buggy was under the motor, and the horse was lying 40ft. from the spot where they were struck. The buggy was rendered useless, and the horse reduced in value by injuries from about 30 to 15 guineas. Theodore Kendall, legally qualified medical practitioner, gave evidence that Mrs. Sutton had suffered internal injuries of such a nature as might lead to chronic if not permanent results. He had been the family doctor for upwards of three years, and always found her with a good constitution and good health, and prior to the accident never knew her to suffer from hysteria. He said the plaintiff, Mr. Sutton, was not very badly injured. Mrs. Sutton gave corroborative evidence, and Mrs. Louisa Hiley, the postmistress at the post-office at the intersection of Bondi-road and Ocean-street, testified that the tram was travelling at a fast rate, and that its approach to Ocean-street was not sounded by the steam whistle, nor was there any attempt made by the driver to pull up until the accident happened. Robert T. Orr, council clerk to the Borough of Waverley, stated that the tram was travelling at a dangerous rate of speed. Further corroborative evidence was given, and the plaintiff's case closed.

The defendant's case was then opened, and the Court adjourned till 10 o'clock this morning.

The plaintiff, residing in Pitt-street, sued defendant to recover £14, being 1 per cent. commission alleged to be due upon the negotiation of a loan of £1400 for proposed building purposes. The defence was that the amount applied for was £1000 at six per cent., and that the amount offered was £1400 at eight per cent., which was refused, and the negotiations lapsed. The plaintiff company sued the defendant, Mr. Muir, of Barrack-street, for £25 for 13 insertions in the Sunday Times of an advertisement relating to Muir's whisky. Mr. Davies, instructed by Messrs. M'Culloch and M'Culloch, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Reid, instructed by Mr. Merriman, appeared for the defendant. For the plaintiff it was contended that the defendant had signed a contract for 52 insertions of the advertisement at £100, and the present claim was for one quarter's charge. The defence was that the contract was one that could not be enforced, and being illegal could only be carried out by means of the violation of the law, that certain paragraphs which were to be inserted were not inserted, and that the defendant was induced to make the contract by misrepresentation.

Mr. Reid contended thatthe plaintiff's company could not recover as the paper was published and sold on Sunday.

Mary Thompson, 65, was brought up to explain her possession of a table-cover, suspected to have been stolen. She said she had picked it up in the street, which statement the Bench disbelieved. She was sent to gaol for one month. Alfred E. Woods, 26, painter, was charged with having obtained money by false pretences from George Francis; he was also charged with having forged three cheques for £1, £2, and £3 10s., and having uttered the same to George Francis, and to Peter Wallace, licensee of the Huntsman's Inn. Accused was arrested by Sergeant Lewis. He was on both charges committed for trial.

Mr. G. W. F. Addison, S.M., presided at the WATER POLICE COURT. William H. Lawman, 25, seaman, charged with wilfully damaging a pane of glass, valued at £9, the property of William Edwards, was, on pleading "guilty" to the charge, ordered to pay for the amount of damage done, also a fine of 20s.; in default, four months' gaol. A. Dwyer, 35, seaman, was ordered to pay a fine of 40s., or go to gaol for one month, for having made use of indecent language in Argyle-street, and on a charge of having made a savage assault upon a police constable, whom he violently kicked in the face, he was sentenced to a term of imprisonment of two months' duration, the penalties to be cumulative. Margaret Olliver, 27, and Owen Jones, 50, seaman, were each fined 40s., with the alternative of seven days' gaol, for having been guilty of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, the former in Marshall-street and the latter in Erskine-street.

Mr. Marsh, S.M., presided at the ST. LEONARDS POLICE COURT. Thomas Brumsden, labourer, for having two pieces of timber in his possession reasonably supposed to have been stolen, was fined 40s., with the alternative of seven days' gaol. Robert Craig was proceeded against by Wm. Boyd, under the Tenants Act, for recovery of possession of a dwelling; the defendant was ordered to give over the premises within a week. H. Whitton was summoned by C. T. Clarke for £2, the amount of wages due; verdict was given for the prosecutor for amount claimed, and 15s. 6d. costs of court.

LICENSING MEETING.

A special meeting of the Licensing Court for the renewals of publicans' licenses for the Central Police Division was held at the Central Police Court yesterday. The magistrates on the bench were Messrs. T. K. Abbott (chairman), W. Johnson, and John Macintosh, L.M.s. The following licenses were transferred:—The license of the Wheatsheaf Hotel, George-street, from Fredk. Morgan to Charles E. Warn; the license of the Beehive Hotel, Waterloo, from John Walsh to George Childs; the license of the Mount Lachlan Hotel, Elizabeth-street, from George Humphreys to James Robertson; the license of the Royal Hotel, Rockdale, was renewed to John Rutherford. The license of the Dungate Hotel, Liverpool-street, was transferred under section 15 of the Act, from John A. Murray to Mary Ann Murray. Applications for the cancellation of the licenses of the Haymarket and Packhorse hotels in Campbell street were postponed for a week. The renewals of 407 licenses were granted, there being no opposition offered by the police authorities. Special music permits were granted to several hotels on application by the licensees.

RENEWALS OBJECTED TO.

The following applications for renewal of licenses were objected to by the police authorities:—The license for the Black Swan Hotel, George-street, was opposed by Sub-inspector Mackay, who examined Senior-sergeant Broderick with respect to the alleged bad conduct of the house. The officer said he visited the hotel with a constable on the 18th April in consequence of a report that a man had been assaulted and robbed in the private bar; he described at length what took place on that occasion; a complaint was made by the police with respect especially to a girl of indifferent character, who was permitted by the licensee, W. Shepherd, to serve liquor; and one of the bars on the premises was not (by the police authorities) considered necessary. The Bench, after hearing Inspector Hyam, who had several times visited the house, and after hearing the applicant, William John Shepherd, who denied that any robbery had been committed in his house, but admitted having on one occasion been fined by the Court for selling during prohibited hours, refused the application. The renewal of the Turf Club Hotel, Castlereagh-street, was objected to, but ... objection being withdrawn, the application was granted. ... renewal of the licence for the Star Hotel, Castlereagh-... was dealt with in a similar manner. street, to Benjamin Lafuers, were postponed for a week. With respect to the Maitland and Morpeth Hotel, Sussex-street, the renewal of the license was opposed by Sub-inspector Bell on the ground that the house had been badly conducted, and the applicant, Patrick M'Sulles, had been convicted of keeping his house open during prohibited hours. Having heard Sub-inspector Bell, and also, for the defence, Mr. C. Bull, the Bench granted the application.

TATTERSALL'S HOTEL.

The renewal of Mr. Adams's license for Tattersall's Hotel, Pitt-street, was objected to by the police. Sub-inspector Bell opposed the renewal of the license on the ground that the applicant, within the preceding twelve months, had been twice convicted for permitting his premises to be used in contravention of the Betting-house Suppression Act.

Mr. Roberts, who appeared for the applicant, said Mr. Adams was by law entitled to the renewal of his license, not having committed any offence against the Licensing Act. He had been convicted of receiving money as a sweepstakes for a horse race, but that was no offence specified by the Act, for which his license could be forfeited. He honestly believed that he had not done wrong, and had appealed against the magisterial decision to the Supreme Court. The conviction being upheld he had endeavoured unsuccessfully to appeal to the Privy Council. There were two cases—consultations they were called—in which judgment was given against him, but although twice convicted of receiving money for sweepstakes, he had not infringed any part of the Act so as to imperil his license, and the objection lodged against his application could not legally be sustained.

The Bench said, so far as they were aware, the applicant was fined for keeping his premises open for betting purposes, for which he had incurred a penalty, which he had paid.

Sub-inspector Bell said the applicant was fined on one occasion £25, and on another occasion £30, with £10 10s. costs.

Mr. Roberts again drew attention to the statute under which the applicant was convicted and fined. He only did what the law allowed to be done openly at Randwick Racecourse, where betting was permitted, and where the odds were openly given and taken by the highest people of the land. It was there looked upon as an innocent amusement. In Mr. Adams's case it was regarded as a heinous offence, although not one had ever uttered one word of complaint against him. His sweeps were fairly and honestly conducted, and no one could reasonably complain, except the police authorities, who said that they were against the law. Well, Mr. Adams had been punished, and he now bowed to the law, which had decided that his consultations were illegal. The hotel was always well conducted.

The Bench said the question before the Court was not with respect to the conduct of the hotel, but whether the applicant being twice convicted was disentitled to the renewal of his license. He had already, as it appeared, paid the penalty for having broken the law. He should take warning by that decision against him, and not get up any more sweeps.

Mr. Roberts said there was a considerable difference between this case and that of the promoters of several bogus mining companies which claimed public support. Mr. Adams's consultations were always honestly conducted, and his house was a respectable hotel.

Sub-inspector Bell, in reply to a question from the Bench, said no complaint had been made to the police about Tattersall's Hotel, which was well conducted.

Mr. Roberts said the applicant had been about 30 years in the house, and no complaint was raised against him until these prosecutions were instituted.

The Chairman of the Bench, Mr. Abbott, said they had decided to grant the renewal of the license to Mr. Adams; but he must distinctly understand that any fresh conviction would possibly cause the Licensing Bench to refuse any further extension of his license.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

SUDDEN DEATH AT LEICHHARDT.

The City Coroner (Mr. H. Shiell, J.P.) held an inquest at the Royal Hotel, Norton-street, Leichhardt, touching the death of a woman named Sarah Williams, who, on Monday morning, was found dead at her residence, Marion-street, Leichhardt. The deceased was about 60 years of age, and resided with her husband, John Williams. At about 9 p.m. on Sunday her husband saw her retire to a bedroom which she occupied by herself. Early on the following morning it was noticed that she was not moving about the house, and when her room was entered, at 9.45 a.m., she was found in a kneeling posture between a wash-hand stand and a clothes-box. Her head was bent forward, and her face was inclined downwards, the room itself being in an extremely disordered state. The woman was called to, but made no answer, and when efforts to attract her attention were made, it was seen that she was dead; close by her side was a whisky-bottle, nearly empty. Dr. Simpson, of Norton-street, was called in, and pronounced life extinct. He also concluded that the woman had been dead about eight or 10 hours. Yesterday he made a post-mortem examination of the body, and found that the woman's death was due to heart disease, accelerated by intemperance. A verdict to this effect was returned.

THE PRINCIPALSHIP OF MOORE COLLEGE.

We have been requested to publish the following letter to the Primate, in reply to that which was published a few days ago:—

"Moore College, June 1, 1888.

"My dear Lord Bishop,—"I should have been glad to have been allowed merely to acknowledge your letter of May 10, and therewith to have ended this correspondence; but, as your Commissary has thought good to give it publicity, I have no alternative but to call attention to the main points at issue, which, as it seems to me, have not yet been satisfactorily met. The trustees, without any communication with me, and without any formal inquiry, first passed a resolution dismissing me for want of confidence, and then proceeded to ask me to resign solely for financial reasons. It was only after I had proposed a course which would have solved the financial difficulty that they informed me that they had already decided to dismiss me.

"I must still respectfully but firmly decline to admit that the trustees have made good their contention that my views and teaching have been the cause of a decrease in the number of students, and thereby of an increased debt. To quote the average number of students previous to the beginning of 1886 is, I contend, quite beside the mark. The real point is this, that the number of entries from 1878 has been steadily declining, so that there were only three entries in 1884, and not any properly speaking in 1885. When I came into office, at the end of the academical year 1885, I found only four students in residence, two of whom ought never to have been admitted, while the other two had nearly finished their course. Mr. Williams started with no less than 12 students under him, I started with not more than two; the average under Mr. Williams steadily declined, the average under me has been gradually increasing. I have further shown that if I had considered my own interests, and disregarded your express instructions, the college would have been at least as full as it was at any time during Mr. Williams's principalship. In the face of these facts, the trustees adhere to their first decision, which, as I have before remarked, could not have been formed after careful inquiry. I may, perhaps, be permitted to remind your lordship that in former years every inducement was offered to men to enter the college, for not only was one term's residence in many cases regarded as sufficient, but men were sometimes ordained without having even satisfied the principal in the college examinations; added to this, it is well known that the late bishop was very liberal in defraying the expenses of poor students out of his private purse.

"As there was thus no reasonable prospect of there being a sudden influx of students at the end of 1885, especially in the event of the standard being raised, and as there was even then a considerable debt on the college, I submit that the trustees were not justified in inducing any man to come out from England as principal without warning him that his stipend would depend on the number of students. As it was, I was not informed that my income was in a precarious condition till after I had been nearly a year in the colony.

"The trustees deny, through your Commissary, that they were in any way influenced by the deputation of the 'Church' Association that waited on them. May I ask if they are prepared to assert that none of their number had any communication whatever with the friends of the association in reference to myself before passing their resolution? It would be easy for me to prove that for months previously the friends of the association had been aiming at my downfall, and that the formal deputation was only one of a series of movements in the same direction.

"In conclusion, I also have to express my regret that this correspondence should have been made public, but, as your lordship occupies the double position of trustee and bishop, there was no other court of appeal open to me save the impartial judgment of my fellow-churchmen. And as men of all schools of thought have both publicly and privately signified their strong disapprobation of the way in which I have been treated, I shall feel no hesitation in accepting the compensation to which your lordship alludes, though I cannot but think that it should in justice have been made in the name of the trustees.

"Thanking you for the kind expressions of your personal esteem,

"Believe me, my lord, obediently yours,

"T. E. HILL.

"To the Most Rev. the Primate, care of the Very Rev. the Dean of Sydney."

CLIMATE AND CANCER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In an article in the St. James's Gazette under the above heading some very absurd statements are made about the rainfall of Australasia, which should be corrected. The writer says, "In our Australian colonies, as here, cancer is most fatal in the most humid of the colonies. The rainfall of Tasmania is heavier than that of any of the colonies of the main land. Victoria comes next, then New South Wales, South Australia, Western Australia, and Queensland."

The facts are as follows, taking the chief towns whence the statistics of disease are derived:—We have rainfall at Hobart, 23in.; Melbourne, 27in.; Sydney, 50in.; Adelaide, 21in.; Brisbane, 47in. I am, &c.,

A VALUABLE COLLECTION OF BOOKS.

A valuable collection of books, relating principally to the history of the Australian colonies, which was purchased by Sir Saul Samuel as Agent-General a few months ago, has recently been received by the Government. The collection was originally made, we believe, by a bookseller in Bristol, who had made the bibliography of Australasia and Polynesia a specialty of his business. As might be expected under such circumstances the list comprises every variety of composition connected with the colonies and the islands of the Pacific. Prominent among them are the celebrated "Voyages of Discovery," which are of especial value and interest to Australian readers. The works in this department include many fine editions of the narratives written by the various navigators whose names are household words throughout the colonies. Cook and Flinders, La Pérouse and Péron, Dampier and Vancouver are represented in good form. The Atlases published with the voyages of Flinders, La Pérouse, and Péron are remarkably fine specimens of their kind—especially so in the case of Péron. Some of the older French and English navigators are also represented, as, for instance, "Frezier's Voyage to the South Sea in 1712," in the original edition published in 1716. In addition to these works, there are several Collections of Voyages, among which must be noted the original edition of the "Histoire des Navigations aux Terres Australes," by De Brosses, a work which will always be remembered from the fact that it originated the names of Australasia and Polynesia as applied to separate divisions of the globe. The list also comprises the still more valuable Collection of Voyages in the South Pacific compiled by a well-known geographer of the last century, Alexander Dalrymple, containing the chart in which he brought to light the track of Torres' ship through the straits since named after him. Among the books may also be seen several curiosities in the shape of antique publications—such as one published in 1629, professing to relate "the history of the Sevarites or Sevarambi, a nation inhabiting part of the third continent, commonly called Terræ Australes Incognitæ"—in which the writer gives an account of a fictitious voyage to the antipodes. Books of this class are now in great demand, and in most instances steadily rising in value, owing principally to the difficulty of obtaining anything like a complete collection.

TRADES MOVEMENTS.

A slight dispute having arisen between Messrs. Dean and Son, builders and contractors, Castlereagh-street, and the Stonemasons' Society in reference to the rate of wages paid to certain men, the president of the latter society (Mr. J. Lennon), accompanied by Mr. Anderson, interviewed Mr. Dean yesterday, and discussed the question with that gentleman with a view to arrive at a satisfactory settlement. Mr. Lennon intimated that the society had no desire to act in an arbitrary manner at any time, but he would point out that some of the men working on the Elizabeth Bay job were not in receipt of the proper rate of wages. Mr. Dean said he had always paid first-class wages to first-class artisans, but he did not intend to give the highest rate of pay to inferior hands. Mr. Lennon informed Mr Dean that he was at liberty to discharge any man he pleased. Men who were in the habit of receiving 11s. per day were liable to be fined by the society if they worked for less than that amount. He would like Mr. Dean to give them an agreement similar to that given by other employers. After further discussion of a friendly nature, Mr. Dean, jun., handed Mr. Lennon a written agreement to pay first-class competent men 11s. per day, and further stated that the firm had always been willing to pay full wages to first-class men. This terminated the interview.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Trades and Labour Council was held at the Temperance Hall last evening, Mr. J. R. Talbot presiding. Certain letters and some financial matters were considered. It is understood that these will be brought before the next meeting of the Trades and Labour Council.

A meeting of the Amalgamated Carpenters and Joiners' Society was held at the Protestant Hall last evening, Mr. Morgan in the chair. Mr. Willey was appointed to act as a delegate to the Anti-Chinese League. The election of officers was then proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—President, Mr. Morgan; vice-president, Mr. J. Fahy; stewards, Messrs. Blair, Ferguson, and Fenton; committee, Messrs. Atkins, Barber, Hitchins, Gibson, and Roberts; district secretary, Mr. Greenfield.

THE INVERELL RAILWAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In his speech on the Government railway proposals you report the Premier to have stated: "They now came to a part of the country in which an eminent member of this House was interested—he meant the district of Inverell." Permit me to point out the Premier is wrong, inasmuch as his eminent colleague has not and never had any interest in the district of Inverell. The facts of the case are just the reverse; he has opposed Inverell in every way from obtaining the line wanted, and tried to foist a line to connect at a point in his own electorate. When the Assembly passed the line that Inverell wanted—connecting at the adjoining town of Glen Innes—the aforesaid member coolly moved that it be connected at a point in his own electorate, but his amendment (?) was rejected by a majority of 50 to 60 votes. JUSTICE.

FOR CONSTIPATION OR DYSPEPSIA.
A dose of DR. BELL'S BITTERS taken every night will in a short time perform an absolute cure. It is well to take a purgative at least once or twice a month as a preventive of disease; and as the BITTERS are purely vegetable, and are made with the greatest care, we know them to be the safest and most effective purgative ever introduced to the public. They have been sold in this country for over 50 years, and have in that time obtained an unprecedented popularity.—[ADVT.]

FEW PEOPLE are aware of the alarming prevalence of KIDNEY and LIVER DISEASES, especially among those who have arrived at or past middle age. It is declared on good authority that fully one-half the deaths in this country are either directly or indirectly the result of KIDNEY or LIVER DISEASE of SOME SORT.

A great majority of men above 40 years of age are afflicted with some sort of affection of the Kidneys or Bladder, and these diseases are "on the increase." Persons are often seriously affected before they know of it themselves, and thus these insidious disorders get a good foothold before anything is done to dislodge them.

Dropsy, Gravel, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Incontinence, Debility, Catarrh of the Bladder, Albumenuria, &c., are among the many forms of these diseases. Most of these are very difficult to cure, defying the powers oftentimes of the best physicians obtainable, and are pronounced by many to be incurable.

Physicians state that many forms of Kidney and Liver disease are very difficult to detect, as in diseases of this form oftentime there are no symptoms of a marked nature. This is one of the reasons why they are so difficult to cure.

Dr. BELL'S
KIDNEY and LIVER BITTERS
is a Specific for
Kidney and Liver troubles, Bladder and Urinary diseases, Dropsy Gravel, Diabetes, and all of that class of disorders.

It cures Biliousness, Headaches, Jaundice, Liver, and Stomach troubles, Dyspepsia, Constipation, and Piles.

It cures Intemperance, Nervous Diseases, General Debility, Female Weaknesses and excesses.

It is thoroughly reliable, highly recommended, works promptly, relieves at once, and was never known to fail.

TESTIMONIALS.

Gents.,—I have been troubled with kidney disease; there was also fluttering of the heart—palpitation, I suppose—and I had to lie very quiet after going to bed. At last I thought I would try a bottle of your "Bell's Bitters." I purchased some at Bedford, and took the medicine as directed, and after using one bottle I felt no more of the fluttering heart. I got another bottle, and had to take only one-half of it to be cured. My daughter was similarly troubled; had no appetite, could not sleep at night. I gave her my half-remaining bottle, and she now rests as well as ever. There is no trouble with my kidneys now. I shall keep your medicine on hand.

WILLIAM RITTER.

Gentlemen,—I have been troubled ever since I was a child with headaches of a nervous character, and my mouth was full of canker sores—so bad, indeed, that I could not eat; nor could I rest at night. At last I tried your "Bell's Bitters," and two bottles have brought me out all right, and I now feel like a new person.

NOTES EXPLANATORY OF MAP.

In the list of stations the column headed W.T., gives the state of the weather at 9 a.m., b standing for blue sky; c, detached clouds; d, drizzling rain; f, fog; g, gloomy; h, hazy; m, misty; n, frosty; o, overcast; p, passing showers; r, rain; s, snow; t, thunder; u, threatening. The next column, M'x, gives the maximum temperature for previous 24 hours. M'n the corresponding minimum temperature; R'n, the rain for the previous 24 hours. The symbols used in the map are explained on the margin. At each station the wind symbol points to the direction in which the wind is blowing, is in fact an arrow flying with the wind. A clear circle with it means fine weather; a circle with bar, cloudy weather and a black spot, raining. Next to this symbol are placed figures denoting the number of miles the wind is moving per hour. Next, a symbol showing the state of the sea; and, lastly, figures denoting the shade temperature at 9 a.m. The barometer curve shows the state of barometers round the coast from Perth to Cooktown:—Pt, Perth; Ay, Albany; Ea Eucla; CB, Cape Borda; A, Adelaide; Ro, Robe; P, Portland; M, Melbourne; WP, Wilson's Promontory; Go, Gabo; E, Eden; Ma, Moruya; CG, Jervis Bay; WG, Wollongong; S, Sydney; N, Newcastle; PM, Port Macquarie; C, Clarence River; B, Brisbane; R, Rockhampton; Ct, Cooktown. Inland, the state of barometer is given in figures at Albury, Deniliquin, Wentworth, Menindie, Bourke, and Alice Springs. The barometer curve enables one at a glance to trace the depressions, beginning with Western Australia, and passing along eastwards; northerly winds preceding them, and southerly following.

The rainfall on Sundays and holidays, when this map is not published, is in all cases included in the quantities shown by the next following map.

THE OLDEST and MOST EFFECTUAL COUGH REMEDY.
"H.M. Gunboat, Netley, Wick, Scotland.
"Dear Sir,—Having had a most distressing and severe cough, which caused me many sleepless nights and restless days, I was recommended by his lordship the Earl of Caithness to try your most invaluable Balsam of Aniseed, and I can assure you with the first dose I found immediate relief, even without having to suspend my various duties, and the first small bottle completely cured me; therefore, I have the greatest confidence in fully recommending it to the million.

IMITATIONS.
Only articles possessing some special and acknowledged excellence are worth imitating; and thus, induced by the unprecedented success of Powell's Balsam of Aniseed, dishonest traders with reckless audacity have tried to pass off on the public utterly worthless imitations, or to offer a "Balsam" of their own crude compounding. In order, therefore, to protect the public against such fraudulent imitations the well-known Trade Mark—"Lion, Net, and Mouse"—is conspicuously printed on the wrapper of every bottle of Powell's Balsam of Aniseed, and any imitation of the same is forgery, and a breach of the law relating to Trade Marks.

POWELL'S BALSAM of ANISEED.
The following letter has been received by Mr. T. Powell, from William Boards, Esq., an eminent agriculturist and land agent, residing at "Nightingale Hall, Edmonton.
"Dear Sir,—I have recently suffered much from a most violent cough, proceeding from a tickling in my chest, which no remedy out of many I resorted to could allay. My head was constantly aching, and my whole frame was entirely shaken. Having seen the good effects of your Balsam of Aniseed in several members of my family, I purchased a small bottle, and when going to bed at night took a teaspoonful in two tablespoonfuls of water just warm. The effect was immediate; it arrested the tickling in my chest. I slept well, and arose perfectly restored in the morning, with the exception of debility arising from fatigue by incessant coughing for some days previous. My cough entirely left, and has never returned. Having since heard of a lady in the neighbourhood who for a long time had laboured under a most distressing cough, and who had resorted to every remedy within her knowledge, I sent the remainder of the bottle to her, and that long-standing, obstinate, and (as she thought) incurable cough was perfectly cured.—I am, dear sir, yours very truly,
"WM. BOARDS."

6¼ ACRES OF GOOD BUILDING LAND.

RANDWICK.

The locality of all others around Sydney which, in recent years, has gained most in public esteem, and deservedly continues to grow in popular favour, from its salubrity, rusticity, and accessibility to town.

A MOST IMPORTANT and COMMANDING BLOCK
BUILDING LAND, known as
THE MOUNT ALBION ESTATE,
containing an area of 6a. 1r. 22½p.,
on the tram route from Randwick to Waverley a feature, indeed, that must not be lost sight of; and situate adjoining the BISHOP'S COURT ESTATE, in full view of the CENTENNIAL PARK, and fronting ALBION-STREET, DOUGLAS STREET, FERN-STREET, and CARRINGTON-ROAD (four made thoroughfares, kerbed, and guttered), and occupying an elevated but sheltered position in this delightful marine suburb; overlooking Waverley, Randwick, and Coogee Bay, and embracing a vast expanse of magnificent panoramic scenery almost unrivalled in beauty, extending in all directions, including extensive views of the ocean.

This HIGHLY VALUABLE BLOCK has long road frontages, and is IMMEDIATELY AVAILABLE for JUDICIOUS SUBDIVISION into allotments. The adjoining lands have already been cut up and sold, at considerable advantage. Here it may be mentioned that building levels have been taken all round the estate, and further, that the drainage is most perfect. The demand for first-class houses in this neighbourhood is practically unlimited.

TITLE, TORRENS.

HARDIE and GORMAN have received instructions to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, 133, Pitt-street, at an early date,
The above-described ELIGIBLE BUILDING LAND, (in area 6¼ ACRES, at RANDWICK.

BY ORDER OF THE MORTGAGEE.

ABSOLUTE and POSITIVE SALE.

DARLING POINT.

IN A PICTURESQUE PART.

OVERLOOKING RUSHCUTTER BAY,
and adjoining Kamilaroi, the property of Ebenezer Macdonald, Esq.

A MOST COMMODIOUS and ROOMY MANSION, situate fronting
DARLING POINT-ROAD,
occupying a charming position in this aristocratic and much-esteemed neighbourhood, where in fact the currents of fashionable life set the strongest.

The RESIDENCE,
a model of effect and excellence of workmanship, is most substantially built of stone, of recent construction, and has been finished in a superior style.
The ACCOMMODATION throughout is on a liberal scale, and in every way adapted for the reception of a family of wealth and position, and comprises
On the TOP FLOOR, 5 BEDROOMS, Bathroom, and Housemaid's Sink
On the FIRST FLOOR, 7 Principal BEDCHAMBERS, 3 DRESSING ROOMS, 3 BATHROOMS, and Conservatory
On the GROUND FLOOR, ENTRANCE HALL (approached by a flight of double stone steps from the drive), spacious DOUBLE DININGROOM, elegant DRAWING-ROOM (both these apartments open on to a wide verandah running round three sides of the house), Storeroom, Housemaid's and Butler's Pantries, Kitchen, Scullery, Servants' Hall.
In the BASEMENT are BILLIARD ROOM and Butler's Bedroom.
THE PLEASURE GROUNDS are extensive, and although not in the best of order, are laid out in lawns and terraced walks, and with the judicious expenditure of a few pounds could be made most attractive.
THE VIEWS ARE DELIGHTFUL, and THE SURROUNDINGS UNIQUE.
It would indeed be difficult to find a property more adapted for a gentleman's abode than this. Several thousands of pounds have been expended in making the house, with all its appointments complete, and the ingenuity of a first-rate architect has been taxed in rendering the domestic, sanitary, and general arrangements perfect.
The Land has a frontage of 215 feet 10 inches to Darling Point-road, 199 feet 6 inches to Goomera-crescent, 110 feet to Yarranabee-road, by a depth on the south side of 292 feet 8 inches.

LOT 1.—BERRIWA, near DENISON TOWN,

3267 ACRES, in three grants, at present forming portion of the Berriwa Run. This FREEHOLD PROPERTY together with about 4300 Acres of CROWN LEASEHOLDS attached thereto, is leased to Mr. D. These roads are fenced off on both sides by wire fencing, and the freehold frontages between these roads and the river are completely enclosed into two paddocks. The back portions of the freehold, together with the leasehold lands, form another large paddock. Altogether, about 10 or 11 miles of fencing, all wire, fall upon the freehold lands, either as boundary fences or fencing on the roads mentioned. The whole of the freehold land has been ringbarked.
The freehold frontages, between the roads mentioned and the river, are generally rich alluvial black soil flats; the remaining portions comprise generally more or less undulating red soil forest country.

TO MINING SPECULATORS, CAPITALISTS, and OTHERS.

FOR IMPERATIVE SALE.
To wind up the affairs of the
OPHIR COPPER-MINING COMPANY,
by order of the Trustees.

A Block of MINERAL LAND, containing an area of 640 acres, situated in the PARISH of BYNG, County of BATHURST, about 12 miles from the active and advancing TOWN OF ORANGE, to which there is a good road all the way. The land is also within a short distance of the celebrated
now commanding so much attention.

This Block of FREEHOLD COUNTRY was the scene of the OPHIR COPPER-MINING COMPANY'S operations many years ago, which after working for some time had to be discontinued in consequence of financial difficulties. A large quantity of copper ore was raised and treated at the time, as also a quantity—about a ton—of gossan and quartz taken from a portion of one of the lodes, which having been dealt with at Mr. Campbell's Quartz-Crushing Establishment at Mitchell's Creek, gave a yield of 1oz. of gold to the ton.

Mining was then in its infancy, and little was known of the treatment of ores, and this want of experience and other reasons already mentioned, made the Proprietors of the property at that time indisposed to subscribe further capital, and hence the mine has been idle until now, when it is deemed desirable to wind up the affairs of the Company.

EXTENSIVE IMPORTANT SALE.

ESTATE of WILLIAM BROWN, Deceased.

SPECIAL DAY, MONDAY, 25th JUNE.

CENTRAL CITY PROPERTIES.

ROWE-STREET, near PITT and KING STREETS, in two lots. Between Pitt and Castlereagh streets, north of King-street, 79 7-12 FEET FRONTAGE, side lane entrance adjoining the site of proposed magnificent hotel, said to eclipse all attempted heretofore in our midst. On it are 5 small dwelling-houses.
Also, 16½ FEET FRONTAGE on the other side of street, and having a side lane; the width at rear is 25½ft., depth at shortest 46½ft. On it is a house.

It is difficult to estimate the possibilities of value for this position; the central locality indicates that here may be the financial or professional offices required to keep pace with the enlarging vitality of business in our growing city.

CLARENCE-STREET. Block of Land near Friend's Stores, south of Market-street, at present tenanted by Mr. Walles, blacksmith, 40ft by 74ft.

At this point large commercial stores are already fast establishing, and development of price and importance must ensue ere long.

SUSSEX-STREET. (west side). LAND south of Bathurst-street, extending to a lane at rear. On it are 2 dwelling-houses, Nos. 303 and 305, substantial and useful. Rental, £136 10s.

These occupy a capital site in an active street or artery of our city, close to Darling Harbour Wharfs and Railway.

FRANCIS-STREET, Hyde Park.—Excellent situation for letting houses. On it are three dwellings, Nos. 3, 5, and 7, built of brick on stone; two have each hall, 4 rooms, and kitchen, and the other has five rooms. Land 60ft. frontage, back to a passage.

A most handy situation, practically in the city, and approached by the pleasant healthy Hyde Park.

MOORE PARK. and SURRY HILLS. MAGNIFICENT AREA of LAND, known as Wimbledon Hall and Grounds, with large frontages to DOWLING-STREET, MOORE PARK, BOURKE-STREET, SURRY HILLS, on which is the old family homestead, now occupied by Mr. Goldie, of Sydney Grammar School. Most suitable for subdivision and ready sale. AREA, 2 ACRES 26 PERCHES.

The frontage to DOWLING-STREET is 160ft., and the same to BOURKE-STREET, the depth through being 761ft.
The charming situation of this is so self-evident that comment is deemed unnecessary. A combination of profitable uses could be found for it, while to the speculator it affords a ready chance of easy subdivision.
UNUSUALLY LARGE BLOCK

KING-STREET, Newtown.—Corner of Nelson-street, 40ft. to main road by depth of 170ft. On it are five buildings, returning £130 yearly.

For a BANK or trade premises this is an excellent block, as around is an enlarging neighbourhood by reason of various allotments being built upon.

KEY POSITION in BURWOOD. Unrivalled corner Block of Land, almost at the station, on the throng or business side of railway line, with large frontages to Burwood-road and Railway-crescent. On it are some slight or temporary wooden tenements.
TO BE SUBDIVIDED.
as follows.
BANKS, HOTELKEEPERS, and Others,
also, SHOPKEEPERS should not neglect this unusual opportunity of acquiring one or more lots for the erection of BUSINESS PREMISES
as this thoroughfare is marvellously active, and a large attractive class of trade is conducted at this place, constantly extending from settlement:—
BURWOOD-ROAD.
Lot 1, 40ft. (CORNER) x 100ft. to lane
Lots 2 to 4, each, 18ft. x 100ft. ditto
Lot 5, 40ft. x 100ft. ditto
Lots 6 to 9, each 16½ft. x 100ft. ditto
Lots 10 and 11, each 40ft. Railway Reserve x 200ft.

PARRAMATTA. Allotment of Land.

In terms of the Will these properties have to be sold under the hammer, and therefore a bona-fide opportunity is offered to
CAPITALISTS, INVESTORS,
SPECULATORS, or BUILDING SOCIETIES, to acquire the position of their choice, for all these lots occupy in their respective localities first-class
FRONT POSITIONS,
from which very large prospective enhancement in values or profit may be expected to accrue to the purchasers at this sale.

MAGNIFICENT PASTORAL PROPERTY.

Fronting MURRUMBIDGEE RIVER.

KERARBURY,
about 150,000 Acres FINEST COUNTRY IN AUSTRALIA, with 86,000 FIRST-CLASS SHEEP.

MORT and CO., Limited (in conjunction with R. GOLDSBROUGH and CO., Limited) will offer at public auction, under instructions from the proprietors, Messrs. MACLEAY and CLARK, at the Saleroom of their Wool Warehouses, CIRCULAY QUAY, SYDNEY, on TUESDAY, June 19 NEXT, at 2.30 p.m.,
The KERARBURY ESTATE, in the MURRUMBIDGEE DISTRICT, comprising 120,000 acres (more or less) FREEHOLD LAND
16,000 acres (more or less) LEASEHOLD LAND, and 16,700 acres (more or less) held under OCCUPATION LICENSE.
The property has a FRONTAGE of 18½ MILES in a straight LINE to the SOUTH BANK of the MURRUMBIDGEE RIVER, extending back in part 22 miles, and in part 11 miles, and consists chiefly of MAGNIFICENT SALT BUSH COUNTRY of the MOST HEALTHY and FATTENING CHARACTER, the whole being SUBDIVIDED into 83 PADDOCKS of suitable area; while, for the purpose of conserving an AMPLE SUPPLY OF WATER in time of drought, there are, in addition to the great extent of river frontage and creeks and swamps, numerous tanks, dams, and wells.
Other improvements include HOMESTEAD, with every comfort for the residence of a family, while no expense has been spared in creating EVERY FACILITY FOR WORKING SO LARGE A PROPERTY ECONOMICALLY, AND TO BEST ADVANTAGE.
With KERARBURY will be sold about 86,000 first-class SHEEP, of good ages (about 37,000 of which will lamb in May next), well known for their large frames and heavy fleeces; also about 600 CATTLE and some 120 HORSES. The property is at present very lightly stocked, and, in good seasons, largely in excess of present number of sheep can be carried.

The attention of investors is directed to the fact that Kerarbury has been in the hands of the present proprietors for the past 40 years, and that it is only in exceptional circumstances that properties so long favourably held come into the market. The fertile character of the soil, too, and the facility for irrigation, point to the lands on the river frontage taking an agricultural value at no distant day; while recent railway extension has already brought the Murrumbidgee district into such easy communication that the trucking of fat stock and produce to the Northern or Southern markets can now be managed at any time with ease, the Darlington railway station being within 8 miles of Kerarbury.

Plans can be seen, and further information obtained, on application to John Clark, Esq., on the station; or to R. Goldsbrough and Co., Limited, Melbourne; or to
MORT and CO., Limited,
SYDNEY.

STURT'S MEADOWS STATION,
in the
ALBERT DISTRICT of NEW SOUTH WALES, situated on the
BARRIER RANGE, and ADJOINING the MOUNT GIPPS and CORONA STATIONS.

262,000 ACRES CROWN LANDS
42,000 SHEEP
100 HORSES.

HARRISON, JONES, and DEVLIN, Limited, with ETTERSHANK, EAGLESTONE, and MANN, Melbourne, have received instructions from Mrs. Wallace to sell by public auction, at MENZIES' HOTEL, MELBOURNE, on FRIDAY, 29th JUNE, at 3 o'clock,
That extensive property known as Sturt's Meadows, comprising the following blocks:—Sturt's Meadows, Sturt's Meadows North, Badjerigarn, Gardiner's Creek, and East Tanyarto; also, the Waverley Block, with a total area of 262,000 acres.
With the run will be sold
42,000 SHEEP,
consisting of about 9,000 full-mouthed ewes
" 10,000 4 and 6-tooth ewes
" 10,300 4-tooth to f. m. wethers
" 12,700 weaners
Also, 135 HORSES.
The Run is situated in the Barrier Range, and adjoins the Mount Gipps Station, which has just been floated into a company for £200,000, and the Corona Station, also recently sold. The country is of the soundest and healthiest character, and consists of rolling downs and large plains, while the feed comprises a great variety of grasses and herbage, salt and cotton bush, &c. The country is of the most fattening description, and about 25,000 fat sheep have been sold off the station during the past year.
The Run is fenced and divided into 10 sheep paddocks, and there are also three horse paddocks. The Run is watered by wells and tanks, and there is also a large lake with three to four years', if not permanent, water, and another lake with two years' water. The Run is improved, and capable of carrying 45,000 sheep in any season, but with a further small outlay the carrying capabilities can be still further increased.
At the Homestead there is a stone house of 8 rooms, semi-detached cottage of 5 rooms, large underground tank, store with underground cellar, stable, chaffhouse, &c., blacksmith's shop, 2-roomed cottage, men's hut and kitchen, woolshed for 20 shearers, with Ferrier's improved woolpress. All these buildings are of stone.
Land has been purchased to secure all the leading waters.
The stock have been most carefully culled during the past three seasons, everything inferior having been fattened and sold.
This station is only 50 miles from Broken Hill, which affords a splendid market for all fat stock. Owing to railway facilities, the wool can be most expeditiously delivered at the seaboard, and at a minimum cost.
As shearing begins about first week in August, the sheep at time of delivery will be full fleeced, thus giving an immediate return from the clip, estimated at £11,000. The increase, which is estimated at 14,000, will also be given in, which will enable a buyer to at once sell an equal number of fat stock.

Plans can be seen and further information obtained from HARRISON, JONES, and DEVLIN; or ETTERSHANK, EAGLESTONE, and MANN, Melbourne, who will give every facility for inspecting the property.
